The Universal Postal Congress.

Washington, May 5 .- The universal postal congress convened in this city this afternoon. General Batcheller, the premier delegate of the United States, called the meeting to order. Postmaster General Gary then delivered the address of welcome.

Mr. Camille Delessert, director of posts for Lausanne, Switzerland, the dean of the union, followed the postmaster general with a brief address in which he referred feelingly to the distinguished members who had died since the congress assembled six years ago at Vienna. He paid a glowing tribute to Dr. Von Stephen, whose vacant desk was draped in mourning, surmounted by a wreath of oak leaves and immortelles.

M. Delessert then, on the part of the congress, proposed General G. S. Batcheller, the oldest of the United States delegates, as president of the congress and he was unanimously chosen. General Batcheller made fitting response in French.
