The Strike in New England

Boston, January 18.-Grim determinafion on the part of both sides, coupled with a defined issue between employer and employe, as well as practically an absence of any sign of demonstration, were the features of the second day in the great strike in the cotton industry. As on yesterday, interest centred almost entirely in the strike at New Bedford, where the disturbances of yesterday led to the belief that a similar demonstration might be attempted today. Nothing of the kind occurred and the strikers strengthened their cause by making the question of fines a definite issue with the mill owners. It is just possible that an agreement on this question may lead to some satisfactory ending of the whole matter in that city, although at present such an outcome seems far distant. The matter of financial support to the errikers was generally discussed, not only to New Bedford, but in Biddeford, Saco and Lewiston, Me., and while the union strikers seem to have no anxiey regardby the next three months, the non-union who are out fear that, they may not receive sufficient support. In Fall River the superintendent of the King Philip mill, where there is a strike, went so far as agreeing to remedy union grievences, but other than this Mr. Skinner in the guise of Shylock there appears no breach in the line of the manufacturers during the day.

INVESTIGATION BEGUN

The Committees of the Two Houses to Make Separate Investigations-The Senate Committee Holds its First Meeting. Telephone and Telegraph Managers Examined-They Refuse to Produce Copies of Messages-A Sensation in the Senate

Columbus, Ohio, January 18 .- The senate committee began its investigation into the charges of bribery, made by Representative Otis during the recent senatorial conest. The members of the house committee, appointed to invesigate the same charges, were invited to be present, but they did not participate officially and there will be two separate investigations.

The committee in executive session decided not to allow any attorneys and adopted other rules of procedure. and Senators Burke and Garfield, republicans. Senator Burke was one of the leaders of the opposition to Senator Hanna. Senator Garfield is the only member of the committee who voted for Hanna and the votes taken were 4 to 1. There were four witnesses examined tonight as follows: Samuel Pentland proprietor of the Nell house; Shepperd M. Dunlap, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company; W. L. Truesdale, manager of the Pos tal Telegraph Company, and Frank P. Ross, manager of the telephone com-

Nothing new has developed during the session of four hours. The witnesses refused to answer some questions and to produce their books and oples of messages.

Mr. Pentland refused to produce his books to show who paid for rooms at the Neil house and for other expenses and was given until tomorrow to do so. Manager Ross wanted to consult his superior officers before telling who was connected with the private telephone in the Neil house by their long distance lines and he was given more time till tomorrow night.

Managers Dunlap and Truesdale were given till tomorow nirght to produce copies of telegraph messages sent and received by the managers for Senator

The investigation will drag along for some time if no more progress is made at future sessions than was made tonight. As the senate stands 19 to 17 against Hanna, with Senator Burke voting with the democrats, it is quite probable that there will be some report adopted in that body to transmit to the United States senate. In the house vote is 56 to 53, the other way and the house investigating committee may do | the report, viz: little more than look on at the senate investigation.

Last night at the theatre Mr. Skinner again appeared before us, this time portrying, and well, the character of Rudolph, Prince of Kronefeld. In the early part of the present century, the reigning prince of the tiny German principality; Kronefeld, Rudolph Wilhelm, by name, was married to the daughter of a neighboring grand duke, Edora, Rudolph cared but little for the affairs of state, and as the marplage was loveless one, appointed his wife regent, she being of an ambitious nature. The prince found his pleasure in fishing, hunting, amateur theatriwith cals, when he happened to be at court, and writing verses. The princess was completely under the domination of her prime minister, the Baron von Kanderberg, who was an arch schemer. plotting for the overthrow of the principality, and the establishment in its leaves the situation as much involved in cipality, and the establishment in its untimely death, the stockhold-incertainty as it was before the voting place of a republic with himself as first president, and he used the princess to assembled, do hereby unanimously further his designs. The willy prime minister ext ains to Edora that the prince discovers that ascandal has has said and induces her to sign a warrant for Rudolph's arrest. This is brought about by the news coming to the ears of the princess that the prince is a about to revoke the order of regency at the meeting of the next council. The prince is warned of his

has signed an oder for her husband's release and has confided it to the lady who has shown her friendship so postively for the prince Edora finds in Rudolph that for which her heart has so long desired, and he, manlike, is overwhelmingly happy in his new found love. His ds meanwhile have rallled to his aid, and the revolution is suppressed and the final curtain shows the reunited couple rulers in fact ..

Mr. Skinner posses the faculty of discerning just when his role calls for comody, pathos, defiance or authority, and just how to portray each. His stage presence is perfect, his gestures easy and graceful, his voice well modulated and faultlessly distinct.

In the second act when Rudolph refused to believe aught against the character of his wife. Mr. Skinner illustrates the high honor of the character he is potraying and in doing so renders a master piece of stage work. But at the end of the third act when for the first time Rudolph asserts his authority then Mr. Skinner shows the great power of an actor that he posand the audience last night which was a large and fashionable one fully relized this fact, for Mr. Skinner was compelled to come before the curtain and bow his acknowledgement to thunderous appliance

The play is one that does not give any particular character outside of Rudolph and Princess Edora, portrayed Miss Maud Durbin, more promice than others, of course barring minor characters. But every role in the play was handled by a competent player, and were we not writing about Mr. wouldSkinner and "Prince Rudolph" we would tarry long enough to devote to each some word of compliment.

Washington, January 18 - Today's open ession of the senate was brief. Senator Gallinger, chairman ension committee, announced that he believed the resolution to be entirely proper, and it was agreed to. The senate at 1:10 o'clock went into executive session, and at 4:45 o'clock p. m. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES The diplomatic and consular appropriatton bill was called up by Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee on foreign relations. The bill carries $7,190,008, an increase of $33,700 over the law for the current year. It was decided at the conlusion of Mr. Hitt's explanation to postpone the general debate until the had been read by paragraphs. As soon as the enacting claue had been read, Mr. DeArmond, democrat, of Missouri, offered an amendment to recognize the Cuban insurgents as billigerents. Mr. Hitt raised the point of order tha the amendment was new legislation and obnoxious to the rules of the house. Mr. DeArmond, speaking to the point of order, said he fully understood the rules of the house which were designated to suppresss, when desired, the will o the house. The chairman of the foreign affairs committee, might, he said, fee constrained to raise this point of order out he reminded the house that there still resided in its judgment the power at any time, at any place, on any bill to place what the house believed should be there. For months, he declared, those in control of the house had declined to allow the house to consider what the people of the country, without regard to party, desired; namely, that congress consider and act upon this question of recognizing the belligerency of the struggling patriots in Cuba. When the people of the country felt as they did, i was the duty of members to override these petty little rules which had been used to suppress action. The newspapers were filled daily with harrowing tales of starvation and cruelty in Cuba, Should we emulate the example of Nero, who pinely and indifferently by when men almost within sight of our shores were fighting valorously for principles as holy as patriots ever espoused or heroes ever defended. He taunted the republicans with being subservient to those who destred to prevent action on this quesautonomy offered by Spain, he declared, was a revolting mockery, a sham and a delusion. He warned the other side that the question could not be evaded or dodged; that with this opportunity before them they could not go back, to their constituents and plead the rules as an excuse for non-action. He was proceeding to denounce the administration for following the example of its predecessor in sending out the United States navy to hunt down the sympathizers with the struggling Cubans, when Mr. Steele, republican, of Indiana, and Mr. Hitt, both called the attention of the chair to the fact that Mr DeArmond was not discussing the point Mr. DeArmond said he well understood this, but he would not flinch from his purpose. He would say no more. But if the point of order was sustained, he de-

Mr. Bailey, the democratic leader, reenforced the views of Mr. DeArmond in a forcible speech, arguing that a proposition to recognize a state of war in Cuba was certainly germane to this bill. It had been his purpose, he said, to have offered the senate Cuban belligerency resolution as an amendment. The climax of his speech came when he dramatically offered to withdraw the amendment if Mr. Hitt, the chairman of the foreign affairs committee, would give assurances that the senate resolution would receive consideration within a reasonable time. The democrats applauded this chal-lenge to the echo. Mr. Bailey paused to await Mr. Hitt's answer, but Mr. Hitt the democrats cheered and the galleries also applauded. Then Mr. Hitt rose, but instead of replying to Mr. Bailey's challenge, he call-

The galleries had filled to overflowing. A messenger had been sent scurrying to all quarters of the capitol to summon republicans who were absent from the hall. "It seems," he added ironically, "to be our loftlest duty to observe the petty saffting rules of the house, no matter where they lead or what the exigencies of the time demand." Mr. Henderson, republican, of Iowa, a member of the rules committee, answered with spirit and much evidence of facility. He said the Missouri member (Dearmond) was again lecturing the house.

He was interrupted by Mr. Dearmond and the colloquy was fast and furious as to the alleged promises that the new code of rules would be presented.

The confusion redoubled as the debate

Removal of the Capital Square Fence Begun-The Railway Commission to Take up the Contempt Case Next Tuesday. Dockervites Enjoying Russell's Discom fiture-Clerk Hanna Refuses to Resign -Robert Hancook Says its: Blackmail A Slight Snowfall.

Messenger Bureau,

Raleigh, N. C., January 18. This morning the removal of the massive iron fence around the capitol square began. The fence was built here in 1853 by a contractor named Burns. In some places it rises eight or nine feet above the street level, and rests on a heavy base of granite. The removal of the fence and the sloping of the capitol grounds will be a decided improvement. It is quite certain that the arsenal which stands in one corner of the square, will be removed also. Convicts will pave the streets around the square with belgian blocks save in front of the supreme court, where shell rock from Castle Haynes will be used for the reason that it makes an almost noiseless pavement. The fence removed will be placed around the old or city

There was a little snow fall last night. The colder weather is relished. A little more warm weather would have injured fruit trees. The refusal of Senator Pritchard to resign and be made judge was expected here. The republicans are not willing to put in Governor Russell's hands the appointment for senator or to take chances on the next legislature. The farmers in this state are warned against the so-called "limbless" cotton as a complete fraud.

The bond of L. A. Bristol for $11,000 as permanent receiver of the Piedmon bank at Morganton was filed here today in the superior court clerk's office. Vice President Andrews, J. B. Munson, H. W. Miller and R. L. Potts, of the Southern railway, are subpoenaed to appear at 10 a. m., next Tuesday before the railway commisison to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt, in refusing to answer questions. Clerk Brown served the subpoenas yesterd y, but did not give out the news. Commissioner Abbott said this morning that it seemed that the attack is being directed against the Southern railway.

The Dockery men are enjoying hugely Governor Russell's worries and discomfitures. They say it "serves him just right." Mrs. Albert Watson, who in October was shot here by her husband, is dying in Johns Hopkins hospital. The survey of the lumber railway between Raleigh and Lillington began to-

The general counsel and the assistant counsel of the Pullman Car Company were here yesterday, arranging with local counsel to meet the attack the railway commission is soon to make. The Bell Telephone Company last night filed its exceptions to the commissioners' order of last week reducing and fixing rates of telephone rentals. The company will make a fight in all the Captain A. S. Peace, of the populist state committee, was asked the attitude of the populist toward the governor. He says .: "They are not hero worshippers. They will follow the for-tunes of no man." This is also a thrust at Senator Butler. Reace tays that the populists will not divide this year; that they are in better shape than was hoped for even by the most sanguine. Robert Hancock writes to an official here that he is "preparing his vindication." He says: "It is as d-d a piece of blackmailing, pushed by my political enemies to kill my influence and my character that was ever perpetrated upon a citizen of this state. It has not hurt me with my party or the best people." There is a movement to put the suit against Hancock in a different shape and to withdraw Miss Abbott's mother from it.

Assistant Clerk Hanna was at his desk in the office of United States Marshal Henry Clay Dockery today. He refuses to resign as requested. Dockery says he will keep Hanna on duty, for a little while until the case is passed on. Chief Clerk Clifford Carroll resigns and makes no fight. Dockery says he has as yet appointed no deputy marshals. He could not say when he would do so.

It is whispered that Auditor Ayer may be a candidate for congress on the populist ticket in this district. There is much interest in other states in North Carolina's road improvement system by the use of convict labor, Massachusetts is earnestly considering the matter.

Senator Butler is not doing much writing for his newspaper. Last week he did not write a line for it. At Durham today the grand jury did not take up the free pass case, so Munson and other witnesses returned here,

The Late Consul Ashby's Appointment Confirmed

Ashby, of Virginia, to be consul at Colon, Columbia, to which office he was appointed by the president last October. The news of the death by drowning of Mr. Ashby and the German consul at Colon was received her yesterday.
