WILMINGTON, N. C. SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1893.

SIMPSON ON RUSSELL ET AL.

When the editorial in yesterday's Messenger on Russell and Simpson was written, the reply of Chairman Simpson had not reached us. Since then we have read it, and the castigation administered to Newbourne, a fair-heat for his Corruptency, big Dan the Demagogue, who denounces his negro supporters in one breath as "savages" and in the next breath blathers and bubbles over in ecstasy that he was fortunate in muling babyhood as to suck the hospitable breast of a negro's wife merited. Dan is a whole crop in himself, band-wagon included. Mr. Simpson well characterizes the executive as a "savage" style that characterizes all that emanates from him. Every line in it shows that it came from a vicious mind. He meets the brutal attack upon himself in kind terms that hit like a bomb. He says:

"I denounce the statements made in your letter concerning me as emanating from a vile heart, devoid of any strain of conscience and as the imbecile vaporing of a MISERABLE BIG-AM.

"I have grown up in North Carolina during the last few years, a hereditarily of which you are one; who seek by detraction and defamation of their betters to distract the minds of our people, and gain for themselves positions which they are notoriously unfit to fill."

"I have come from these misstatements and hypocrisies. Will you denounce the statements made in your letter concerning me as emanating from a vile heart, devoid of any strain of conscience and as the imbecile vaporing of a MISERABLE BIG-AM."

"I have grown up in North Carolina during the last few years, a hereditarily of which you are one; who seek by detraction and defamation of their betters to distract the minds of our people, and gain for themselves positions which they are notoriously unfit to fill."

don. He will furnish many a theme for public speakers and he has all along been the object of newspaper castigation. The shortcomings, the 'misdoings, the abuses, the outrages, the corruptions of the present vile and utterly incompetent black-radical administration will be exposed without fear or mercy. The white men of North Carolina are resolved upon a change. They will not permit the affairs of the state to be any longer controlled by a set of demagogues and ignoramus who show they care nothing whatever for the fame and glory and prosperity and peace of North Carolina. The white men of North Carolina mean to control. Corruption and vice and incompetency must be swept away.

In the Messenger's editorial of yesterday it said that the charges of Russell must be met—not his trades and billingsgates, but his charges of democratic misdoing. This will be done. The Raleigh News and Observer, that is rendering very faithful service to the democracy in the campaign, in its issue of yesterday, meets one issue raised by Russell, and blows it into nothingness. It says:

"Referring to the statement made in Mr. Newbourne's letter to Mr. Simpson in regard to the Anson farm while our information is limited, yet we have understood that the rental paid for the Anson farm is $110 per acre, and that under the contract the state has the privilege of cutting wood without restriction on that farm, and that the cutting of wood on the state has already been used to the value of several thousand dollars. The privilege of cutting wood in such quantities is such a valuable addition to an ordinary lease, that the support of that part of the contract by Newbourne shows that in stating the rental he desired to create an erroneous impression. If his other allegations as to the Halifax farm, and about the Castle Hayne property, are equally misleading, his rook-back may prove to be more damaging to himself than to anyone else."

Campaigning by pinning has begun. We hope that campaigning by organizing will be put to trial in every township. Begin the work soon. It takes brains, enthusiasm and industry to do it well. Do not put foals at it.

Two brothers were killed and one knocked senseless by taking refuge under an oak in a thunder storm. They were sons of Mr. Dudley Good, a highly respectable farmer of Granville county. More people are killed by getting under trees than in any other way. The Messenger has several times warned against this. It is better to get in the open and lie down and take the rain. Whatever else you may do to be sure not to get a tree for protection and shelter. Go as far from trees in a storm as possible. It is better to get in the open and lie down and take the rain. Whatever else you may do to be sure not to get a tree for protection and shelter. Go as far from trees in a storm as possible. It is better to get in the open and lie down and take the rain. There are some pleasant signs visible on the political skies. Unless our newspaper exchanges are erring in reports there are good signs of returning reason and brightening prospects for the success of the White Man's party. The outlook is more encouraging now than it was two weeks ago. Of course it is going to take a great deal of patient, wisely directed work to renege the good old state from the clutches of demagogues and fascals. But it will be done. Let all who love North Carolina and are proud of its history, its great deeds, its advantages and its devotion to liberty unite in a common purpose and with a resolve will to bring back the old state to the control of the white race.

Representative W. W. Kitchen was renominated without a dissenting vote. This was strong approval of his course in the congress, as well as a clear manifestation of his personal popularity. He will have to canvass against Judge Adams, probably, and we hope he will beat him so badly that the Judge will be induced to wish he had sought re-nomination for the judgeship.

John A. Wise who was defeated by General Fitz Lee for governor of Virginia (Wise a republican) has written an interesting sketch of Lee for the New York Criterion, the very bright sparkling large $4 weekly in New York. Fitz was graduated at West Point near the tail of his class. He was wounded in battle with Indians, was wounded twice in the great war and was a major general in the confederate army.

In the ancient city of Jerusalem a large congregation of Hebrews has an elaborate and earnest prayer in the Hebrew language for the United States and the success of American arms. The Jews cannot forget the sufferings of their people in Spain, says the Richmond Presbyterian.

Great blindness prevails among the people of Spain. There are 148 in every 100,000 inhabitants. But blindness has generally prevailed in that country so that truth was a lie, blackness white and right wrong.

We noticed that even Colonel W. J. Bryan's goldbug enemies admit that he has a most soldierly bearing and "looks uncommonly well in a uniform," as the New York Tribune says. Mr. Bryan has made a commanding appearance in every arena in which he has figured in the congress. In the national convention, in the great campaign, and we may not doubt he will act "uncommonly well" if he gets a chance in battle. No man with his strong jaw was ever a coward.

The Atlanta Constitution made a great thing of the recent confederate display. It printed an edition of fifty-six pages on the Wednesday of the great display. It was most liberally illustrated and fairly overflooded with the historical memories and incidents of the great war. It was really a big thing, an achievement to be proud of.

The best papers are noting Sampson's silence as to Schley. The Philadelphia Record in big letters print "Sampson's scant praise for Schley."

The people will have stant regard for public speakers and he has all along been the object of newspaper castigation. There is a widely prevailing belief that the war department has been sectional in war—that it has steadily discriminated against the south and from the beginning of the war. Up to now, after three months and more of war not a single southern regiment has been sent to a seat of war. General Wheeler is about the only confederate who had any showing to see a Spaniard, while General Lee has been side-tracked and kept safe in the south. Personally we do not object to this disposition to ignore the south as we do not desire to see our brave boys butchered for such specimens as have come to light in the Philippines, or in Cuba. We prefer to see the north do the fighting as it is the north that has gone into hysterics over Cuba and reams of frothy sentiment have been used up in singing its praises. But in as much as the call for troops was general and the south had its regular allotment of quotas in the call, and this has been responded to promptly, it is but proper and fair that there should be equal rights accorded and no sectional discriminations. (The excuse given is that southern troops were not equipped and prepared for war, while northern troops were. Hence the northern were sent to the front. Very well, if true. But somehow the southern troops were not armed and clothed promptly and Maryland had two fine regiments on a war footing at the start and they were not sent. We believe that southern volunteers, after two months in camp would do good fighting. They used to do it in less time in the great war.
