First Class Production of la Fine Play

AT THE THEATRE

Last Night. A comedy of pure merit was present ed at the opera house last night. was "The Strange Adventures of Mis Brown," a young lady exceedingly pop ular with the audience on account o the manner in which she so easily convulsed them with laughter. The plot of the play-is a novel one. It tells about an English army officer who weds a ward in chancery against her guardian's wishes. This, of course, is a most flagrant, violation of the law and the prison stares the officer in the face. He escapes, and afterwards, i the attire and role of a young lady oins his wife at a boarding school Finally all ends well. The play is check full of ludicrot situations and comical, of the high ype, actions. There is not a dull me nent in the piece, but on the contrar t is one continual hearty laugh everybody. Then, too, the play wa produced by a company of high sal aried artists of the first water, and was staged magnificently, even minor details.

Mr. J. H. Tucker portrayed the title ole, and did it with a marked degreof success. "His growsque antics in impersonating "Miss Brown" were simply immense. In the portrayel of Major O'Gaflage by Mr. J. R. McSweeny we had a fin ished piece of acting, and Mr. Mozer was nearly parallel. Miss Lucy Moore played Angela Brightwell, the ward in chancery. She gave it realistically, and in a way that completely captivated the hearts of all She possesses both grace and beauty but above all rare ability as an actress acting on the stage was that of Miss Plorence Baker. She played Mrs O'Gallager, an exceedingly hard part to master, but she accomplished it well. In fact she is one of the brightest stars in this firmament of first-class

There were many more in the cast but space forbids us to go farther, but we will add that all played their respertive roles "bang up." The handsome, courtebus gentleman who so gracefully acted as a receptacle for tickets at the door was clever tolly Sidney Cohen, the able manager of the excellent company.
