Leneral Wheeler's testimony covered the case of the soldiers at the two im- plaints from physicians in his comportant points of Santiago and Wikoff.

He said with reference to the conduct of affairs at Santiago that there had necessarily been some suffering in possible the trenches, but that General Shafter had exercised the utmost effort to protect his men. There had been, he said, a shortage of land transportation facilities for a time and there had been no tents for a week, and the roads first time that he had had some feeling over the fact that his command had been given the fourth place in General Shafter's order for the landing at Santiago, when he had thought he was entitled to be allowed to land first on account of his rank.

General Wheeler said he had no cor trol over any of the supplies , which were taken to santiago on the transports when he left Tampa. This was attended to by the different staff officers. He only knew from conversation with these that there was an abundance of the supplies of all character. Returning to the Santiago campaign. he said that only two regiments had reported a shortage of rations and he mmediately telephoned to the rear and dent had been adjusted. There was suffering when the men were compelled to lie in the breastworks. The meat was poor and they had no bread but hard tack. The populists have issued 35,000 copies of the handbook for the campaign. Of these the republicans take a large number and the populists are making a liberal use of republican literature. The trial of Rev. J. L. Burns, the fusion keeper of the capitol, on the charge of poisoning dogs, was in progress until a late hour last night and is postponed until November 14th. There is much strong evidence. The night watchman, named Dunn, is implicated in the charge. The latter asked for the postponement, saying he was booked to attend a Sunday school convention. This has caused quite a laugh as it was known he wanted to get away to do populist and republican campaign work. The case will attract much attention all over the state. Almost every dog poisoned was a valuable one, and strychnine was invariably used.
