

A FINE OPENING Of Greensboro College For Women

The formal opening of the Greensboro College for Women, held Friday morning in the college auditorium, was attended by many friends of the institution, the exercises being of a most interesting nature.

On the platform, besides members of the college faculty, were representatives of the religious, commercial and civic life of the city, all entering most heartily into the spirit of the occasion and vying with each other in the cordiality of their welcome to the college family—teachers and students—who during the next ten months will constitute a very important part of the representative citizenship of Greensboro.

To know that on the opening day the capacity of the buildings is taxed to take care of those already entered, and that a meeting of the trustees has been called to solve the problem of overflowing dormitories, is a matter of congratulation for all concerned. It goes to show that the man to whom has been entrusted the responsibility of guiding this old and honorable institution into broader fields of usefulness has not been idle during the vacation days. He has lost no opportunity of keeping the attractions of Greensboro and the advantages of Greensboro College for Women prominently before the public. And the result, as noted above, was more applicants than could be accommodated on the opening day.

Following the invocation by "Father Betta," President Turrentine, after a brief and interesting retrospect of "Greensboro Female College," founded in 1846, paid a glowing tribute to "her daughters," who "have come as one man when the college was passing through her sorest trial, making a greater college for young women an assurance." He pointed with pride to the handsome new buildings which had taken the place of those destroyed by fire a few years ago, and with greater still to the type of young women—among North Carolina's best—who had been sent out from this institution to take their places in the various fields of intellectual activity.

The board of directors of the State Hospital located at Morganton held their quarterly meeting last week, and report of Superintendent John McCampbell showed that there were 1,328 patients on the rolls of the hospital at the close of the quarter, August 31st—551 men and 777 women. The quarter began with 1,421 on the rolls—602 men and 819 women. Forty-five were admitted during the period of three months—19 men and 26 women. The number discharged was 121—62 men and 59 women—and 8 men and 9 women died during the quarter. It is explained that the difference between the admissions and the discharges and deaths is due to the return of patients who were out on probation. These, with the admissions of new patients, keep the institution filled to its capacity at all times.

Tom Looks Like Natural. We had the pleasure of looking into Tom Bost's face in Raleigh Tuesday. Tom has been across the deep blue sea, had his pocket picked and came home a bloomin' suffragette. He is going to do white and black stunts on the Greensboro News under a Raleigh date line, and what Tom writes is the stuff.

Professor Scott-Hunter. A notable addition to Greensboro music circles has been made in the appointment of Professor Scott-Hunter, of Burlington, as professor of harmony, counterpoint and organ in the music department of the State Normal College. Professor Scott-Hunter is one of the most brilliant organists in the South and his coming is expected to add much to the musical life of the city.

No war prices at this store. We placed orders for a very large stock of fall and winter Shoes and Dry Goods of all kinds at old prices and with very few exceptions we shall be able to sell at our old low figures the rest of this year. You will again find here the Men's Elkin Home Made Shoes and Krom Elk Shoes for hard service. Walton Shoes for boys and girls, Sherwood and La France Shoes for women and the famous Bostonian fine shoes for men.

The announcement by Mr. Bennett about registration and classes marked the formal opening of the new school term, begun under conditions most favorable and gratifying. New members of the faculty are: Mrs. Siler, dean; Prof. Mortimer Browning, organ department; Miss Gertrude A. Urban, piano; Miss Marjorie Gaskins, piano; Prof. D. F. Nicholson, science and education; Miss Flora Hall, assistant in collegiate department; Miss Maudie Moss, expression and physical culture, assisted by Miss Bessie Alderman, piano, and Mr. D. Walter Smith, history of music, both of Greensboro.

Chairman Warren, of the Democratic Committee has opened headquarters in Raleigh and of course the far famed and noted Yarbrough hotel is headquarters. Mr. Warren does not expect any great excitement, but he will be on the job and take care of any weak places should any such develop.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

King's Business College A Great Institution.

We were in Raleigh a few weeks ago, and among other things we dropped into King's Business College and looked over the building and were surprised at the completeness of the plant. The King Business College runs two schools—one at Raleigh and one at Charlotte. This business college has graduated hundreds of young people—has sent out into the business world people equipped to do business, and it is gratifying to state that each year witnesses increased numbers in attendance, which shows that King's Business

PRESIDENT J. H. KING.

College stands well wherever known Mr. J. H. King, President and Superintendent, has given his life to this work. He has been successful—he has built a school of standing, and while his enterprise is private—he has done much for his state. The man who devotes a life to teaching youth—in fitting young men and women for their place in the business world, is a benefactor, and while often he gets but little financial reward—he knows he has done something better while. The King College has been a success in every way—and when Mr. King completes his life work he will feel satisfied because he has made a financial success of a worthy cause.

Remarks By Reuben

"YOU may take it from me" said Reuben as he came into our solid gold sanctum last Tuesday and looked over the papers and incidentally, in an absent minded way, swept the particular papers we wanted. "That this war news is terrible—but somewhere in the Bible it says let the fellow who thinks he stands take heed lest he trip his foot on a banana peel or something of that kind, and that is the way it looks, just now, about Germany."

"Of course Germany didn't understand that Belgium would go to a fight. She saw no sign to keep off the grass, and presumed she could walk through that country without molestation. But there was where she made the first mistake. The Belgians put up a great fight—the Liege business will be one of the world's stories a thousand years from now, and this devotion gave the other powers a chance to properly get busy. The Good Book also says that pride goeth before a fall. It looks like Germany had grown too proud. I haven't any sympathy with any of them—I pity all the brave men who have fallen—but it seems to me that if people generally would study that Great Old Book which we call the Bible, and understand that it contained all the great truths of the world, many of us would not be led into folly."

And Reuben went out and offered to bet a man ten dollars that Jonah didn't swallow a whale.

A Youthful Forger.

Elizabeth City comes forward with a kid seventeen years old who has been guilty of two forgeries at different times. The last was so clever that it looked for a time as though the detectives would be baffled. His name is Wallace Roughton—and this time he will be dealt with by the federal authorities for using the mails to aid him in his unlawful scheme.

Opens Campaign.

Congressman Doughton has opened his campaign in the Eighth district, making his first speech at Boone last week. Doughton has made a first-class record and the people of the Eighth should return him by a rousing big majority.

Cups For Better Babies.

The Woman's Club of High Point, the South Buffalo Betterment Association and Mrs. Hughes, of Greensboro, R. F. D. have donated silver cups for the Better Baby Contest—making fifteen cups so far reported, in addition to cash prizes offered by the Fair Association.

The world has to be fed while it works or fights and we can see no reason why all

Of our products shouldn't maintain their prices and even go higher. The misfortunes of Europe will prove helpful to the producers of the United States. Our new fall Suits, Overcoats and Hats are here and at no increase in price, and it matters not to us how high clothing may go our price will not be changed as long as this stock lasts, so cheer up and don't be lonesome. WAR!

The week has passed with no great battle. The Germans who expected to get into Paris took a second thought and retreated to their own territory and this Thursday morning are in shape to make a great battle. It is probable that the greatest battle ever fought in the history of the world will take place this week.

Italy signifies impatience to get into the war with the allies. Russia claims continued victories, and there are really no official accounts a matter of record. The United States has signed up with enough powers to render a war impossible within a year—Japan remaining out on account of her unfinished work in the question of Japanese residents in California. There fore the chance of our country getting into this war is very remote. This will restore a confidence that has been lacking.

Policemen's Banquet.

The Durham policemen's ball team defeated Greensboro's policemen in a very exciting game played in this city Wednesday. The visitors were guests of the local police force that evening at a sumptuous supper at the city hall, prepared by Health Officer Donovan and Market Police- man Cox. Patrolman J. H. Wolfe acted as toast master and speeches were made by city officials and other invited guests. Officer Thompson, of the Durham force, responded to the address of welcome, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

GOOD ENOUGH.

High Point Young Men Attend Night School.

The following news item from High Point is interesting:

"One hundred and twenty-five young men, managers, operators, clerks, and employes of all kinds, have enrolled in a night school which is to be under the management of the superintendent of the city schools as members of the faculty and as interested assistants. Classes will be held at night between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30, or 10, in the South Main street school building."

Now that strikes us as being well worth while. That is better business than loading around pool rooms; loading around any old place. The young man who will attend night school, who will spend his money for good books and read them, if he has any brains will one day take a higher place in the world than if he lets himself get away from him without improving his mind.

Other towns could follow what High Point is doing.

Investigation. Because it is claimed that the condition among workers in textile mills in Atlanta is deplorable Congress has ordered an investigation.

The Freight Not In It. Since other parts of this paper had gone to press the revenue bill eliminated the proposed three per cent on freight shipment. Good enough.
