DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE CITY OF GREENSBORO, AND OF THE STATE.

GREENSBORO, N. C., FEB. 15, 1887. Vol. I

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Veto of the latest pension craze---The Sedgwick-Mexico Scandal---The Blair Bill---Sec'y. Manning to retire from the cabinet 15th of March, &c.

Special Correspondence of the News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., FEB. 14,1887.

The President has just given the country convincing evidence of his admirable courage and independence in his veto of the disability and dependent pension bill. Against a sentiment to which all parties have yielded obedience, against a preponderence of opinion in his own party in which this vicious legislation has found so many supporters, against a majority of Congress in which both parties have too readily consented to injudicious pension measures, and at the risk of serious disadvantage to his own political prospects, he has permitted his convictions of right, his duty toward the people, to influence his official course with respect to this bill. If it had become a law it would double the annual appropriation for pensions, and its effect would be pauperizing upon the soldiers. The President was urged from many sources, notably from the soldier element, to refuse his approval. The veto is a remarkable message, of unusual length and of striking literary excellence. A shower of congratulations is pouring in upon the President, showing that the interest felt was widespread. It is a subject of much speculation as to whether Congress will pass the bill over the veto. It is the opinion that a sufficient number of votes will be changed by the veto to defeat an attempt to pass the bill.

The country is to be treated with what is alleged to be the real circumstances of the late Sedgwick scandal in Mexico: This threatened exposure of diplomatic frailty is to be made by Mr. Porch, Counsel General at Mexico, who was active in denouncing the conduct of Sedgwick despite the denials of the latter, and for which Porch claims his resignation has been demanded. Failing to comply with the demand of the State Department for his resignation, the President has nominated his successor, and hence these threatened revelations. It will be remembered that Porch was one of those who insisted upon the truth of the charges against Sedgwick, and communicated officially with the State Department upon the matter. Sedgwick stoutly denied the charges, and his denial was accepted by Mr. Bayard as sufficient. Porch claims that he has been unjustly treated, that no consideration has been given to his statements, that the evidence of responsible witnesses has been ignored, and he says he will fight to the end and divulge all the acts in the Sedgwick affair. There is a lingering suspicion in the minds of the American people that there was considerable truth in the charges against our late special Envoy, but we have had enough of the whole matter, and it is to be regretted that any such parade of disgusting details is to be made. It will perhaps be in order for us to hold our nose.

It is stated, on what appears to be good authority, that secretary Manning will retire from the treasury on the 15th of March, and that assistant secretary Fairchild will succeed him as secretary. There is no longer any doubt that Mr. Manning will leave the Cabinet. He has already been elected president of a New York bank and he would not have permitted this action if he had not intended to accept. But that Mr. Fairthe treasury is not certain, though desirable, being a conspicuous example of civil service reform. convention of the houses of the general assembly of Indiana, (Republican members), protesting against the legality of the election of David Turpie as U. S. Senator: Such contests in the house The Murderer of Miss Turlingare of frequent occurrence and excite no interest except from the friends of the contesting parties. But it rarely occurs in the senate, and in view of the legal forces that will be brought to bear, and the nearly equal division of the two parties, the fight will attract the attention of the country.

An early effort will be made to bring the Blair educational bill, which proposes liberal appropriations to the States for educational purposes, before the house for final action. The friends of the bill have made a personal canvass of the house, and believe that two-thirds of the members are favorable and will support it when brought before the

The senate has distanced the house in the "race of diligence" for precedence in the introduction of bills for the reconstruction of the navy and for coast defenses. The senate has already passed the "twin measures" aggregating $21,000,000, and on Friday there were introduced three bills which propose an expenditure of $38,000,000 for the increase of the naval establishment, and for mortars and heavy guns for the armament of forts, coast defences and vessels of the United States.

very backward this year. The bulk of the business pertaining to the annual appropriations, as is usually the case, will be crowded into the few closing days of the session, to the detriment, it may be, the sacrifice of important inter-

It has been decided that the senate committee on educational labor shall continue during the recess its investigation into the relations between capital and labor. The recess will cover nine months and it is confidently expected that the investigation will lead to legislation securing substantial improvement for the laboring classes.

The President has done nothing in the Matthews matter and it is not thought that he will re-appoint him in the face of his second rejection. Meanwhile Matthews occupies the position and enjoys the handsome compensation attached to the office.

The tariff muddle is in the same muddled condition and it is hardly possible now that any reduction in the revenue can be accomplished this session. It is a singular spectacle, and one by no means creditable, when the national congress having the power to correct oppressive laws and relieve the people from the burdens of admittedly useless taxation, permits motives. of a political character to thwart and defeat such

The eulogies delivered in the senate on General Logan were eloquent tributes to the man, the soldier and the statesman. It was a pleasing scene beautiful eulogy flowed from the hearts and lips of those with whom he had so widely differed, as well as from those whose sympathies and convictions he shared. ton Supposed to Have Been Seen in Mitchell County.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 12.—A decided sensation has been caused here by news concerning Walter Bingham, the deaf mute murderer. He owns land in Mitchell county, and several weeks ago it was asserten that he was in hiding there. A gentleman who has just returned from Burnsville, the county seat of Mitchell, says that G. D. Ray informed him that three weeks ago a deaf mute entered his store, and by means of a it took 35m. half second to sail it, the slate and pencil informed him that he wanted work. He was about 25 years old, neatly dressed, and had an intelligent air. He was nervous and Ray found this so noticeable that he remarked after the man left, "there is a man who has committed a crime." He is now surprised that he did not associate the man with Bingham. When Ray told the man he had no work to do, the mute asked for food and was sent to the kitchen after it. He obtained matches saying he was going to sleep in the woods. He was offered money, but declined it. Next day after he had gone Ray was given a copy of the New York World, containing a cut of Bingham. The moment he saw it he identified it as the likeness of the man who was in his store. Half a dozen men who were in the store also identified the deaf mute as Bingham, and the woman in Ray's kitchen, when shown the picture, said "that's the deaf and dumb man who was in the kitchen yester-The regular appropriation bills are day." All are absolutely certain. News was also received from Buncombe county from a man named Geo. Brown, in Leicester township, that the same deaf mute was at his house a few days after he was in Mitchell county. Mitchell and Buncombe counties adjoin.

LOST OFF HATTERAS.

A Vessel Breaks up in a Terrific Storm-All Aboard Supposed Dead.

CAPE HATTERAS, N. C., Feb. 12 .-Great excitement was caused here this morning during the progress of a fierce wintry storm by the report that a vessel had been discovered by the life saving patrol at five o'clock hard and fast on the outer border of Cape Hatteras Shoals. Owing to the unusual fury of the storm it was impossible to reach the wreck with any means of rendering assistance to her crew. All the life saving crew could do was to watch the crippled craft with sympathy and pray for the sub-sidence of the wind. At half-past eleven a. m. the mast of the doomed vessel was carried away, and it is believed all on board have perished. Nothing was discovered by which the identity of the wreck could be even

A Letter in Regard to Revenue Tax.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.-Secretary Manning sent to the House today a letter from the Commissioners of Internal Revenue relative to the bill, by the Senate for the repayment of direct war taxes. The commissioner asks that in the event the bill is finally passed by both branches of Con-gress that it be made so specific as to leave no doubt as to what is regarded when words of warmest praise and as "collections" within its purposes and intents. The commissioner thinks it would be advisable to have an estimate made of the amounts required to carry out the provisions of the bill for transmission to the appropriations committee. Attention is called to an error in the quotation already made for South Carolina. It should be $141,174 according to the report of the commissioners appointed to make examinations of the accounts. Attention is also cailed to the apparent discrepancy between the statements of the amounts of tax this place yesterday morning. It was preceded by a furious squall. Then, of a sudden, in one spot of the sky was seen a rushing, twisting, whirled the consideration of the twisting of the treatment of the twisting of the treatment of the treatm child will succeed him as secretary of ing cloud. A Suit Against the New York Herald.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.-A special to the Tribune from St. Louis says: "Col. R. D. Lancaster, surveyor of the port and an intimate friend of Senator Vest, will file in the Circuit Court today or Monday a libel suit against the New York Herald, the New York Tribune, Cincinnati Commercial Gazette and John M. Glover. Damages in each case being placed at $100,000. Congressman Glover, who has been for years a bitter political foe of Lancaster, recently wrote an open letter to Senator Vest which was given general circulation among politicians, and which charged Lancaster with grave political crimes. The papers named are alleged to have printed some of the allegations made in the letter in their issues of Jan. 28.

Avalanche Defeats Reindeer.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 12,-This afternoon Mr. E. Harrison Sanford's new lateen Avalanche, carrying over seven hundred square feet of canvas, had a four mile race with Mr. George Bech's Reindeer, and beat her nearly an eighth of a mile. The Reindeer, last week won the Hudson River challenge pennant. The Avalanche showed great speed, and much is expected of her in future
