THE CZAR IN TEARS.

He Wept When He Heard of the Danger Which He Had Escaptd.

London, March 16 .- On Sunday morning the Czar had no suspicion of any danger whatever. He had been congratulated by Gen. Greeser upon his continued safety. Both the Standard and Times confirm the statement that the Czar took a different route from the one announced. The story that a bomb was thrown beneath the Czar's carriage appears to have emanated from Vienna. The thread of the narrative is still somewhat obscure. The St. Petersburg papers, even of Monday, give no account of the affair. The Czar cried on hearing of the danger which he had escaped. He did not learn the particulars until he arrived at the Gatschina Palace.

The persons arrested in connection with the constitutional plot indignantly deny that they are in any way connected with the outrage and repudiate any idea of conspiracy. Their motto is, they say: "The people with the Czar or against the Czar." They have published a lithographic periodical composed mainly of extracts from the works of notable writers on constitutional law and political economy. The statutes of the society obliged all the members to join at the signal of their chief in doing their utmost to subvert the existing government and establish a constitutional government.

A Waterloo for Whiskey.

A telegram to the New York Times from Albany says; The friends of high license are jubilant to-night, After a heated controversy in the Assembly this evening they ordered the Crosby bill to a third reading. A mournful group, representing the various lagues, orders and combinations, who are here to promote liquor's interests, stood under one of the small galleries, and saw the highlicense procession pass by. These saddened spectators are leaning up 'against one another in the Delevan bar-room at midnight, discussing a situation in which they can see no comfort. All the indications now point to the passage of the bill in due season. Mr. Crosby has given notice that he will move a call of the House when the bill again comes up.

Bennet Seminary.

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 18, 1887.

Editor Morning News :- The closing exercises of the Cornelian Ring, composed only of young ladies, gave a good literary entertainment Wednesday night last, March 16th.

The exercises began at 7% o'clock, prayer by Rev. Mr. Cornell, of Summerfield circuit.

Address by the president, Miss Laly Black. Subject-"Economy." This lady showed that she has been making deep researches, and was successful in obtaining rare knowledge from them. The address was well seasoned and good.

Declamation, by Miss Fannie Smith. The "Lightning rod Disspenser." Miss Smith is very fluent, and spoke well.

Debate-The subject reads thus: Which is of the higher value to mankind, music or poetry? Miss Louisa Lewis struggled hard, producing many points showing why poetry is of the most value. Miss Fannie Aldman took music and discussed it with much ability and made a fine impression.

Paper, by Miss Emma Jones She makes a good editress and seems to have all the requsite qualities for that work, and was complimented by Recitation-The "Last Hymn," by Miss Mary Alford, She merited much attention and gave a good recitation.

Good music throughout - The double quartette deserves special mention,

This school is undoubtedly in the lead in the training of young ladies, how to speak and act upon a rostrum. They are taught soon after coming to this institution to handle logical questions as ably as the young men.

Bennett is a place for thoroughness. Fathers, don't forget that Greensboro, N. C., is the place to send your boys and girls to get an education. . . D.

Thursday after the shades of night came upon us, we wended our way to Bennett Seminary to witness the closing exercises of Bennett Literary Club. We had been seated but a few minutes, when the bell sounded telling us the approach of the speakers.

After a hymn and prayer by Rev. Mr. Gibson, of St. Matthew's M. E. church, the exercises, which consisted of declamations, debates, orations and music, began. The speaking was good. The debaters on Cicero and Demosthenes, produced good arguments, Mr. Lewis, of Virginia, showing some of the excellent qualities of Cicero, thereby encouraging young men to make such a pathway through life as shall be creditable as patriots and scholars. Mr. Vaughn, of the District of Columbia, in argument showed that though adversities stare us in the faces; yet a bright future awaits us. The solo, by Miss Gibshort, all was good, and our hearts said "it is good to be here." We cannot know the grand work that is being done in this school unless we visit and see how earnestly the teachers labor, that those who go out may be added to the galaxy, which shall shine on and on, until Ethiopia shall stretch forth her hands to God. G.M.W.

Editor Morning News :- If there should be a fire in South Greensboro, the steamer might as well be in Winston. because it would take only about two minutes to suck any well dry. and there are no reservoirs. Why pay taxes for such privileges?

But the people south of the city line would be quite willing to be taken in, if the whole could be absorbed, in-cluding Warnersville. This would increase the area of taxation and the value of taxable property, and the burden would be equalized. S. G.

Tax Payer Replies.

Editor Morning News: My card in your issue of the 17th seems to have struck a hornet's nest, if one must judge from the cards in yesterday's issue.

"Citizen" says I object to the engine leaving town one "hour." I said one "day." I would not be so unneighborly as to object to South Greensboro having use of the engine in case of fire, say as far as Rev. Mr Tidball's residence, if any good could be accomplished. And, should a fire break out in South Greensboro no questions would be asked whether the engine should go or not. Our noble fire company would be out there in a jiffy; but, hold! what would South Greensboro want with a fire engine and no water? Oh! I have it; that soda fountain would do the work.

"Just Once" says that "one of the principal objects in purchasing a fire engine was to make a show and parade." Well, if that don't beat the Jews! Our taxpayers must be overstocked with cash if the engine was bought for that purpose. If I mistake not, the main and only object in buying an engine was to protect the property in Greensboro from fire, No one objects to the boys making a grand, big show and parade whenever they teel like it, and I will withdraw my objection, "Just Once," and say, let the boys go to Winston, and have some fun. If they need any, money to bear their expenses, Tax Payer will help them.

Tax Payer helped pay for the boys' uniform. "One of the Company" may want more help, but Tax Payer will remember TAX PAYER.

More About Electric Lights

Editor Morning News :- "Rox" reply to "Tax Payer," shows plainly that fair to compel our regular fish deal electric light is cheaper as a street to pay stall rent, and sell only at light than gas. Now the question may arise with Tax Payer, "What will the gas company do?" Will they endeavor to make it a self-sustaining corporation by increasing the rate of gas used by small consumers so in the end the tax payer will either be compelled to pay a higher rate for his gas or use coal oil?

At the present rate we pay for gas $2.50 per m.

A gas light consuming four feet to the hour will provide a light of 16 candle power.

Now, to use this light say six hours per night; it will consume seven hundred and twenty feet of gas per month at a cost of $1.80; a coal oil lamp producing the same candle power light will consume in one month about four gallons of oil at a cost of 80 cents. Now, incandescent lights can be put in our residences at $1.00 per light per mouth such we plainly see is 80 cents per light cheaper coal oil. Another consideration in favor of electric light; all the annoyance in furnishing lights is confined to the engine and dynamo 100ms. The matters of suffocation, explosion, disagreeable smell, heating and deteriorating the atmosphere in rooms using gas being entirely avoided by electric

The incandescent light is a beautiful and safe light. We quote from the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record of January 8, 1887, page 777:

"The electric currents for incandes cent lamps are in no sense dangerous to persons—the electromotive force of such currents being too low to do harm to the human system, even through a person's body.

vote on the amendments. This is a so. Now there is a good deal of op-position being stirred up on the idea, that if we pass the bonds the present Mayor and Commissioners will immediately take steps to make contracts for new school houses, grading the streets, making sidewalks, sewers, &c. Of course, we all know this would be against the spirit of the movement on the part of the citizens to raise money to make city improvements. But the tact stares us in the face that the present board have the legal right, under the charter as now amended, to make all these contracts, if the people vote the bonds. The argument is used against the "issue," that the present Mayor and board have the intention to forestall the people, and defiantly make con-tracts, when the citizens want to elect a new city administration with a view of expending the money. We all know how they contracted for a market house, a year ago, in contempt of the petitions that were signed and filed with them.

If the present Mayor and board of commissioners do not promise to abstain from taking any steps to dispose of any part of the bonded debt, and refrain from making contracts for any work contemplated in the charter, amendments, the people ought to vote against the issue of bonds at this time. The new administration can take the question up again and order a new election. The people are tired of building stone walls for commissioners, and paying for lanes, called streets, which are opened for the benefit of a few favored citizens. Let us have a city administration with ideas big enoug for all the people, high and low, rich and poor.

LET THE BOYS GO.

Editor Morning News: As the places in Greensboro where the steam fire engine could be used are limited. le the boys go to Winston and have some fun; and then let the business men who occupy the big houses and the shantles exercise unusual care and watchfulness during that day.

Editor Morning News :- I see fish advertised for sale, (by order) at a house on South Elm street. Is this not in violation of the city ordinance? Is it to pay stall rent, and sell only at the market, and allow others to sell at their stores? Repeal the ordinances, or enforce them, says Justice.

The water pipes are being placed along the streets through which the main is intended to run. The size, thickness, and weight of the pipes, explains why the system of Water Works should cost so much money.—It comes from a reliable source, that a joint stock company is being formed here to light Salisbury by the system of electric lights.—It is to be hoped that it will be done, as we are in need of more light just now.
