WEATHER INDICATIONS.

By Telegraph to the Morning News. WASHINGTON, April 9.-Indications for the twenty-four hours commencing at 6 p. m. yesterday: For of Greensboro in its soft and mellow North Carolina, fair weather, warmer in eastern portion, stationary temperature in western portion.

-The St. Agnes church choir are practicing music for to-morrow (Easter Sunday's) services. The Catholics have services every third Sunday in the month.

-Yesterday the Benhow House erected in its reading room a new six cluster gas pendent. Very ornamental and a decided improvement in the way of light.

-Mr. Groom, who has taken the new store on the corner of Sycamore and South Elm streets, commenced neat ank very inviting.

-Any one having a copy of our paper of the Sunday of its enlargement, March 20th, also, of April 7th, and will bring it to this office, will do us a very great favor.

-" Peck's Bad Boy" was honored with full houses at Salisbury and Winston, and we presume it will be so honored at Reidsville to-night. Benbow Hall was full at its performance here last night.

-The contractors have erected a very substantial fence along the south line of the government building lot. The posts are dressed, inserted 31 inches in the ground and are faced with pine boards.

-We direct attention to Sample S. Brown's new advertisement in this day's paper. Read it carefully and after you have digested it give him a call. A battallion of polite clerks stand ready to show you through the concern.

- "Buzzard Roost," as the low stone wall around the government building is called, is a bad institution, for it is there that idlers of both colors do most congregate. As a remedy, we suggest that a row of iron spikes, six inches apart, be set into the capstone around the building.

-Greensboro Fire Company, at their last meeting, not only resolved to go to Charlotte on June 21st, but they also took measures to fit up their room, so that it may be a comfortable place of meeting. The company will again parade on Monday afternoon, if the weather is propiti-

-The Charlotte Home Democrat says about the "Jacklegs": "Any one can write deeds, without paying a tax if he does not charge for his services. If he charges he must pay the tax, as he ought to do. But we advise all people, who want good titles to their land, to get a good lawyer to write a deed and investigate the title-That's the way we do, and have saved thousands of dollars by so doing."

A Thief Jailed.

Mr. John C. Kennett, a revenue officer of the Fifth District, took lodging Friday night at the boarding house of Mrs, Watlington, on South Elm street. Yesterday morning he discovered that he had been robbed of his pocket book which contained about eighty dollars. He suspected that some one who had slept in the same room with him was the thief, and putting the case in the hands of the police he took the train for High Point hoping to overtake the suspected party there. 'Shortly after the train left, Officer Weatherly saw the man in the neighborhood of the depot. and keeping his eye upon him, soon saw him spending money lavishly. He was arrested and taken before the mayor. The man, whose name is Frank Dodson, from High Point, waived an examination, and in default of $200 bail, was locked up to await trial at the next term of court. The stolen money was found upon his

ESTHETIC.

It was late, on Thursday evening last, the court house clock had tong since sounded the hour of nine, the evening star-"the star of love and dreams"-had sunk to rest in the western horizon, the full moon, high in the heavens, was bathing the streets light, and silence reigned supreme. We had attended the revival meeting at the West Market Street Methodist church, where we had listened to a most eloquent and impressive sermon from the lips of the Presiding Elder, Rev. Mr. Cunninggim, the benediction had been invoked by the Rev. Mr. Mann. the pastor, and we were wending our steps homeward, in an easterly direction from the church, when at the corner of West Market and Greene streets, sounds of sacred music, low and sweet, seemed to be wafted onward on the "stilly air" from the direction in which the Episcopal church is situated. On closer examination we discovered that the church was lighted up, and acting on the impulse of the moment we entered the sacred edifice. Our morbid, but, we trust, in this case, most excusable curiosity. was at once amply and pleasantly gratified, for we found the ladies and gentlemen of the church choir seated around the organ, hard at work, at this late hour, in rehearsing the elaborate selections of sacred and most difficult music which will constitute so prominent a part of the Easter service in the Episcopal church. We listened with wrapt attention and bated breath, for nearly half an hour, to soul-stirring music most faultlessly rendered; inspired music, interpreting even as the prophets did the dimoving in yesterday. The store is vine significance of life, guiding the soul of man heavenward from this earthly sphere, and bearing thence to the throne on high many fervent appeals to Heaven's invisible justice against earth's visible force. We bespeak for the Episcopal church an unusually large congregation on Easter

J. M. Johnson, a travelling salesman for a Greensboro Nursery, was in Rockingham last week and swindled Mr. W. S. Fowlkes, proprietor of the Pee Dee House, out of $70. Johnson tendered Mr. Fowlkes a draft for $70, which he accepted, but when it was sent on for collection, through the bank, it was returned "protested." A letter received on Tuesday last by Mr. Fowlkes from Mr. Henry Rust, of Greensboro, upon whom the draft was drawn, elicits the information that Mr. Johnson is a fraud and that he has swindled several other parties in the same manner, Mr. Rust being a loser by him. He is wanted, and wanted badly, by his victims.

Some weeks ago a man applied to Mr. Henry Rust, who owns a Nursery not far from Greensboro, and wanted to be employed in the sale of his trees. He was fitted out and went his way. Mr. Rust received orders from his agent, who gave his name as J. M. Johnson, for a large lot of trees. He forwarded them, but his salesman could not find the names of men forwarded by Johnson as having subscribed for them. In the meantime Johnson had forged a draft on Mr. Rust, which, of course, he dishonored. So Mr. Rust lost his trees and the extra expenses incurred, and Mr. Fowlkes has to whistle for his $70, and yet don't get it back. As likely as any way, Johnson is not the man's name, but if it is or is not, he is a sharper and a grand rascal. We are happy to know that he is an exceptional Nursery agent, for those employed by our Nurseries are generally honorable men. It is not the practice of Nurserymen to pay their agents by draft. They draw their money in small sums, at intervals, and generally in currency.

The Fire Department of Charlotte sends greeting to our brave company here and invites it to participate in the celebration of the 12th anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, on the 20th and 21st days of May. The Greensboro company will take action upon the invitation.-Greensboro News.

If the Greensboro company comes it will receive a hearty welcome.-Charlotte Home-Democrat.

Of course, we all understand that a most cordial reception will await them, if they go, and the firemen resolved, at their last meeting, to do so.
