THE LATEST NEWS. THE NATIONAL DRILL.

VOL. 1

The Difficult Evolutions Executed with Skill- North Carolinians Present.

WASHINGTON. D. C., May 24.-The sun poured down on the soldier boys in camp George Washington to-day with the intensity of mid summer. It did not however interfere with the programme which was carried out to the letter until about 4 o'clock, when a severe thunder gust and shower enveloped the city and prevented further manœuvers. The wind was so severe that the roof covering a large section of the seats was wrecked. No one, however, was injured. The attendance was fair, including Secretary Lamar and wife, Assistant Secretary Muldron, the military attache of the Chinese legation and others of note.

The following named companies took part in to-day's drills: Company A-1st Minnesota. The 8th seperate. rifles of Iowa, Grand Rapids Guards; of Michigan, Company A, 1st Batalion, (colored troops,) of Virginia; State Guard, (col.) of Virginia Volunteers; Southrons, of Vicksburg; Company A, 1st Virginia and Kentucky Zouaves, of Johnston, N. Y.

The spectators seemed to think that the Vicksburg (Miss.,) Southrons and the Kentucky Zouaves drilled the best and were liberal in their applause, as these companies performed with promptness and skill the difficult movement provided by the judges who were very exact in making notes of the slightest mistakes, either of company movements or individual action or official demeanor. The rain to-night prevented the usual naval engagement which is to occur each

The military from the South makes a very creditable appearance.

North Carolina is represented by two companies, Governor's Guards, of Raleigh, and Forsyth Riflemen, of Winston. The Raleigh company, under command of Captain Edward B. Englehard and Lt. John G. Williams comes No. 9, and will drill to-morrow. The Winston company, under command of Lt. J. C. Bessent, are not entitled to enter competitive drill on account of not enough members, only fifteen being present.

Gen. Johnstone Jones, of Asheville, was appointed yesterday Assistant Adjutant-General on Gen. Augar's staff to have special charge of the Gover nor's Guards to morrow.

Charlotte is well represented here, no doubt better than any other point in the State.

Asheville, Hickory, Salisbury Statesville, Shelby, Wadesboro, Monroe, Concord, Greensboro, Winston-Selem are all well represented here today and will take special interest in the drill of the Governor's Guards to-

The delegation from North Carolina is quite large, and are doing up | defendant. the sights in fine style.

The company from San Antonio, Texas, is the most perfect looking mili tary body in the city.

The troops were put under military disciplin yesterday, and the boys are now confined to the camp. They submit to this with a hearty good will, and each company seems sanguine of success, and are doing their best to accomplish that end. The camp is finely situated on the monument lot, and is one of the most beautiful situations for a camp in the

The contests for the prizes will commence to-morrow.

The flag that was first planted on the walls of Mexico is here from South Carolina. The memento is owned and held.in close esteem by the Light Infantry of Charleston.

Secretary Lamar Issuing Orders.

WASHINGTON, May 24.- Secretary Lamar yesterday issued orders requiring the land grant railroads of the country, to show cause why an withdrawn from settlement and held in indemnity. One order applies to the roads that have had under selections of all lands to which they are entitled or have selected all liable to such selection in lieu of those lost within the limits of their grants and is made returnable Jnne 27th. The other applies to roads that have not yet informed the department to what extent they are entitled to lands within indemnity limits, and is made returnable on June 28th.

A Baloonist Killed.

OSCALOOSA, Iowa, May 24.-Wm, Anderson; an amateur balloonist, fell about 700 feet from his balloon yesterday and was killed. The balloon had caught fire from the hot air with which it had been inflated.

Just in Time.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 23 .- Governor Gordon's reprieve of wife murderer Legett reached Reidsville just in time to stop the execution of the condemned man. He was on the scaffold and the sheriff was preparing to give the signal when Col. Clifton, who had ridden forty miles at night Company of Rochester, Muskatin through the woods, dashed into the crowd and cried out to hold on. The large crowd seemed to be just as well satisfied at seeing him reprieved and cheered lustily.

Counting the Money in the Treasury.

Washington. May 23.- The count of the money in the treasury will be begun this afternoon. The following committee has been appointed to do the counting: Mr. Daskam to represent Secretary Fairchilds, Mr. Huntington to represent ex-Treasurer Jordan, and J. P. Noble of Connecticut, to represent United States Treasurer Hyatt.

Another Shot at the Czar.

VIENNA, May 24.-The Tagblatt has received a telegram from Odessa. stating that the Czar returned to St. Petersburg from the Don Cossacks country three days earlier than he intended to. This was due, the dispatch says, to an attempt made by a student to kill him on Wednesday night, during the festivities at Nova Tcherkash, by firing "at him as he rode by in a carriage.

A Brutal Murder

Houston, Texas. May 23.—Saturday William Warnicke, a young man employed as a cook on the Texas Central railroad, walked into a room where his sister Mrs. Rumple, wife of a section boss' was lying on a bed and fired five shots from a revolver into the woman's body and then coolly made his escape. The women will die. The sheriff and a posse with blood hounds are on his track. There is no cause known for the murder.

G. F. COLLEGE UHILDRENS' HOUR.

The first series of the commence. ment exercises at the Greensboro Female College, entitled the "Childrens' Hour," took place in accordance with previous public announcement, on Tuesday evening last, in the large lecture hall of the College, in the presence of a large and appreciative audience of old and young. The wall immediately behind the raised dais, at the end of of 1887. the hall, was prettily draped in red cloth, arranged in graceful folds, and surmounted by festoons of evergreen, most artistically and tastefully grouped, among which appeared conspicuously prominent, in red letters, the Latin motto: Non Rato Sed Usus. The exterior of the spacious gallery, which extends clear around the hall, was also handsomly decorated with festoons of evergreens.

The excreises opened with an instrumental quartette, "Oiseaux de Paradis," by Streabbog, most faultlessly rendered on two pianos by Misses Alderman, Caldwell, Fishblate, and Rosenthal, followed by a pretty little French recitation, Le Dindon," by the Misses Alderman and Bettie Williams. Next came a novel and interesting feature of the evening, the Calesthenic Drill, by the Primary Class. It consisted of marches, free gymnastics, and exercises, with wands and dumb bells. The whole class, with marvellous precision, went through every conceivable evolution, from the first step in marching to the final "anvil chorus," with the dumb bells, accompanied by a piano, which was concealed in one of the wings, testifying at once to the high and perfect training to which they had been ordered, and it is now duing very subjected, and the pains taking care of their teachers. This was fol- priations for this year are exhausted, lowed by a piano solo, by Miss C. Grainger, consisting of selections from "Der Freischutz," It was rendered with an ease and brilliancy seldom excelled, reflecting not alone great credit on the musical attainments of Miss Grainger, but also on realized from the us: of Ayer's Sarsaher highly accomplished teacher. A recitation, by Miss Carrie Rosenthal, was next in order. It was Heinrich

Heine's pretty legend of the Rhine, Die Lorelei,

Ich weiss nicht, was soll es bedeuten.

Dass ich so traurig bin; Ein Marchen aus alten Zeiten, Das kommt mir nicht aus dem Sinn.

Ich glaube, die Wellen verschlingen

Im Ende Schiffer und Bhan ; And das hat mit ihrem Singen Die Torelei gethan.

Miss Rosenthal's delivery was excellent for one so very young, and her pronunciation was most perfect throughout. A vocal solo, "Pour Quiton Caur," charmingly rendered by Miss Juliet Adams, occompanied by piano, completed the first part, and z recess of ten minutes was then an-

When the curtain was again drawn aside, the pupils of the Primary French Class were discovered seated in groups, by small tables, and clad in the picturesque costumes of the present women of France. A real French play was about to be enacted by the tiny Misses and right merrily did they deport themselves. The play was "La Beaute Dormante," in three parts, and was adopted and arranged by M'lle Antoinette Golay. There is great rejoicing in the palace of the king, for an | heir to the estates has been ushered A into the world, and strawberries with cream and cakes are being served to the anxious visitors, but none of the visitors received any strawberries, cream, sugar, cakes, or even a spoon, until they had formed their request in French and good, fine French at that. The baby (a large doll) was then brought in and passed from lap to lap. amidst much merriment, and in due course the princess also enters to receive the congratulations of the assembly. But woe to the princess! her happiness in the play is, often, like happiness in real life, but of short duration; she is invited by a spothsayer to turn the spinning wheel, and forthwith the whole assembly is transformed into slumbering beings, after the manner of the famous Rip Van Winkle, from which there seems to be no awakening. But the baby has escaped the direlul influence, and in the course of time, when grown to manhood, he returns to the castle, where he finds plying early, at this office, the sleeping assembly; he awakens them all by kissing them, and the former joy and merriment is resumed.

Such was the substence, in a nut shell, of this charming little French play; it was excellently rendered throughout, the pronounciation of the French dialogue was all that could be Bessie Brown the princess, and Miss Florence Pammel the lady in waiting on the princess. Thus closed, long to be remembered, the "Children's Hour"

QUIEN SABE

Mr. Editor: - Our town clock has been running wild for several days. Who is responsible? Some folks say it is because the clock is between the citadel of the North State and Squire Wolfe's headquarters, and that the flight of heavy shot and shell disturbed its movements. In this connection I would state that the Court House clock in the Government building has not been running for a day or two. Do you think the recoil of Squire Wolfe's gun carriage after his last shot caused that? or was it the sudden removal of the North State skirmish line from Squire Wolfe's fence and front steps? Or, has Squire Wolfe, like Joshua of old, ordered Father Time to stand still during hostilities?

Yours Truly,

SERIOUS. We have referred this question to several well informed gentlemen, none of whom were able to give a satisfactory solution. Time alone will solve it. The most plausible reason, so far advanced is that the town clock was waiting for the appropriation of $50,-which the Commissioners have well, apparently. The Federal approand Federal clocks may share this exhaustion.
