Mrs. Cleveland wore a new costume for every day she spent at her old college home, thereby exciting the envy of many poor girls.

John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, will soon reach his fiftieth birthday. The Quaker City press tendered him a banquet to celebrate the occasion, but Mr. Wanamaker has declined the honor.

Mrs. Grace Deems has lost the divorce suit against her husband, instituted by her. She did not even get judgment for costs. She will now become a respondent in young Dr. Deem's suit for divorce.

Miss Ramsey, of England, daughter of Sir James Ramsey, has gained a striking victory at Cambridge University. She is the only person, male or female, to reach the dignity of "senior | igin. Still, a fair business was carried classic" in the recent examinations.

"A point" as the term was used frequently in connection Manassas. with the recent coffee flurry, is one one-hundredth part of a cent. this being the smallest fraction in which dealings in options are permitted on the New York Coffee Exchange.

Of Senator Evart's five daughters only one remains unmarried. His twin sons, one of whom was married a few days ago, are graduates of Yale and were very popular while at college. One of them was valedictorian of his class, while his brother stood very near the top.

Among the visitors at the Vassar College commencement was a graduate who has made $10,000 in a unique manner. kles. This was a very exceptional Upon her graduation she was promised by her father a doller for every cent she earned by working at anything. She accapted the offer, and, entering a factory, where she obtained six dollors a week, kept on working until her father had paid her $10,-000 and broke the contract because his little joke was becoming too costly.

T. Aki, the Chinese opium dealer who bribed King Kalak aua. seems to be something of a humorist. His letter to the King ran as follows: "O Lord of Heaven! Here is a small offering, a small pig for breakfast, and it would be a good thing if my proud, the vain, the deceitful, and the royal master would be pleased the energetic, the frank, the candid, to accept this. And here is some- and the honest man. thing small, which will be laid pieces, $30,000, as your servant has remembered and sent it. So may you be gracious and kind to me," &c. Aki has a delicate way of "explaining."

In answer to an inquiry concerning the business of the Supreme Court, Justice Field for three months paid no attention to said the other day: "The condition of the calendar could not be worse, Eight hundred cases are yet unreached, meaning more than two years' continued business. There are only two ways of getting rid of this immense overstock. One is to make three Justices a quorum in all cases not involving Constitutional or international questions. The other is an other way than for both sides to to give us eighteen instead of nine circuits."

The results of Yankee enterprise in pushing the Old Dominion forward to wealth and prosperity are nowhere more seen than in the old town at whose outskirts was fought the first battle of the late war, writes a Manassas, Va., correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. About a year ago a Connecticut peddler came along, and while disposing of his goods conceived one of those grand ideas which emanate only from the Yankee mind. He rented a storeroom, had representations of the battle painted on the door, and advertised extensively in towns and cities on the Virginia Midland railroad that he had a collection of precious relies from the battle of Manassas which he would sell at a low rate. About the same time he received several barrels and bottles from Springfield, Mass., and then he was ready for business. When the relic store was opened it looked like a little arsenal. Gans and pistols of all kinds and in every stage of decomposition hung on the walls or stood in the windows; tattered battle-flags lay about in-confusion, and flattened bullets were to be seen by the bushel.

Most relies were labeled with the date of the discovery and other interesting information about the relie hunters twenty years in gathering the precious mementos. As Manassas is situated at the junction of the two railroads, there is daily a number of persons stopping over for a few hours. Few of these can resist the battle-scene and a look into the queer shop. Once inside they are sure to come away with some relies, for the Yankee can describe the battle so vividly and speak with such pathos of the poor fallen heroes to whom this or that relic belonged that only a heart of stone could hold out. Within three months after the opening of the store he had to send to Springfield after another consignment of relics, but those did not go off so readily, as rumors were circulated casting a doubt over the oron, and the Yankee is said to have made such profits as will enable him to retire in afflaence like his predecessor Dick Moon, which is why I remark the results of Yankee enterprises in the south are nowhere more seen than at

Premature Wrinkles.

Wrinkles are as natural to old age as is a full, smooth face to childhood. They are due, mainly, to a certain shrinkage of the muscles-a shrinkage which characterizes, more or less, the entire system in the later period of

- It is in consequence of this general shrinkage that in advanced life the height is somewhat lowered; that the substance of the jaws contracts, thus often giving rise, by pressure on the nerves that pass through the bony canals, to severe and difficult neuralgia, and that the brain substance becomes reduced in bulk, water filling the vaeant space. Were it not for the fixed habits and accumulated resources of a lifetime, an old man's brain would not be equal to the work which he still performs easily.

There is, of course, much difference between old people in this respect, which is due largely to temperament, habits of thought and of feeling and modes of life. The papers lately told of a man over one hundred years old, whose face was wholly without wrincase. For the great body of us, if we attain length of days, must take them with the addition of physical decay. Even the proud belle must make up her mind for wrinkles; but if, as she grows older, she grows in good sense, intelligence and kindly sympathics, her beauty of character will have an attraction far beyond beauty of face.

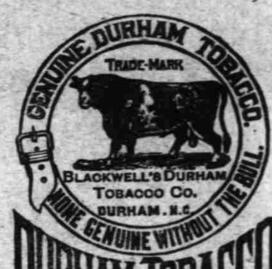

While wrinkles result from the natural working of the system, they may also be caused by a perverted condition of the system, as are pimples, blotches and boils. Now the human face-unlike that of brutes-was meant to be the "mirror of the mind," the visible expression of every passion, emotion and immost feeling. Herein is its chief beauty. Hence its numerous muscles and nerves, whereby it is so wonders fully adjusted to this end. But muscles in constant or frequent exercise in-crease in volume, strength, and readiness of action.

Hence habits of thought and feeling become stamped on the face, and we read so easily the character of the sensual man, or of the kind, the calm,

But there is nothing like care and before you. A few ten-cent forehead, and these are badly marring the faces of our American women. We pass in the streets women of thirty-five whose foreheads are more wrinkled than the brow should be at seventy. Some of these may not have more cares than others, but they unnecessarily 'eld to the tendency to express them the face. - Youth's Companion.

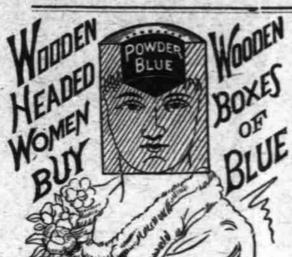

> There are few men who possess as much cheek as a citizen of New London, Conn. He rented a house, and the landlord's request for the rent-money. At the end, of that time he called upon the owner, handed him the key, and said that he was sorry, but he would have to give up the house, as the rent was too high for his means. The landlord was so amazed that he took the key, and the man with the cheek walked off.

Senator Evarts is quoted as saying recently: "It is strange that in adannistering justice the wisdom of this world for 6,000 years has discovered hire a man to exaggerate their side, and then try to find out the truth between them."

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficome to our knowledge.—Mary Park-hurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine allays all irritation, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint.

—J. B. Wellington, Plainville, Mich. I find no medicine so effective, for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It was the means of saving the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Whooping Cough I ever saw.—Jane Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn.
