WASHINGTON, July 25, 1887. Special Correspondence of the News.

Mr. Crosson, of Georgia. It is probable that the President Snaps and Growls Like a will be called upon to assert the integrity of the civil scryice reform ATLANTA, Ga., July 25 .- A trighful principles to which he has so repeateddeath from hydrophobia is reported ly expressed his adherence. Immediately the a shortage of only two dollars and a half. This count involved hundreds rible convulsions, and snapped, growlof millions, coin by coin and note by ed and whined most piteously. These note, and the small shortage, which terrible scenes and others too horrible was clearly the result of clerical error, shows that the politicans mu t look elsewhere for the "rascals" than among the clerks who handle the public money. It is a significant fact however that a majority of these clerks are Republicans, or at least appointments very facts of their retention in such honesty and efficiency. In well-informed circles the belief is gaining ground that whenever Secre tary Lamar is transferred from the Interior Portfolio to the Supreme Court which is generally believed will come to pass. Assistant Secretary Muldrow will become Secretary of the Interior. There is no toundation for the fear which has been expressed that the Senate would decline to confirm the nomination of Secretary Lamar on account of his being over sixty years of age. He is an ex-Senator and Senatorial courtesy would secure his confirmation. Mr. Muldrow's promotion would then be another instance of the advancement of a comparatively obscure man to a cabinet position. Though both instances Secretary Fairchilk being the other, are acknowl edged to be in direction of true civil

It is a fact worthy of comment that the fourth of July is becoming almost as much of a celebration in Mexico, as in our own country. Reports received from that Republic show that increased interest is manifested from year to year by the people of that country, in the spirit which actuates our own National celebration. The fourth of July might very appropriately be made a day of rejoicing, not only by Mexico, but by all the Central and South American States. Whatever of personal liberty and political freedom they enjoy find their inspiration in the American Declaration.

The President is enjoying the comforts of a country residence during the heated term. He will spend met of the summer at "Oak Vice," his su bu ban home, finding it far preferable to the White House wherein his liberties are restricted and the pleasure of living sadly abridged. "Oak View" is a delightful retreat from the almost unbearable heat of the city. The indispensable Colonel Lamont remains at the White House during the day attending to all routine works, and drives out in the afternoon with such matters as require the Presidents personal attention. About the only trips positively decided upon by the President, are his visit to Georgia and several other Southern points in October, and his trip to St. Louis which will likely be in October also.
