How those Cigarette Pictures Mislead and Infatuate.

(Durham Recorder.)

It often happens that female operatives at Duke's factory, will, when packing cigarettes in the boxes, write their names on the bottom of the box, and not infrequently they receive letters from every section of the State written by men who be come fascinated with the name. A certain young lady received a letter with a request to send her photograph, the writer stating that he wanted to correspond with her, but was afraid she was a negro. Some people suppose that the pictures placed in each cigarette box is a photo idea of catching a westerly current of an employee in the factory at and drif ing across the Atlantic to Durham, and address their letters to New York. the name on the picture, care of 'W. Duke, Sons & Co. A wealthy resident of San Francisco wrote a letter to Miss ----, stating that he was in possession of her picture and had become so infatuated that if she would agree to come to 'Frisco and marry him, he would send her a ticket at once; and gave reference as recently came here with a yachtsman to his social standing. A young lawyer of New York wrote a siminamed Wm; Millwood for a days fishing. They soon filled their boat with lar letter. The following letter is but a fair sample of those almost daily bluefish, weakfish, sheepsheads, &c. While thus engaged a menhaded fish-

Few Facilities for Bathing.

Statistics collected by Dr. Rhoe show that five-sixths of the inhabitants of all cities in this country have no facilities for bathing, except such as are affored by a pail and a sponge, or an easily accessible river, lake, or some other body of water. The establishment of public baths, is urgently recommended both as a sanitary and a moral measure. Tub or pool baths are objectionable both on account of the expense and lack of privacy in the latter. The spray bath, in use in the Feench and German army barracks, are recommended. These are not at all expensive, either in the first cost or the administration, and allow each bather absolute privacy, and the opportunity for a thorough cleansing in clean water. Public baths should be during the summer months.- Boston

The "Charlotte Observer" No More.

The office of the Charlotte Observer was yesterday closed up and the business of the office was suspended. Nearly all the printers formerly employed in that office have found employment elsewhere, and several of them have arranged to embark in an enterprise of their own. Col. Jones said yesterday that he proposed "to resurrect the Observer sometime," That office has been in a hard way for several months past, and the failure of the Observer does not seem to create much surprise among our people though expressions of sympathy for Col. Jones are not lacking. The fate of the Observer is a natural result of the political course pursued by its editor in the past few years, though other causes have contributed to it.-Charlotte Chronicle.
