Effects of Alcohol Upon Health. As to the effect of alcohol upon human health and vigor, so fearful is the record, and so repeated and almost universal is the testithat we need not to repeat much o it. /Perhaps the most convincing recent evi-dence is that of the returns of vital statistics of the Registrar-General of England and of the Registrar-General of England and Wales, for the ten years from 1870 to 1880 in-clusive. These are contained in the supple-ment of the Forty-fifth Annual Report (1880), in which are tabulated the facts as to two million six hundred and seventy-nine thou-sand four hundred and sixteen deaths. These are the results of unimpassioned figures, gath-, and cutside of the records of Reform Socie-tion.

ties: "The mortality of men who are directly concerned in the liquor trade, as brewer, inn-keepers, publicans, inn and hotel servants, and malsters, is appalling. The companitive mortality figures are as follows, 1,000 eing used as a standard: Brewers, 1,361; all leal-ers in spirits, wines, or beer, 1,521; inn and hotel servants, 2,205. For malsters, who are only concerned with the materials and not with the liquor itself, the figure is 830." with the liquor itself, the figure is 830."

The report proceeds as follows: "It is well, whenever the opportunity offers itself, to test the accuracy of our death ates by comparison with data derived from nde-pendent sources, and in the case of the innpendent sources, and in the case of the inn-keepers and publicans such comparison is possible. By the experience of the Sottish Amicable Life Assurance Society (182:1876), the mortality of males occupied in the busi-ness was sixty eight per cent. in excess of the actuaries or healthy male table, and orty-nine per cent in excess of English lifetable. The result tallies very closely with figures in our table, where it appears that the mortality of the innkcepers and publicans is fifty-two per cent. above the present mortality of all males.

cent, above the present mortality of an males. "That this terrible mortality is attributed to drink might be safely assumed coriori, but the figures render it incontestate. The mortality attributed to alcoholia is far higher for imkeepers and publices than for any other industry, and more that five times as high at the average; that for orewers falls far short of this, but neverthees is the next highers to that of imkeepers with the single exception of cabmen. Under the heading, "Liver Diseases," the mortality of im-keepers is no less than six times as high as the average, and more than twice as high as that of brewers, and of butchers, who come next in order in this respect to innkeepers. -Indiana 3,217,711 to previous your of the result of the average industry of the previous of the average industry and more than twice as high as that of brewers, and of butchers, who come

He Stopped the Fight. Tresident Bartlett, of Dartmouth College, is a man over 70, but he says here can't be any "rush" between reshmen and sophomores while he is yound. The other day there was a struggle between the two classes on the college campus for the possession of a foot-ball. The president saw it from the library window and he rushed out and into the thickest of the fray, ierking and bugging at the fighting tudents and shouting at them to stop. The boys on such occasions are always ready to encourage true merit, so they yelled "Go in, Prex!" "Get onto your ball" etc. all!" etc.

"Be men!" cried the president, as he pulled a sophomore off from a fresh-man by the coat tails. "Chestnuts!" shouted another. The president tug-ged, threatened and implored until he was nearly exhausted with the exertion, when the row stopped. His fur-ther remarks were inaudiple for want of breath, and were mainly delivered in pantomime, with his hat jammed down over one eye. When a lot of eager and sinewy stu-dents get struggling over a foot-ball it isn't a very good place for an elderly professor with short breath. He might as well calmly observe the fight from the library window and give the boys "a talking to" afterwards. Active interference can only be indulged at the expense of official dignity.-Texas Sift-

A Startling Question.

Even the life of a newspaper canvas-ser is not totally devoid of poetry. The unending round of "Times is so hard and money is so scarce that we can't take a paper," and "My husband brings a paper home with him," and all the stock excuses, are sometimes broken up by a little incident like this, that was told by a man who labors in that ungrateful position: "The delivery boy had gone a little ahead of me," said the canvasser, "and as I stood on the sidewalk a pretty little boy in kilts toddled up and stared at me with pretty blue eyes. I made friends with him at once. He put his hand on my order-book and says he:

"Hot's at?" "That's an order-book," I told him. "Hot does oo do wiv 'at?" "Oh, I write down the names of all the bad little boys I know." He looked at me a minute with his big eyes opened wide. Then, his voice hushed with awe, he asked:

When about twenty three years of age, Beach commenced rowing on the Illawarns Lakes against local competitors, and from the outset kept winning until gradually handi-capped out of all races. another two mile walk and a second pull over the course, during which he rows him-self right out, eases off, and then pulls again. A long walk concludes the day. A man under such physical strain, even though he be a giant, must often feel the failure of his strength to his will, and, power-ful though he be, it is not surprising that Mr. Beach candidly states that during his train-ing, previous to meeting Edward Hanlan the second time for the world's championship, his trainer bought for him Warner's safe cure, and he says: "I was agreeably aston-ished at the great benefit which followed its use." In addition, the statisticians say that the excessive mortality in many other callings, as that of cabmen, etc., is one to be ac-counted for by the use of alcoholic liquids, although this is not stated as the cause. Here are some of the statistical comments: "Commercial travelers, who lead mostly an out-of-door existence, have a mortality of 948. That a very considerable proportion of the mortality is due to this cause is apparent when it is noticed that, under theheadings." "Memortality is due to this cause is apparent when it is noticed that, under theheadings." "Alcoholism," "Liver Disease," "Gout," "Suicide," the mortality figures for this oc-cupation come very high up on the list. In different persons different organs seem to feel the severity of the disturbance, but all are more or less weakened. Anthorities may differ in their estimate of causes which have produced embarrassing and finally fatal changes in various secreting and excreting organs; but we believe no one has yet been found to dispute the un-rivaled capacity of alcohol to produce irri-tative and degenerative changes in the minute capillary circulation on which the integrity and ability of the vital organs depend. It is essentially a dis-turber of the rhythm and the function of the blood-flow.-Ladependent.

A Change Taking Place.

In two recent articles in the New York Independent, Dr. Ezra M. Hunt, its sanitary Independent, Dr. Ezra M. Hunt, its sanitary editor, invites attention to the general awakening of the public and legislative mind as to the evils of alcohol in its use as a bever-rge—an awakening not confined to our own country, but including notably Germany, Switzerland, and France. He chronicles the fact that the recent session of the Alcohol Congress at Zurich commanded the attend-ance of many leading physicians and states Congress at Zurich commanded the attend-ance of many leading physicians and states-men of Europs; and that there was a unan-imous conclusion denying the claims of a 'co-hol to alimentary value. He also shows that there is a marked change going on in the medical profession concerning the medical use of alcohol, that the conviction is becom-ing generally prevalent that, as compared with an earlier nericed area in the tractory of the tracto with an earlier period, even in the treatment of disease, the occasion for its use is greatly restricted.-National Advocate.

SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE.—Dull, heavy beadache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive mat-ter, together with scabs from ulcers; the volce is changed and has a "nasal twang"; the breath is offensive; smell and taste impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depres-sion, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No discuse is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians.

CHIEF RELIANCE. In curing catarrh and all the various diseases with which is is so frequently complicated, as throat, bronchial, and lung diseases, weak stomach, ca-tarrhal deafness, weak or inflamed eyes, impure blood, scrofulous and syphilitic taints, the wonder-ful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Med-ful powers and virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Med-tarthe to strongly extended. It has a specific effect upon the lining mucous membranes of the name air-passages, promoting the natural secretion of their fol-glands, thereby softening the diseased and thickened m and restoring it to its natural, thin, delicate, moist, hes dition. As a blood-purifier, it is unsurpassed. As those which complicate catarth are diseases of the lining muco branes, or of the blood, it will readily be seen why this is so well calculated to cure them.

The Cutest Little Things. "Cute!" he echoed. "Well I don't know as the adjective would have occurred to me in ust that connection. But if you mean that h y do their work thoroughly, set make no uss about it; cause no pain or weakness; and, n short, are verything that a pill ought to be, ind nothing that it ought to then I agree that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are about the cutest little things going! COMMON SERSE TREATMENT. If you would remove an evil, strike at its root. As the predisposing or real cause of catarrh is, in the majority of cases, some weakness, impurity, or otherwise faulty condition of the system, in attempting to cure the disease our chief aim must be odious disease, and we treat successfully thousands of cases an-nually at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, the more do we realize the importance of combining with the use of a local, soothing and healing application, a thorough and persistent inter-nal use of blood-cleansing and tonio medicines. "All I want," said the opera singer, "is totes for notes; large notes for high notes." To the Editor:-Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy. aure ma tew m es, 111 a recent 1550 lecture is brief, and the lines are so few that they might be cut out by many a you is in in of bright prospects and pasted in the in id. of his watch case. Here they are:

"Whisky sometimes gets the best of those who too recklessly play with it. This is the case with Mr. John J. Wilson, a lawyer, who recently walked into Justice Kildredth's court room at the Tombs and desire 1 to be committed for contempt for so doing. When the Justice asked Mr. Wilson it he desired to be committed, he said:

"Yes, I want to be kept away from liquor. It has been my ruin.

It has been my run. "It is not easy to deliver a more eloquent and pathetic temperance lecture than this And after the poor victim has been confined in prison for a month the appetite for drink will control him as effectually as before he was locked up."

A Good Law.

The Rev. William H. Williams, of St. Louis, says in the G obe-Democrat : "In a certain town in Germany it is against the law to grant a marriage license to an habit-nal drunkard. If such a thing were attempnal drunkard. If such a thing were attempted in this country we would hear an agonized wall about "sumptuary laws," and yet i destre to ask whether any law which protects our women from blighted lives is wrong? Our only tear, however, of difficulty in the administration of the law would be from woman herself. Alas! how many a ble girl, blinded by love, has linked her life that of a drunkard."

seems that a thirteen-year-old girl died under such peruliar circumstances that an inquest was considered necessary. This inquest brought to light the fact that the girl had been assulted, and a physician testifie i that the assault had caused her death. The evi-dence pointed to Waldrop as the guilty party. dence pointed to waidrop as the guilty party. He was arrested but proclaimed his inno-cence. The constables attempted to drive on, but the negroes in the crowd held the mule and others took Waldrop from the buggy and carried him off int; the woods. The other constable drove furiously back to Central. One of the negroes shot at him a number of times, but did not succeed in wounding him fatally. Attracted by the noise of the shoot ing, a party of citizens living in the vicinity hastened to the scene. On their arrival the negroes fied. They returned in a short while, however, an 1 ordered the whites who had come up to clear away, as they were going to fire again. The white men retired, being unarmed and without any means of defense. Waldrop was then dragge t to a convenient tree and swung into the air. Several hours afterwards the body was found. It is ru-mored that the negroes were instigated by white men to lynch Waldrop.
