NO MORE POLYGAMY.

The Majority of the Mormon Leaders in Favor of Abolishing It.

President Woodruff Exerts the People to Live Pure Lives and to Abstain From Having Plural

The annual conference of the Mormon church, which has closed a four day's session at Salt Lake City, brought people from all states and territories where there are Mormons. The feature of the occasion was an spistle, signed by Wilford Woodruff, in behalf of the twelve apostles, which differs materially in tone from similar papers issued by his predecessor. It is an exhortation to the people to live pure lives, being simply such an epistle as any bishop or pastor of a Christian congregation might present to his flock. The late president, John Taylor, used to make use of these epistles to advocate polygamy, and argue its rightfulness by references to the Old Testament and the alleged Mormon revelations, but President Woodruff has ignored the subjecet, evidently being deterignored the subjecet, evidently being determined to keep the church in line with the movement inaugurated a year ago to abolish the plural wife system. A significant circumstance is the fact that during the conference a young elder from the county named Clawson, being called to the pulpit, spoke in favor of continuing the practice of polygamy, ever since which deep indignation has been expressed by the public, and interviews with leading Mormons proves that they are deeply chagrined by the young man's reckless and unauthorized utterances as others. The elder is openly censured, and his advocacy of polygamy denounced by prominent churchmen, as well as by the public, which believed that in view of the fact that the practice had not been preached fact that the practice had not been preached since the adoption last year of the proposed state constitution forbidding it, that the last of its advocacy had been heard. The sensation which Clawson's utterances occasioned and the earnestness with which his discourse is condemned and repudiated, go far to prove that the Mormons are sincere in their declarations in the press and on the witness stand that they have abandoned polygamv. The absence of any mention of it in Mr. Woodruff's epistle is favorably com-mented on by the masses of Mormons and by the gentiles, who begin to believe that the saints are sincere in their professions—especially as there is no evidence of a polygamous marriage having taken place for more than a year. The real estate and immigration booms continue. The Mormons and Gentiles are working harmoneously to bring in people and give an impetus to the growth and development of Salt Lake City.

George Burton, a well to do citizen, quarrelled with his wife and turned her out of the hous. He went to Pittsburg and retured, bringing with him a dashing widow named Fenton, who at his request had come on from Trenton, N. J. She was installed in the house, and when Mrs. Burton applied for admittance sha was sent away, her husband telling her, it is alleged, "that he has somebody else to care for

The report spread around and the female neighbors determined to revenge the wife's wrongs. After ten o'clock about three hundred of the fair sex, armed with rotten eggs, dred of the fair sex, armed with rotten eggs, assaulted the house and beat the doors open. Burton and the women were dragged out and the man was chased several blocks while rotten eggs flew after him.

The widow was pounded and pummelled and at last fell in the street, where the irate females kicked her about. The situation was becoming serious when the Marshal appeared and rescued her. The mob gathered in num-bers, however, and both Burton and the woman were locked up for safe keeping. The women then ransacked the house, and it looked as if a cyclone had struck it. All the forenoon hundreds of women gathered around the City Jail, armed with rotten eggs, and vowed that they would keep watch for Mrs. Fenton and would rotten egg her out of town. Late in the afternoon officers escorted the woman to the depot, where she took a train for her home in New Jersey. The man is still in jail for safe keeping.

Both were badly injured and were taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where the physician in charge declared that the mother could not live and that the child would probably die. Mrs. Schulberg is the mother of eight children, the oldest being a girl of about eighteen and the youngest the baby with which she fell. The Burlington Road Charged With a Concealment of Casualties.

It is asserted by the Daily News of Chicago that a dozen serious accidents have occurred to the new men who are handling Chicago, Burlington and Quincy rolling stock, but that in every instance these cases have been suppressed and even kept from the police. An investigation made sho s that William Slyte, a switchman, was killed by an engine at Sixteenth and Wood streets. At Hawthorn, a suburban station, Charles Reed, another switchman, bad his hip dislocated and a foot cut off. It is claimed another man was killed in the lumber district by an engine and his body carried away by an express wagon, and that at Hawthorn another man was killed of which the authorities received no information.

Treed by a Mad Elephant.

The first elephant which charged me was the most vicious beast I over had to deal with. I had wounded him severely one moonlight night as he stood drinking at a pool with five or six others. They all went off with a rush and I supposed my shot had failed. About 10 o'clock next forenoon, as I was beating a piece of forest fully four miles from the pool, with my boy Joe carrying an extra gun, the wounded elephant suddenly charged us up a hill-side. He was not over pietel shot array. side. He was not over pistol shot away, but had been so well hidden that we had not suspected his presence. He had been hit in the shoulder, and the ascent was pretty steep. But for this he would have had us. The man who would attempt to run away from an elephant on foot would be a corpse in five minutes. They have an amazing gait in the open, and their pace is scarcely impeded by any obstruction in forest or jungle. Nothing smaller than a tree the size of a man's body will turn them aside. As the beast trumpeted and started for us we both made for the nearest tree. It was a large one, with branches growing well down, but we only got one gun up and were not above fifteen feet from the ground when the elephant reached the spot. He was in a terrible rage. His first move was to break off every branch he could reach, and we were not safe until we were twenty-five feet above him. He was not over three minutes stripping off the branches, and he did not cease his trumpeting for a second. The tree was fifty feet high and eighteen inches through the trunk. When the old fellow had everything cleared away he took hold with his trunk, got a good brace with his feet, and lifted just as a man would. I felt the tree tremble from root to top, and I have no doubt that had the monster been free of wound he would have pulled it over. As it was, he started some of the roots when he sagged back withhis full weight. He made four or five heavy pulls before he gave up, and then he tried another plan. He was quite at liberty to work any way he desired, as I had a cartridge jammed in my gun and was working to get it clear. The old behemoth retreated back about ten rods and then came for the tree head on. We knew what was coming and were clinging fast and tight, but the shock nearly spilled us out. He tried it twice more and then gave it up. My extra ritle now caught his eye and he picked it up, whirled it around several times, and then smash it went against the tree, breaking it into a dozen pieces. I had got my gun clear by this time, and I now proceeded to put seven ounce bullets into him, on after the other. He screamed and trunpeted and rushed around, determined not to give up the fight, but at last grew faint and dizzy and went down on his side with a crash which made the earth shake.

Picking Up a Coin.

Several merchants were once sitting in the front office of the Suffolk Insurance Company, then on the corner of State and Congress streets, when one of them observed another crossing State street. He remarked:

"Here comes L--; just see how quick he will pick this up." He placed a dime upon the floor. On entering, the watched party noticed the coin, and placing his foot upon it halt-ed, drew out and pretended to use his pocket-handkerchief, but dropped it upon the silver. Then he stooped, raised both, and placed them in his pocket. - Boston Transcript.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

"Didn't Know It Was Leaded."

The young man fell dead! A friend had pointed a revolver at him. "He didn't know it was loaded!" We often hear it stated that a man is not responsible for what he does not know. The law presupposes knowledge and therefore convicts the man who excuses crime by ignorance!

"If I had only known" has often been an unfortunate man's apology for some evil unknowingly wrought, but in a matter of general interest—as for instance that laudanum is a poison, that naphtha is a deadly explosive, that blood heavily charged with a winter's accumulations of the waste of the em, it is one's duty to know the fact and consequences thereof. Our good old admothers knew for instance, that the ting of spring was the most perilous pe-

OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE. The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of grown a popular residence.

ite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, obstinate cases which had barned their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific

It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescrip-tion is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion, or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they re all only symptoms and to disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffer patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A promedicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed the disease, thereby pelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

Mrs. E. F. Morgan, of No. 71 Lexington St.,

East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restared, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have carnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."
