MEMORIAL DAY.

To day is Memorial Day. How few observe it, or even think of it, in memory of their country's heroes, who battled for defense of Southern rights and liberties.

Many who sleep beneath the sod and grass covered mounds in other lands are forgotten, and the graves of many heroes will go undecorated, though in the midst of living comrades and descendants. The youth of Southland is slow to honor those whose life blood oozed out on the fields of battle that they might inherit a legacy of honor and patriotism.

The day should be properly observed. We are glad to know that many of our sister towns are properly observing it. Why should we be behind? Pitt county made a grand record in the civil war. The first life sacrificed was that of Henry Wyatt, a Pitt county boy; the only flag planted on the enemy's works at Gettysburg, was by Dan Thomas, who afterwards lived and died in Pitt county; the last charge made at Appomattox was by the troops under Gen. Bryan Grimes, Pitt county's most gallant hero. And its soldiers were the "bravest of the brave." All honor to their memory.

IS IT CONSPIRACY?

It has gone forth that the President is organizing his great army of office holders, and heelers, for a great battle next year. Gold is the great sign under which they would conquer. What does it mean? There are grave forebodings, that Grover intends holding on to what he has office at all hazards, and that he would hesitate at little, to accomplish his ambition. It is even gravely hinted that he has an imperial bee buzzing in his ear. Can that be possible? A monarchy for America! Never! He little knows the people, if that be his aim. And knows not the South at all. It may vote the Democratic ticket and be a solid

South, but it is sick, nigh unto death, of Grover and his isms. Down with Grover. The sooner the better. He is a traitor to his party and who can trust a traitor?

PROTECT VIRTUE.

The frequency of domestic tragedies is becoming appalling. And need we be surprised? It is the husband's most sacred duty to protect the honor of his home. The villain who enters the home of a friend or neighbor, to disgrace it, richly deserves the halter, and the appreciation, by good citizens of a dose of lead promptly, properly and successfully administered by those wronged is echoed through the common verdict of "justifiable."

The laxity of our laws, in such matters, is corrupting the land. The toleration and respect shown the libertine and destroyer of virtue is a reflection and a foul blot upon society. Where the law fails to reach, and the crime is known, it is the duty of the good people to act. Vigilant committees have done more good to many communities, than the laws.

The home must be respected. Virtue must be protected.

EVERYBODY HELP!

Everybody wants to go to some place this summer. Few will do so. Many want to go to Morehead, but the miserable and most inconvenient schedules at Kinston is a great drawback. Why can't the citizens along the Kinston and Scotland Neck road be favored with connections each way, if only twice a week of the freight train from here with the passenger on the A. & N. C. road? Let everybody try to get it so. The railroad will do what it can for the people's accommodation. Let's try for it.

Treasurer Worth is an ideal populist. He recognizes no law, but is law unto himself. North Carolina has an officer whose duty it is to advise other officers in matters that may seem complicated or on points which are doubtful. But perhaps there is nothing doubtful to the Treasurer. He is law unto himself. For whosoever exalthe himself shall be abased.

Poor George Mills paid the penalty for his crime? Was it his crime? The undoubted circumstances plainly involve others equally guilty. But they go free. We do not condemn the hanging of Mills, but those who instigated the crime and pushed its consummation should in no wise be permitted to escape the law's penalty.
