Quinn Baumgardner, a young white man, who on a spree was killed by a man in a lawn county. He went to her home and demanded admission. Several women were in the room and they recognized his voice and knew that he was drinking. They refused. He took a piece of iron and tried to knock down the door, when one of the women shot through the door with a rifle. Baumgardner died Saturday from blood poison resulting from his wound. No arrests were made.

Several North Carolina tobacco men, both planters and dealers, have been asked what effect the proposed tariff reduction on Cuban tobacco would have in this State. They all agree that it will not hurt the North Carolina tobacco for the Cuban article is the leaf used in cigars, while the North Carolina leaf is used in smoking tobacco and cigarettes. The only injury which the growers in this State could suffer would be that some cigarette and pipe smokers might take to cigars instead when the latter became cheaper.

Mr. Frank O. Donnell, of Asheville, president of the State Liquor Dealers' Association, is in the city. He says that the organization will hold the largest convention in its history next Fall. In reference to the plans to extend prohibition in the State he says that he does not think any definite course has yet been adopted and his association will simply keep prepared for action when the time comes. Mr. Donnell believes in high license and reasonable regulation.

ENTIRE SESSION OF SENATE DEVOTED TO ITS CONSIDERATION.

Mr. Turner Commends his Speech and Devotes the Argument to the Legal and Constitutional Phases of the Question and Claims That the United States Under the Principles of International Law Has No Right in the Islands.

Washington, February 18.—The entire session of the Senate today was devoted to the consideration of the Philippine bill. Mr. Turner, of Washington, concluded his speech, begun last Friday. He made his argument, as on the previous day, on the question of the legal and constitutional phases of the Philippine question, holding in the view that as the Philippines had established an independent government in the islands prior to the acquisition of the United States, under the principles of international law, had no right in the islands.

Mr. Turner, of Colorado, took the floor to deliver a speech upon the subject of the proposed law which will provide for the construction of good roads. He made his argument, as on the previous day, on the question of the legal and constitutional phases of the Philippine question, holding in the view that as the Philippines had established an independent government in the islands prior to the acquisition of the United States, under the principles of international law, had no right in the islands.

was followed last Tuesday, Dr. H. B. Loomis, a pathological expert, was on the stand, and his cross examination was continued today. On direct testimony he said the condition of Rice's lungs was due, in his opinion, to the inhalation of chloroform or some like irritant. The witness said he knew of no natural cause of death that could have caused the symptoms shown by the autopsy of Rice's body.

John R. Potts, a lawyer, testified that he had known Patrick since 1878. They became intimate in 1890. On September 17, 1890, Patrick said: "That rich client of mine has made a will naming me a residuary legatee." On the same day he showed Potts an assignment of Rice's property, a paper showing the settlement of the contest of Mrs. Rice's will, and other papers, among them several checks in blank signed with Rice's name and payable to Patrick. Potts identified the 1901 will as a paper that Patrick showed him to prove the statement that his rich client had made him residuary legatee of all his estate.

"What did you say to Patrick?" "I said, 'Albert, my boy, you're a lucky dog,' and I shook hands with him. Then a thought came to me and I said, 'I don't think a will like that is good for anything. Don't you remember the Tilden will?' He replied, 'That's all right, John. The estate is practically mine.'"

The witness said Patrick showed him a general assignment, and he again congratulated him.

NEW ORLEANS, MARDI GRAS. Rex, the King of the Carnival, Received by a Great Multitude of People Amid the Thunder of Cannon and the Screaming of Steam Whistles.

New Orleans, February 18.—New Orleans practically suspended business today and turned out more than half of its population, with a multitude of visitors, to receive Rex, the King of the Carnival, and his royal suite. His majesty came up the river on the United States ship Ranger early this afternoon, and amid the thunder of cannon and the screaming of steam whistles landed at the head of Canal street. The weather, though a trifle cold, was ideal. Through the principal business streets of the city the King was escorted by an effective military pageant, of which the most attractive feature was the ant procession of the Old Guard of New York and the Burgess Corps of Albany. The visiting soldiers were accorded an enthusiastic welcome. The city is crowded with visitors. The programme for tonight included a magnificent pageant by the Krewes of Proteus and a ball at the French Opera House.

PHILIPPINE CONDITIONS. Governor Taft Tells the Senate Committee on the Philippines Why It is Necessary to Pay Salaries Higher in the Islands Than in the United States.

Washington, February 18.—Continuing his statement concerning conditions in the Philippine Islands before the Senate Committee on the Philippines today, Governor Taft said it was necessary to make salaries from 25 to 50 per cent higher than in the United States.

THE UNITED STATES PROTESTS

Against the Attitude of Russia in the Negotiations With China for Manchuria.

Washington, February 18.—Negotiations between Russia and China for the evacuation of Manchuria are progressing. The attitude of the Russian Government in this matter has shifted materially. In the first place, a treaty was drawn up between Russia and China providing for the evacuation of Manchuria by the Russian troops. This treaty contained a great many rather complex guarantees in Russia's favor, but a singularly objectionable proviso was one placing the Russo-Chinese bank in practical control of the commercial and material interests of Manchuria. It was quickly perceived that the provision, if executed, would practically exclude Americans from competition in Manchuria, which is particularly valuable as a market for our manufactured cottons. Therefore Russia's attention was directed to our existing rights under treaty with China and also to her own promises made directly to the United States Government during the early days of the Russian occupation of Manchuria.

Apparently our representations were effectual, for the objectionable proviso touching the Russo-Chinese bank was withdrawn from the treaty. However, it has been discovered that the Russian Government, following a practice known in European diplomacy, has drawn up an agreement with China, conferring upon the Russo-Chinese bank all of the powers contained in the original treaty proviso. Therefore the United States has renewed its objections, not only addressing itself to the Russian Government but making a very strong protest to the Government of China.

THE ABRIDGED ELECTORATE. The Second Caucus of the House Republicans to Consider the Question of Reducing Congressional Representation Adjourns for Want of a Quorum.

Washington, February 18.—The second caucus of the House Republicans to consider the question of a plan looking to reducing the Congressional representation of the Southern States which abridged the suffrage was held in the hall of representatives to night, but a quorum was not present and after two and a half hours of discussion the caucus adjourned until next Monday without action. It requires 101 Republicans to constitute a quorum of the caucus, and at no time tonight were over ninety-five Republicans in attendance. Speaker Henderson was present for a short time, but took no part in the proceedings and left early to keep a dinner engagement. His lieutenants, Mr. Payne of New York, Mr. Cannon and Mr. Dalzell were present, however, and threw the weight of their influence in favor of a conservative course. Mr. Cannon was openly opposed to action on the ground that it could only result in agitation. In the only test of strength made, the friends of action had a majority of twenty votes.

THE VENEZUELAN REVOLUTION. Willemstad, Island of Curacao, February 18.—Annoying has been heard here from early morning in the direction of the Venezuelan coast. It is believed that the Libertador has been engaged with a Venezuelan gunboat.

The report of an engagement between the Libertador and the Venezuelan gunboat General Crespo appears to be confirmed. It is asserted that the Crespo was sunk in the roadstead of Cumarebo. General Andrade, former President of Venezuela, is aboard the Libertador. The revolution is gaining ground.

REVISING BASEBALL RULES. Buffalo, N. Y., February 18.—Representatives of all the base-ball leagues of the country met here today to revise and establish the playing rules on a uniform basis and to have them so worded that they may be easily understood by amateurs and professionals alike. The rule relating to when the umpire shall declare a foul strike was revised and some other changes were agreed upon.
