DANIEL GROWS REMINISCENT

Vance's Name a Household Word Among the Common

PEOPLE OF THE OLD NORTH STATE

The Senator is a Delightful Talker. Appears in a Case Before the Railroad Commission Today.

Senator John W. Daniel was at the Benbow last night on his way to Raleigh where he appears today in a case before the Railroad Commission. The Senator is a delightful talker when he is in the humor, and the conversation turning on the colleagues he has known in the Senate, he contrasted the two noble old war horses, Senator Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee and Senator Zebulon B. Vance, of North Carolina, the two greatest men perhaps, that either state has had in the Senate. The Senator said that Vance and Harris were totally different types. Harris was haughty, gruff, imperious, almost overbearing in his manner; a man bent on having his own way and one who did not brook opposition very gracefully; and yet of such sterling worth that he was admired even by his enemies.

Vance, on the other hand, was the same genial, witty, magnetic Vance in the senate, whose name has become a household word among the common people of this state. No man, the Senator said, (his face lighting up as he recalled the great North Carolinian) could know Vance without loving him. He agreed that if Vance were alive today, the re-united Democracy would follow his lead to victory in this state.

The Senator said in regard to the Virginia campaign, that the Republicans would, in his opinion, put a nominee in the field for governor, but he regarded it as improbable that the Populists would endorse him, or that a Republican governor could be elected in the Old Dominion, even with the aid of the Populist party.

COME ALONG, GREENSBORO.

You Shall be Royally Received and Well "Entertained."

It will be one of the happiest days of Charlotte's existence when the Greensboro football team comes this way. "She may kick the life out of us, but we will have the points on her," said a Charlotte footballist this morning to a News reporter.

"We are making no great bluster, but you can say through the News that Charlotte will be ready in a short while to meet all comers," said Mr. John Schenck to a reporter this morning.

The boys will in a few days get together. They are now awaiting the arrival of Mr. George Stephens, who is expected most any day. Then the club will be formed.

The News learns that the personnel of the team this year will be considerably changed from last season. In each instance the boys claim that it will be materially strengthened.

If this be the case, Charlotte will bank on her team winning more "scalps" than ever before.

The News would respectfully suggest to Mr. Clem Wright, of the Greensboro team, that he had better place himself on "guard duty," and utilize all spare moments in kicking the "pig-skin" from now until that day.—Charlotte News.

We would suggest to that animated piece of India rubber, Q-back Schenck, that he will have to "rar" back on his dew-claws' endurin' of the aforesaid game.

A DECISION FROM JUDGE ADAMS.

Commissioners May be Compelled to Grant Liquor License.

The application for a mandamus against the Commissioners of Chatham county to compel them to issue a license to A. P. Terry to retail spirituous liquors at Pittsboro, was heard yesterday before Judge Adams. The judge issued a mandamus commanding the Commissioners to pass upon the petition of Mr. Terry and ascertain if the facts required by the statute existed, and if so to issue the license.

He holds that the commissioners of a county under the act of 1897 have not an arbitrary power to refuse to grant all applications, but do possess a qualified or legal discretion only in such matters.

The "Shooter" Arrested.

Officer Poindexter, of Winston, was here this morning going to Wilson after G. Harris, the negro who shot Will Tatum in Winston a few weeks ago. He emptied his pistol at Tatum, four balls taking effect, three in the thigh and one in the arm. The negro has about recovered.

It is reported that Harris shot a man in Danville since his flight from Winston, but there is no evidence that this is true. He has been in Wilson two or three weeks. The police of that town spotted him and notified the Winston authorities, and a warrant was sent out and he was arrested there yesterday. He will be carried to Winston tomorrow night to await his trial at November term of court.

Nothing remains of the massive six story structure, except a part of the two side walls. The fire was one of the largest ever known in Washington. The exact cause remains unknown, though it has been established that the fire started in Gettling's printing office on the second floor. The amount of loss is roughly estimated at three quarters of a million dollars; of this the Traction Company lost over six hundred thousand dollars while it carried only three hundred thousand dollars of insurance. Another building will be erected immediately. Horse cars have been put in service again today. A number of buildings in the immediate vicinity suffered from the fierce blaze. OF THE

Southern Stock-Mutual

How to Prevent Accidental Fires.

1st. Keep the leaves swept from the valleys and gutters of your house—a spark may ignite them.

2nd. See that your flues are in safe and sound condition.

3rd. Use metal vessels exclusively for taking up ashes and let them stand 24 hours before emptying, or empty on ground apart from any fence or building.

90 per cent. of dwelling house fires result from sparks on roof, defective flues, and taking up ashes in wooden vessels.
