Jockey Jones Won the Race but Must Wait a While for His Bride. San Francisco; Dec. 3—Jockey Ed- die Jones rode a race for love on the opening day of the race track across the bay, but though he won the race he has not yet got the bride. He fell in love with the daughter of Dr. Row- ell, a prominent horseman, who owns Satsuma and other speedy horses. The girl accepted his proposal, but her father objected because Jones was too young and too poor. Finally he made a compromise. If Jones rode the horse for all he was coming from Minneapolis, and win the race, the doctor said he would be put on the basis of a preferred suit- or. Jones rode the horse for all he was worth and won, but the doctor has told him he must now wait a reason- able time before claiming his bride. TO CORNER WHEAT. NEW FORM OF SENSATIONALISM. Toy Balloons Used in the Pulpit to Illustrate a Sermon. Rev. J. H. Dennison, of the Church of the Sea and Land, New York, preached Sunday night on "The Causes that Keep Men Down," and illustrated his sermon with toy balloons. A white balloon bobbed up from behind the pulpit and was permitted to ascend to a certain height. By this Rev. Mr. Dennison illustrated that many men rose to a certain position in the world, but never got any higher. Something kept them down. That something the preacher concealed from view for a time. Finally, however, he revealed the weight at the end of the string to the balloon. It was a pair of hand- cuffs. Bill Day Guilty.
