THE SECOND BOYS AT HOME.

The Special Train Passed Through Here Last Night The special train, which was run from Raleigh to bring the soldiers of the Second regiment to their homes in the western part of the state, passed through here last night about 6:40 o'clock. On account of the short notice given very few people were at the depot to welcome the boys home. Nearly all of Captain Gray's company were on, but many of them are from High Point, Lexington and stations on the Winston road and only a few of them are well known here. Much anxiety was felt by a few mothers whose sons did not come. Ten of every company were left in Raleigh as guards and these are most probably among that number.

All the boys seem to be in love with Captain Gray. Many who were not in his company said he was the best officer in the regiment. They said the Greensboro company was well officered from captain down, while some of them did not lavish praise upon the officers of their own company.

Many of the boys were "celebrating" their furloughs and a few were rather rowdy around the depot.

Nearly all the Second's boys are at nome this morning after an absence of four months in answer to their country's call. They have done their duty and the people of the state will bless them for it.

ROANOKE BOY LOST.

One Who Answers the Description Arrested Here.

Early this morning Chief of Police Rees received a postal card, which reads as follows:

"A Boy Lost-Dillard Powell, age 14 years, weight 90 pounds, very light hair, fair complected, with small light blue eyes, dark drab clothes, wore a cap and was bare-footed. The last seen of Dillard Powell was Monday, September 19th, in the afternoon, when he was in company with a tramp who persuaded the boy to accompany him south. Description of tramp: Five feet nine inches tall, smoothe shaved. black hat, black coat, pocket in right side torn to bottom of coat, brown striped pants.

"Chief of Police. "Roanoke, Va., Sept. 20, 1898." The postal was placed in the hands of Officer Scott. About 10 o'clock a woman named Jenkins complained to Officers Scott and Pearce, who were standing together on the street, that a boy whom she had allowed to spend last night at her home had stolen her son's coat and left.

UNDER GOLDEN SKIES.

A North Carolina Book by a North Carolina Au'hor.

After a hurried perusal of Mrs. Osborn's new book, "Under Golden Skies-or in the New Eldorado," we feel prepared to say it is a book of rare and genuine merit. It is a story of Southern life-North Carolina life. The scene is laid in North Carolina and the characters are real with but few exceptions. The int oductory was written by Howard A. Banks, of Charlotte, and we quote from him: "The story is more than founded on fact. It is a story of all facts. The little fiction in it is chiefly to link together the real episodes in the history of friends in the flesh and to make the sketch an harmonious whole.

"Supremest motive of all, the book is sent forth by the author in the loving hope that it may appeal to 'the angels of our better natures;' that it may stimulate to a truer, better, richer, higher, holier life; that it may shed some sunlight into darkened hearts, some melody in songless li.es that it may encourage desponding souls to mount up, in hope and faith, as on eagles' wings, above obscuring clouds, until, "Under Golden Skies" indeed, they bask continually in the flooding sunlight of God's love and peace and promises."

We take pleasure in commending the book. It is dedicated by the author as a memorial of her admiration for the gallant deeds of the brave and noble heroes of America who have made the history of our war a glorious heritage. It is handsomely printed and bound and should meet with a large
