GREENSBORO, N. C., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1898.

Price Two Cents

No More Credit.

After Sept. 30th, 1898, we will adopt the Cash System. Our books will be closed and our prices reduced from ten to fifteen per cent. We are convinced that this is the proper way to conduct a dry goods and shoe business to the mutual interest of customer and merchant. It will cost any merchant from ten to fifteen per cent more to do a credit business than it would to sell the same amount of goods for cash; this difference we propose to give our customers if they are willing to pay us spot cash. (Proof of the above statement can be seen below.) We feel sure that any one buying for cash will not fail to see where it will be to their interest to trade with us. Thanking you for past favors, we are,
Yours truly,
J. M. HENDRIX & CO.

FOR EXAMPLE—Mr. A buys dry goods and shoes to the amount of $1,000 and sells them on credit at a profit of 30 per cent. His gain is $300. This is not all gain as the following will prove: Any merchant doing a credit business is bound to have some losses. This we will put at the low estimate of 5 per cent. He will have to employ a bookkeeper and collector, which will cost him 5 per cent, and if he sells on credit he must necessarily buy on credit, and thereby sustain a loss of 5 per cent discount which he could get off if he paid cash for his goods. Add all these losses and expenses together and we find that Mr. A. instead of making $300, has only made $150.

Now we will look at the other side of this question.
Mr. B buys dry goods and shoes to the amount of $1,000 and sells them for cash at a profit of 15 per cent; his profit would be $150. Mr. B, by selling his goods for cash will be able to pay cash and get the 5 per cent discount which would amount to $50. Add this to the $150 and we find that Mr. B has made $200, or $50 more than Mr. A, and has sold his goods at one-half the profit. In other words Mr. B, the cash man, has sold his customers goods 15 per cent less than Mr. A, and has made $50 more. Is it not plain to see that selling goods for cash is of mutual interest to merchant and buyer?
J. M. HENDRIX & CO.

THE CHRISTIAN'S DUTY.

In Temperance Work—It is Clearly Defined.

(A paper read by Mrs. Dr. E. L. Stamey at a meeting of the South Greensboro W. C. T. U.)
The christian's duty in temperance work is clearly defined in the Bible, our guide in all things, by such passages as the following: "Be temperate in all things," "Touch not, taste not, handle not," "Look not upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup." At the last it "Bibeth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." "Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? They that tarry long at the wine, they that go to seek mixed wine."

The evil effects of intemperance are too evident in our midst to require mention. The question we wish to consider is, "Is it our Christian duty to strive to promote temperance in our homes and to banish intemperance forever from our country. Did not Paul reason of temperance and judgment to come, and are we not commanded to add to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness?"

I, for one, was reared in a temperance home, signing the pledge when scarcely able to write my name at the age of five. Hence, temperance principles of the strictest type have been instilled into me from childhood; never allowing me to partake of wines, eggnog, punch, etc., when offered, and they have been offered me even in christian homes. An here I wish to emphasize the point that christians cannot be too strict in the observance of temperance, for it is in christian homes that we least expect to be tempted and are least prepared to resist temptations. Many a boy has been persuaded to partake of punch or wine in some social gathering, who would not have thought of entering a bar to take his first glass. What mother does not shudder when she thinks of the temptations her boys, and even girls, will have to overcome when they go out from under her roof to battle with life, and how futile will be her life-long training in this many eyed monster of intemperance. And yet there are intemperate mothers, if they deserve the name of mother, who are seemingly indifferent as to the habits of their children, even sending their boys to the bar-rooms to purchase the accursed drink for them. God pity such mothers and help them to realize the destruction they are bringing not only upon their own boys, but also upon all who may be brought under their influence.

I do not know the statistics, or even if there be such to show the increase of drunkenness among our women, but within my own limited observation there has been a notable increase. Never until recent years were my eyes horrified with the view of a drunken woman, not having dreamed that any but the most degraded could stoop to such depths. Now it is not uncommon to find moderate and even immoderate drinkers among the women of some of our most respected families. With such mothers and wives what a harvest of drunkards we may expect to reap in the future. God save my boys from such influence, and may I never relax my efforts to save them from such perils through fear of being called a fanatic.

We cannot hope to do much in the way of reclaiming those of our dear unfortunates, who have already fallen into the wiles of the tempter that work has almost been relegated to the Keeley cure and similar measures to try to destroy the appetite for drink, how fruitless in many instances we all know. Our duty, it seems, then is to create and arouse public sentiment in favor of temperance so that in the near future our politicians may not be now be afraid to vote for a temperance candidate on account of its unpopularity, but be eager to adopt it in their platform. Then the day will come when our bar-rooms will be closed because the business is too unprofitable and our schools will be run by taxes paid by honest, prosperous men, and not by taxes wrung by barkeepers from broken hearted mothers and wives and hungry half clad children. God speed the day.

EIGHT MEMBERS PRESENT.

First Meeting of the War Investigation Commission.

MARYLAND MEMBER WAS ABSENT

The President Says There Must Be No "Whitewashing"—Departments to be Investigated.
By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Sept. 24—Eight members of President McKinley's war department investigating commission assembled in the cabinet room in the white house this morning pursuant to an invitation by the President. They were Major-Gen. Dodge, of Iowa, Major-General McCook, of Ohio, Retired Brigadier-General Wilson, chief of engineers of the United States army, Ex-governor Woodbury, of Vermont, Ex-governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, Col. Denby, of Indiana, Col. Sexton, of Illinois, and Capt. Evan P. Howell, of Georgia.

It was expected that the ninth member from Maryland would be present, but he failed to appear.

Governor Beaver's appointment was a surprise, as his name had not been mentioned in connection with this committee. The members occupied the seats of the cabinet, about the confidence table with the president. At the head General Dodge, who expected to be chairman, sat the right of the president.

There was a free and frank exchange of views respecting the work at hand and the methods of accomplishing the same. President McKinley sought to impress among the members that the investigation should be thorough. If any member imagined that the object of the commission was to exonerate any one who is to blame for mismanagement or incompetency except on the clearest and most convincing proof be desired to change the opinion of that member. He believed the idea of having nine commissioners was for the purpose of having three for examining each of the following: Quarters department, commissary department and medical department and that they proceed simultaneously with the work.

Rev. Mr. Caldwell's Lecture.
A large congregation heard Rev. R. E. Caldwell, of Winston, last night at the First Presbyterian church on "The Missionary Motives of St. Paul."

Mr. Caldwell has lately returned from abroad and gave much of what he saw in the Holy Land. He described in graphic language the places made memorable by the experiences of the great apostle to the Gentiles—the first Christian missionary.

The ladies were exhorted to go on in their work of spreading the gospel throughout all lands. The meeting which has been going on for several days, will prove of great value to the missionary enterprise in this section.

Watch Our Football Boys.

The practice of the football team becomes more and more satisfactory to the management. Some of the new "material" introduced this year will make excellent players and the team is destined to be a winner. Several challenges are already on file, but the team wants to be thoroughly practiced and make a good start. You'll hear from them later, however. Their grounds are near the Keeley Institute, where they practice daily. Go out and "enjoy yourself."

A Coffin Dropped.

A colored man had the misfortune to break his wagon while crossing the street car track today. He was crossing the track diagonally when an axle broke off. The wagon contained a coffin which was being taken out near the edge of town for an old colored man who died last night.

Proximity Church Completed.

The new Methodist church at Proximity has been completed and Rev. G. T. Rowe will hold his first services there tomorrow. We congratulate the friends of that church upon its early completion.

Rev. Mr. Yonan to Preach.

Rev. I. M. Yonan, of Armenia, will preach at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow, morning and night. Mr. Yonan was here about a year ago and delivered an address of interest to all who heard him and many will hear him tomorrow.

The Reason of it.

We regret that we failed to get the report of the Missionary Union meeting yesterday. A reporter of this paper was promised the report of the meeting by an official member, but in some way it was overlooked. At least it did not reach this office. We regret it.

A report of the State Baptist Sunday School Convention (colored) was handed us a few minutes before time to go to press; hence, we missed that also, which we regret.

WIDESPREAD DISCONTENT.

Crowds Are Marching Through the Streets

CRISIS BELIEVED TO BE AT HAND.

Paris, Sept. 24—The most widespread discontent prevails over the suspension in the Dreyfus case. It exceeds anything since the Franco-Prussian war. Great crowds are beginning to march through the streets and are loudly demanding a revision of the question.

There is no longer any doubt of the fact that a crisis is at hand in the history of the republic. If the verdict is pronounced as against a revision there is no doubt that a crisis will be precipitated.

THE COUNCIL ADJOURNS.

Paris, Sept. 24—The cabinet council has adjourned until Monday without making any announcement of a decision on the revision commission. It is understood that the ministers are not in accord upon the question of revision.

SAYING A HEAP.

"Buck's" Opinion of Judge Shaw—His Promise.

From "Buck's" (W. W. Edwards) letter in the Siler City Messenger of this week we make the following extract.

I would like to have said much of the barbecue at Goldston. But I am tired of writing on my back and will only say that I had the pleasure of meeting on the train many of my old friends from Greensboro, together with Lee Overmap, A. L. Brooks, nominee for solicitor, and J. T. Shaw, nominee for judge.

I was right much struck with Judge Shaw and would like to see him on the bench. I told him a few little anecdotes and then told him if I should ever come before him in court he must put it on me lightly, but he only promised me the benefit of a doubt, therefore he is not one of the bribing kind and that is saying a heap for a man these days.

Can't Stomach Skinner.

Mr. Elihu White, ex-collector of internal revenue in this district, was nominated by the republicans of the first senatorial district for a seat in the state senate.

Mr. White declined the nomination, giving as his reason that he would not represent any district in which Harry Skinner was honored by the republican party.

There is a big revolt among republicans against Harry Skinner. There is a good deal of talk about putting up a straight republican candidate for Congress. Skinner cannot poll anything like the republican vote he has in the past. He is very distasteful to many eastern republicans. Many of them are fully as outspoken as ex-collector White.—Raleigh Post.

Suicide in Person County.

According to the report of a gentleman from Person county, N. C., in Danville yesterday, a most distressing suicide occurred at Ceffa, that county, on Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. E. S. Williams, wife of a prominent farmer, was found hanging in an old barn near her home.

The poor woman was suffering from mental derangement, due to bad health had climbed up on a box in the barn and after tying a rope about her neck, kicked the box from under her and strangled to death. Her husband is almost wild with grief.—Danville Register.
