DAVID HODGIN DEAD.

Funeral Preached By Rev. Albert Peale, of Friends Church.

Mr. David Hodgin, of Sumner, this county, died at his home on Saturday of Bright's disease. He was the father of our townsmen D. A. Hodgin, salesman for O'ell Hardware Co., Eugene Hodgin, of the firm of Hodgin & Rankin, Jess Hodgin, with C. M. Vanstony & Co., and S. A. Hodgin, recently of the McAdoo, now in the revenue service in Raleigh.

The deceased was about 68 years old and leaves a wife and several children in addition to those mentioned above. He was a prominent citizen and represented this county in the legislature during the reconstruction period. His funeral was preached at Center church today by Rev. Albert Peale, of the Friends church at 12 o'clock.

To Be Congratulated.

The problem that seems to be agitating the minds of some of the citizens of this city is how Manager Griffith could manage to stage an opera company of forty people. I wish to say that I have seen and examined the opera house and I find it amply large to meet all the requirements, and the people are to be congratulated on having so neat a little theatre in their city, and I wish to say further that Manager Griffith is the right man in the right place, and with the encouragement of the citizens he will give them the very best class of attractions that ever been their pleasure to attend in this city.

There is none better than "Andrews Opera company" and they will open the Opera House this season on Friday night with "Flotow's" beautiful opera "Martha" to be followed on Saturday night with "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pirates of Penzance." Congratulating the citizens of Greensboro on having such grand operas presented by such a grand company of artists, I am very truly, F. L. Hunt, Bus. m'gr. Andrews Opera Co.

Three Of the Finest.

We venture the assertion that there are at this time no finer buildings going up in all North Carolina than the following three, which are now being erected in this city:

The new office building of the Southern Guarantee and Investment Co., on East Market street, five stories, to contain one hundred rooms; the new Well building on South Elm, granite front, four stories, to be occupied by wholesale firms, and the handsome passenger depot of the Southern Railway.

We repeat, they are second to none in the state, either complete and occupied or now in process of construction. Watch the city of Greensboro.

A Good Business.

The Telegram is pleased to note the success with which Mr. C. Gresham, proprietor of the railroad eating house is meeting. Mr. Gresham came to Greensboro from Charlotte only a short while ago and established his business in the old Vernon house, recently removed to the rear of Clegg's hotel. He employs only competent and polite help and is now doing a good business. Saturday morning, on very short notice, he prepared breakfast for fifty-seven sailors and they all went away praising him.

An Assault.

Saturday afternoon Lee McCollum, colored, assaulted Mr. Rank Thomas, with a rock. The two men were disputing over a settlement when the negro became enraged and seizing a large rock, threw it at Mr. Thomas, making a bad wound on the left arm. The negro ran, but was caught in South Greensboro a short while afterward by Officers Pearce and Whittington, who locked him up. He is a large, desperate looking fellow and has been in trouble before.

Christmas Fowl.

A train consisting of nine freight cars, loaded with turkeys, geese and pigeons, passed through Greensboro shortly after noon yesterday, going north. The birds were closely packed in crates and must have numbered far into the thousands. The turkeys were decidedly in the majority, showing that that bird is not losing favor with the Yankees.

MR. MCKINLEY'S UTTERANCE

About Confederate Graves Making Him Famous.

ENDORSED BY REPRESENTATIVES

Pritchard and Tillman Urging Their Pension Bills—Another Southern Trip For The President.

SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Dec. 19.—The members of the North Carolina delegation, so far as seen, without exception, including Representative Kitchin, the only democratic member in the present delegation from the state, endorse President McKinley's utterances in his speech before the Georgia legislature, respecting the care of the Confederate dead by the entire union, north and south. The step, however, between caring for the dead, and caring for the living, is a very short space, and the members of the delegation, are unanimously in favor of extending the scope of the President's suggestions, so as to include those soldiers of the south who are striving to keep themselves from poverty and want.

The bill introduced by Representative Rixey, of Virginia, for the purpose of admitting Confederate soldiers to the various soldiers homes of the country, is a step in the right direction, and a prominent Virginian, a friend of the administration, is quoted as saying that the measure will have the hearty endorsement of President McKinley, and of the republican leaders in the senate and house of representatives. The members of the North Carolina delegation are earnestly in favor of the prompt reporting of the bill from the committee on military affairs, and will give the measure, so far as can be ascertained, their undivided support in the house when it comes to a vote. While it is not known that it can be done, the suggestion has been made that the bill of Representative Rixey shall be reported promptly, taken up by the house and passed, and sent to the senate immediately, that the measure may be transmitted to President McKinley before the adjournment for the Christmas holidays. The signature of the President to such a measure would be a suitable celebration of the Christmas season, and a recognition of the sentiment, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina, who last week introduced a bill to grant a pension of fifty dollars per month to the widow of Lieutenant Shipp, who was killed during the siege at Santiago, has promised Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, to look after the measure, also to grant a pension to the widow of Col. Alston. Both of the bills are before the senate committee on military affairs. There seems to be no doubt but that Senator Pritchard will be able to secure the prompt reporting of the bills to the senate, though it may be delayed until after the Christmas holidays. Senator Tillman, who introduced the latter bill, has been sick with a bad cold during the past few days, and has been prevented from attending the sessions of the senate, but he is now all right and will be in his accustomed place in the senate during the present week.

Hon. Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and a member of the national democratic committee from North Carolina, was in Washington Friday and Saturday. Major Daniels in conversation stated that the coming session of the legislature will be a most interesting one, and that the subject of a new election law, making restrictions upon the right of suffrage, will be the leading topic discussed. The sentiment in favor of a constitutional amendment, patterned after that of South Carolina or Mississippi, he says, is very strong, though it is difficult to tell what policy will be adopted. Personally he declares himself in favor of taking the report of the Hawaiian commissioners, forming a government for that territory, as a model, for he says it accomplishes for Hawaii exactly what is desired in the south, the limitation of suffrage to the intelligent portion of the population.

It is very likely that another southern trip for president McKinley may be arranged in the spring, which will take him as far as Tampa, Florida and New Orleans. Already a delegation from New Orleans has been appointed to invite the president to visit that city at any time which may best suit his own personal convenience, and there is strong talk on the part of Charleston, South Carolina people, of inviting the president to attend the Confederate Veterans Reunion in May. Other cities in North and South Carolina, Alabama and Florida, are anxious to secure the presence of the chief magistrate.

William T. Lathan has been commissioned postmaster at Waterloo, North Carolina.

Mr. J. R. Talley, of Greensboro, is at the St. James Hotel.
