WEDNESDAY, JAN. 25, 1899.

The dispensary movement in Greensboro is gaining friends by the hour. The size of the meeting at the court house last night and the interest manifested, was particularly gratifying to all friends and supporters of the movement.

The action of the house of representatives yesterday on the Fayetteville dispensary matter was a complete victory for the friends of that system. The dispensary has been proven beyond all doubt to be far preferable, for many reasons and from every standpoint, to the open saloon system.

In answer to Rev. J. F. McCulloch's card, printed elsewhere today we desire to ask him if it would not be restricting the business to reduce the number of barrooms from nine to one? Would it not be still greater restriction to close that one at sundown and open it at sunrise? We honor Mr. McCulloch's motives and intentions; but fear that he does not sufficiently realize what he is doing. He seems to be piling stones in the way of securing what has been proven to be the best means of handling the question of the sale of liquor. He will probably be surprised to learn that the saloon men are after copies of the paper containing his letter of yesterday to use as campaign thunder in favor of retaining the present open saloon system.

THE DISPENSARY MATTER.

Letter from a Prominent Methodist Minister.

The following letter appeared in the Morning Post of yesterday. (Coming from so high and responsible a source it is a valuable addition to the convincing argument the Telegram has heretofore printed in favor of the dispensary.)

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. You give a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

The dispensary meets this demand in the best way possible, in my opinion. It puts the traffic in the hands of officers of the law, and if good men are secured for commissioners, and a law-abiding dispenser is put in charge of the business, the evil may be kept under such restraint as to eliminate the worst features of the whiskey traffic.

2. The treating custom is broken up, and one of the worst evils of whiskey drinking is at once eliminated. It is all a mistake to say as some do that there is as much drinking done from a dispensary as there is in an open saloon. The open saloon, run day and night, with a back door easy of access on Sunday, is the worst evil that ever afflicted civilized society. It is a great gain to get rid of the social influence in the saloon, by which drunkards are made. If we can do away with this feature of the drink habit we have made a great gain. We do this in the establishment of the dispensary.

3. Night drinking and sitting around a barroom, is another source of evil that is broken up by the dispensary. That there are some who will buy whiskey and take it to their rooms, and drink it at night, I admit; but what I contend for is, the evil is greatly diminished. Reforms of all kinds must work slowly. We cannot eradicate long standing evils from society instantly, and it is wise political economy to work along on such lines as will yield the best general results. It is manifest to any unprejudiced observer, that the dispensary is a step in the direction of removing the evil of barroom association and influence.

4. The dispensary removes the most powerful incentive to pursue the whiskey traffic, by removing the temptation to go into the business to make money out of the traffic. I doubt if any man sells whiskey because he loves to debase his fellow men. He does it for the money there is in it. Whatever profit there is in the business is made by the state under the dispensary system; and there is no incentive to press the business in the interest of anyone.

5. It removes the evil influence of the barroom from the politics of the community. I have known communities so thoroughly dominated by whiskey sellers that a good man, who opposed the traffic could not have been elected dog-killer among them. The dispensary puts an end to this influence; and thereby tends to the purification of local politics.

6. The dispensary properly managed, yields a larger revenue to the state than the licensed system; places the traffic under much better control; diminishes the drink habit, destroys much of the evil social influence of the open saloon, and stops to some extent the drunkard making business. For these reasons our legislature should give us a state dispensary law, and help the moral and religious force to do something in overthrowing this giant evil.

L. L. Nash, Washington, N. C., Jan. 20, 1899.

His Signature.

An elderly man stepped into a big hotel the other day, accompanied by his wife, and asked for a room. When the polite clerk gave him a pen and placed the register before him, he looked visibly embarrassed but he took the pen and bent over the book as though he had nerved himself to some desperate task.

He started to write and then stopped and began to think. The clerk, of course, didn't know what the trouble was or else he would have volunteered his services. After a painful pause the ruralist started in to scratching some more.

After the expiration of fully five minutes the farmer threw down his pen with a sigh of relief, wiped the perspiration from his brow and rejoined his better half, who had been waiting in the lobby during the ordeal. The clerk was curious to see a signature that required such an unusual length of time to execute. The clerk is a solemn man, but he nearly went off into a fit when he saw, in big, round script, this legend: "Me and Maria."—London Tit-Bits.

Society as a Reformer.

"Swearing is growing less, decidedly so," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "All students of men agree in this view, just as excessive alcoholic drinking is falling into disuse. The principal reason for the decline of both excessive swearing and drinking is that men are getting more and more careful to refrain from any habit which places their self control in peril. Society is constantly growing more impatient with a man who lacks equipment, while the keener demands of business necessitates men being more moderate in all things. The basis of the change may be more material than spiritual, but the change is taking place irrespective of the character of the basis or motive."

"For Violin or Piano."

From the classical period we have received the most noble work which had been composed for the violin, a work which will always remain the Kobinor of violin literature—Beethoven's concerto. In spite of this master had occasion to write on the title page the words, ever saddening to the violinist, "Concerto for the Violin or Piano"—another proof of the old lack of a sufficient number of worthy performers, for only in view of such a want could Beethoven have made the work practicable for pianists.—Musical Courier.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. You give a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy. You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia. You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all of these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has rivals, but, for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds stands without a peer and its splendid qualities are everywhere admitted and praised. For sale by C. E. Holton.

While trying to extinguish flames in lace curtains, Miss Jennie Moore, a society belle, was burned to death at San Francisco, Cal.

Gardens in the St. Stephen Cotton Mills, Calais, Me, have struck against reduced wages.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Howard Gardner.

How to Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of the vital organs. If the liver is inactive you have a bilious look; if your stomach is disordered you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys are affected you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good alternative and tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at C. E. Holton's drug store. 50 cents per bottle.

The Earl of Warwick, commonly called the "kingmaker," from the faculty with which he created and deposed monarchs during the contest between the house of York and Lancaster, lived in style of magnificence and hospitality of which no period perhaps furnishes an example. No less than 30,000 persons are said to have lived at his board in the different manors and castles which he possessed, and the military, allured by his hospitality as well as his bravery, were strongly attached to his interests. This distinguished warrior fell at the battle of Barnet in 1471, when, owing to the mistake of one part of his army falling upon the other during a fog, he was defeated by Edward IV.

In former battles Warwick had always fought on horseback, that he might at once ride along the line and perceive the particulars of the action, but on this occasion he determined to fight on foot, that his soldiers might see that he was resolved to share with them the dangers of the day. After having exerted himself as an officer and a hero in fruitless attempts to turn the tide of fortune in his favor he rushed into the hottest part of the battle and fell covered with wounds. His brother, Montacute, in endeavoring to save him met with a similar fate.—Nuggets.

Gold in Pyrites.

Experts in gold mining agree that pretty much the bottom fact now known about such metal is briefly that all original pyrites of small grain texture contain gold to a greater or less extent, this, of course, not covering such secondary large crystal pyrites deposits derived from veins. It is not yet known, however, whether the gold in these pyrites is in chemical combination with the sulphide of gold, or whether each minute particle of gold is simply covered with a coating of sulphide of iron, or finally whether such particles are in the metallic state, but alloyed with silver or other metal which combines more rapidly with sulphur than the gold does, and consequently forms a coat of sulphide of silver over the gold. The particles of gold are so minute and the combinations follow so rapidly during the splitting up of these pyrites that the finest instruments and tests known to chemistry have as yet been unable to settle this part of the question to the satisfaction of all concerned, this fact showing how easy it is to put in a mill that will not save the values.

Stupidity Rewarded.

This story is told of Sir Walter Scott, who was far from being a brilliant pupil at school: After he became famous he one day dropped into the old school to pay a visit to the scene of his former woes. The teacher was anxious to make a good impression on the writer and put the pupils through their lessons so as to show them to the best advantage. After while Scott said: "But which is the dance? You have one surely. Show him to me."

The teacher called up a poor fellow who looked the picture of woe as he bashfully came toward the distinguished visitor.

"Are you the dance?" asked Scott.

"Yes, sir," said the boy.

"Well, my good fellow," said Scott, "here it is for you for keeping my place warm."

A Prime Political Reason.

It was in the Newton ward, where the candidate on the Liberal side was Mr. Ritchie, a well known confectioner and restaurateur, whose pies and roasts were equally famous in Auld Reekie. After the poll the following conversation was heard between two working-men who had just emerged from the voting station: "Weel, Tam, did ye vote for Ritchie?" "No," said the other, "I didna." "And what for no?" asked his astonished friend. "You're a Leebler, are na ye, and Ritchie's the Leebler candidate?" "I ken that fine," retorted his companion imperiously, "but I never could bear Ritchie's pies!" —New Century.

Salt Hay.

Salt hay is used in winter for coloring various kinds of plants that grow close to the earth. It has a long staple, and it serves this purpose well. Straw with long staple still is used for bundling up plants and shrubs having stalks. Salt hay is used in cemeteries to cover up ivy clad graves. The ivy is thus kept in better condition than if it were left exposed to the blasts and the cold of winter. The brown hay is laid lengthwise upon the grave in a covering of uniform thickness all over it, which is held in place by bent rods settled down upon it at intervals, hoops, and with their ends in the ground on either side.

Political Wit.

The repartee of the political platform is frequently surpassed by the repartee of the crowd. Recently, at a Conservative meeting, a local politician "on the stump" declared, in vindication of his devotion to truth, that when a boy he had been thrashed by a mistaken father for telling it.

A Conservative Verdict.

"He died through his own exertion, with some slight assistance from his neighbors," was the verdict of an early day coroner's jury in Ellsworth county after it had heard testimony to the effect that the vigilance committee had made a horse thief climb a ladder against a telegraph pole and jump off with a rope around his neck.—Kansas City Journal.

In Germany "von" implies nobility, and all persons who belong to the nobility prefix "von" to their family names without any exception.

The Boston Public library has a file of the London Times complete from 1800 to the present time.

The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. De Witt's Little Early Risers are unequalled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill, safe pill. Howard Gardner.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter nauseating tonics. Price, 50c.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe and its exhausting aftereffects. Never fails. Howard Gardner.

To Our Friends and Patrons:

In closing our books for the year 1898 we find we have quite a number of small accounts which in themselves are trivial, but she aggregate would make quite a nice sum. While we wish to be obliging and courteous to our customers and try to please all, we must insist upon getting our business upon more of a Cash Basis.

To open so many small accounts involves quite an amount of book keeping and consumes too much valuable time. This can be avoided by paying cash for your bundle when delivered and do away with all possibility of disputed accounts.

Thanking our customers for their patronage in the past, and extending to each and every one the greetings of the season.
