SATURDAY, JAN. 28, 1899.

Right makes might but might doesn't always make right. However, many who are wrong might be right if they would throw away cranky or extremist ideas and make a fair effort to determine what is right.

The absence of our regular Washington special is accounted for in a message received this morning stating dent. that our correspondent has been quite sick for a few days; but it is hoped W. Smith, D. The Fayetteville Observer wrote nearly three columns about what was heralded over the state as a citizens' meeting in Fayetteville; but in much less space than that Rev. C. A. G. Thomas, who is well known in Greensboro, furnishes us with the plain, unvarnished facts about that meeting.

The city of Richmond has appropriated the sum of $6,000 as a special fund for the vaccination of the citizens of that city and imposes a fine of $5 on every person for each day's refusal to comply with the law-the law being compulsory vaccination. What are they body is cordially invited to attend. going to do with the fellow who hasn't got the five dollars?

As foreshadowed in our news columns yesterday the insanity dodge has been sprung in the Eagan courtmartial case to protect the commissary general against the execution of the verdict. This is no surprise and if half the stories are true about mismanagement in the affairs of the scrap with Spain Eagan is not the only crazy man in the lot. Sensible people would never manage things in the manner in which the authorities have vited been accused in this war business, and it will require something more tangible than anything yet handed out to make the people of the country believe that General Eagan is much worse than some of the rest. If he is a scoundrel he has company; and if he is crazy, Brockmann school of music hall. A ditto.

We have received a lengthy communication from our friend, Dr. L. I Bodenheimer, of High Point, which we haven't space to print today. He says he has signed a petition for the dispensary. AN INCIDENT THAT PROVED THE CUN-NING OF BISMARCK of His Official Correspondence to the Foreign Office.

Bismarck asked a grinning young shopboy in shirt sleeves, a blue linen apron, not of maiden freshness, and blessed with a pair of large, red, greasy paws, engaged in weighing some Dutch cheese, to oblige him with a sheet of writing direct a letter. On the boy producing the needful with the traditional "What else, sir?" Bismarck said: "My hands are rather Phone 156. cold. You had better do it for me." And he handed the boy a couple of letters wrapped in the sheet of bluish paper forming an envelope, for in those days made up envelopes were still unknown in Germany Evidently flattered by the good you can get on your wheel in request of such an imposing looking first class order. White. squalid little shop, the greasy handed youth took the parcel, and, having closed it skillfully with some brown sealing wax and indorsed it with the initials of the firm, he returned it to its owner to write the address.

"Sorry, my friend, to give you more trouble," said the future chancellor in his jovial way, "but I can't manage to write with my gloves on, so just address it for me." And he handed him a penciled slip with the name of Herr Fritz Piepenbrink or some such name, oil and colonial warehouseman, No. 000

A Close Shave. A circus paid a flying visit to a small country town, and the price of admission was sixpence, children under 10 years of age half price. It was Edith's tenth birthday, and her brother Tom, aged 13, took her in the afternoon to see the show. Arrived at the door, he put down ninepence and asked for two front seats.

"How old is the little girl?" asked the money taker doubtfully. "Well," replied Master Tom, "this born until rather late in the afternoon." The money taker accepted the statement and handed him the tickets. But
