OUR UNINSPIRED TROOPS.

Several American transports are en route home from the Philippines, not freighted with a victorious army, but loaded with troops who are sick and wounded unto death, unblamed victims of the unrighteous policy of the leaders of this government. Before the long and weary voyage across the water is over, many a poor boy, with no tender and loving hands to fold the pale hands across his breast, will have found a sailor's tomb, beneath the dark, restless waves.

Just one year ago yesterday, Ensign North Bagley, the brilliant young North Carolinian, yielded up his life, the first American officer to fall in the "war for humanity." A pall was cast over the nation at the death of one so young, so handsome and so brave. While our boys who are falling in the far eastern battlefield are as deeply mourned as the dead defenders of the oppressed Cubans, the cause for which they are dying is so far less esteemed, and so far just, that the men who made famous Cardenas and Santiago will ever be looked upon as the greater heroes.

There is no doubt that if the Spaniards or any other people were murdering the Filipinos and our troops had been sent across the seas to administer succor to the people who prefer death to the loss of their liberties, our soldiers, inspired by the glorious and Christian cause, would sweep everything before them as the wind scatters the chaff.

"Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just."

President McKinley is an inveterate smoker, and it is said that during his stay at the Hot Springs, he is trying to reduce his allowance of tobacco.—Exchange.

There is no need for the president to try to quit the habit. The people will make him smoke again next election.

Four men were killed in Mississippi in collecting a doctor's bill.—Richmond Times.

We are not informed of the number who were killed in the incurring of the bill, but suppose only one.

There is one thing Mr. Justice Walter Clark learned well when young: To say "no." A supreme court decision without having attached to its end his dissenting voice, would be a rare curio indeed.

Funston's name is said to be a terror to the poets. They can't find any thing that will rhyme with it.

WHAT MAKES A CITY.

Some Excellent Advice From the Pen of Mr. C. H. Ireland.

"Watchman, Tell Us of the Night, What the Signs of Promise Are." It is said by those competent to know, that underlying Greensboro there is a solid granite foundation of many miles in width, and the depth has not yet been penetrated. I have thought of this recently and wondered why, of this thrice blessed little city, did not take cognizance of nature and utilize this intimation for our perpetuity in our commercial and industrial relations. We are in the habit of hearing, yes, we have heard it until it has become a trite saying, "Greensboro is one of the coming towns of the South, and has a bright future before her." Let us look to our foundations. Not that foundations are all; but as necessary if we build permanently, and however good our foundations may be, let's bear in mind that foundations do not make structures, but it is the heaping of item on item, systematically planned, that makes a symmetrical structure at last. Now, one thing that we all have a way of doing, is to claim we are so centrally located we are bound to be a city. Central to what? There are localities in Central America that are centrally located with two continents to draw from. Localities do not make cities, however much they may contribute to them. Good farming localities and near do not build cities, but are of immense value in keeping them up once they are built. The country adjacent to Greensboro is unsurpassed, I believe, in the world. Schools and colleges do not build cities, however much they may be necessary to perpetuating them when they are built, and in no community, north or south, are people so blessed as they are in Greensboro in this particular.

Professional men do not build cities, they are the fruits of cities, and we have no cause to be nervous in comparing our professional men with other communities.

Merchants do not make cities. They grow as the city grows, and this class of our citizens may be termed the city's real barometers, for every city is great in proportion to its merchants. The merchant princes of the orient, the Mathers, Stewarts, Fields, Dodges, Wanamakers, and others of later years have done more to extend the scope and influence of the cities in which they reside than possibly any other class of its citizens. Our merchants are brought into close competition with those of other and larger cities throughout the country. Their works abide as a testimony to their ability.

Banks do not make cities. They are financial measurers of their success. The three strong institutions of this kind in our city speak well for our present and lend promise to a greater future development. Then one may ask what does make a city. Answer people, what attracts people? Employment, labor, what kind of labor? All kinds, skilled and unskilled. But the real development of the city depends upon the number and variety of those who convert raw material into manufactured articles. In other words, factories, manufacturing, give us these and all our present accomplishments. Genius and location become the terms which enable us to build the successful, substantial, well proportioned and symmetrical city, but unless the foundation is there, permanency can never be assured, and all the blow and dust about these other things will prove a delusion and a snare, and will like a bubble, burst and leave us at last worse than when he began. We have only to recall the events of the last few years in our unfortunate Virginia cities. Five years ago street cars, electric lights and buildings superior to any now in Greensboro, with populations greater than ours. Today many of them are deserted mansions, the home of bat and owl. Men shoot hares where they once "fenced lambs" of a different kind. The opium search of fruit that never grow, and where once the busy hum of footsteps surged to and fro, the quiet bovine chews her cud and dreams in quiet solitude and wonders at the folly of man.

Why did not these cities prosper? They did once. They were located in a region than which the world never saw better. Many of them had schools, colleges, stores, merchants and every evidence of thrift and prosperity. Yes! many had the buildings for manufacturing. Timber grew in plenty near. Iron ore in beds right under the city. Then why was it they retrograded? Simply because they failed to convert the raw material into manufactured articles. The harmony of their industrial music was destroyed by the lack of the deep bass in the hum of her machinery, the high treble of the spinning ring, the tattoo of hammer on anvil vice, and the cornet note of steam whistle calling a busy throng of men and women to labor and toil.

Let us take this to ourselves. Reader are you satisfied with our present factory achievements? Far be it from me to disparage one of our industries, even the smallest. Our wood-working factories, foundries, tobacco factories, overhaul and meat factories, cotton mills, finishing mills and knitting mills are all right as far as they go. The only thing they lack is the application of the multiplication table. There is one idea I think we should all combat, that because we can't have large factories we will have none. I believe a half dozen small factories will do more to build up a city than one with the capacity of six. Start small factories, cultivate them until they grow large; locate them inside the city. This is what makes cities. The area of Greensboro is sufficient now to build a city of 100 thousand. Make such inducements inside that men will not go outside. I am aware that this may interfere with some of the corn fields, madows and primal forests that now adorn some of our streets. But tax them to make revenue, to induce factories to locate here, or else to furnish sites for manufacturing establishments. But, says some one, I am no capitalist, what can I do? I believe this is a matter that concerns every one, and every one should contribute his mite. I have a plan: Let every man in Greensboro set aside one-tenth of his income to invest in some manufacturing enterprise; look well into its investment, sow your mite in faith and good judgment and await development. This may cost some inconvenience for the first year, but you keep it up five years and there will not be a man in our community whose income over and above what it now is that will not be more than sufficient for him to spare what he would now invest, but leave him a handsome surplus, which if properly directed, will yield him a handsome amount upon which he can depend in later years. Now stop, think, is this feasible? Then act. Build factories and manufacturing. Let this be the watchword for the next years to come—factories, factories, factories.

Rheumatism Cured.
My wife has used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with great relief, and I can recommend it as a splendid liniment for rheumatism and other household use for which we have found it valuable.—W. J. Cuyler, Red Creek, N. Y.

Mr. Cuyler is one of the leading merchants of this village and one of the most prominent men in this vicinity.—W. G. Phippin, Editor Red Creek Herald. For sale by C. E. Holton.

"Be mine," pleaded the poetic lover, "and your path in life will be strewn with roses." "Humph! and have me getting a rupture on the thorns. Not much!" retorted Miss Sprockett, who was no novice in the pursuit of cycling.

If you suffer from tenderness or fullness on the right side, pains under shoulder-blade, constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, and feel dull, heavy and sleepy, your liver is torpid and congested. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will cure you promptly, pleasantly and permanently by removing the congestion and causing the bile ducts to open and flow naturally. They are good pills. Howard Gardner.

Stern parent—"Look here, miss; kindly explain how it happened that I saw young Spooner hugging you in the parlor last evening." Bright daughter—"Why, it must have been because he didn't know you were looking in, papa."

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children.—W. A. Stroud, Popomoke City, Md. For sale by C. E. Holton.

"This story of yours, Scribbler, appears to me to lack crispness."
"Well, don't blame me. If the critics didn't roast it properly that's not my fault."

Hoax—"That tailor of mine is an impudent fellow. He got hot when I called him down about my clothes."
Joax—"Ah! made a fitting reply, did he?"
"No; his remarks were as ill-fitting as the suit."

Two Magnificent $400.00 Upright Pianos Will be Closed Out at Sacrifice Prices.
Having closed up one of our agencies in a neighboring town, I offer for immediate sale as follows: Two strictly high grade, large size, beautiful toned, upright pianos, in artistic French walnut and Antique oak cases, respectively. The piano in oak case is very slightly worn, it having been used in warehouses as a sample for about three months. Piano in French walnut case was shipped direct from factory for the use of a professional pianist and has been only about six weeks of service. Both as good as new and fully guaranteed by a company worth millions. These pianos sell the world over for $400.00, but in this instance cost or former prices will not be considered. The factory says "sell" and they must go. Terms will be given if desired. For further particulars address W. Frank Blount, Gen'l Factory Representative W. W. Kimball Co., Greensboro, N. C. P. O. box 283

People who have once taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers will never have anything else. They are the "faus little pills" for torpid liver and all irregularities of the system. Howard Gardner.

Wig—"What's the matter, old man? You look worried." Wag—"So I am. I ventured to make a few disparaging remarks to our janitor, and he replied with heat." Well! "Well! if I can't get him to turn it off I'll have to move; that's all."

Baldness Can be Cured
Just so long as there is a particle of vitality left in the hair roots. The fact that the hair is smooth and shining is no positive proof that the roots beneath are dead. Deep down beneath the skin, hair roots may yet exist, filled with latent vitality, and all that is required to develop them into a beautiful head of hair is the faithful application of the proper agents.

Seven Sutherland Sisters' preparations furnish the easiest, surest and quickest way to success. If there is or is not latent life beneath a head bare of hair. Why not try them?

RAW AS BEEF FROM ECZEMA!
No Torture Equal to the Itching and Burning of This Fearful Disease.

Not much attention is often paid to the first symptoms of Eczema, but it is not long before the little redness begins to itch and burn. This is but the beginning, and will lead to suffering and torture almost unendurable. It is a common mistake to regard a roughness and redness of the skin as merely a local irritation; it is but an indication of a humor in the blood—of terrible eruptions of ointments, salves, etc., applied to the surface. The disease itself, the real cause of the trouble, is in the blood, although all suffering is produced through the skin; the only way to reach the disease, therefore, is through the blood.

Mr. Phil T. Jones, of Mixersville, Ind., writes: "I had Eczema thirty years, and after a great deal of treatment my leg was so raw and sore that it gave me constant pain. It finally broke into a running sore, and began to spread and grow worse. For the past five or six years I have suffered untold agony and had given up all hope of ever being free from the disease, as I have been treated by some of the best physicians and have taken many blood medicines, all in vain. With little faith left I began to take S. S. S., and it apparently made the Eczema worse, but I knew that this was the way the remedy got rid of the poison. Continuing S. S. S., the sore healed up entirely, the skin became clear and smooth, and I was cured perfectly."

Eczema is an obstinate disease and can not be cured by a remedy which is only a tonic. Swift's Specific—

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD
—is superior to other blood remedies because it cures diseases which they can not reach. It goes to the bottom—to the cause of the disease—and will cure the worst case of Eczema, no matter what other treatment has failed. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed to be free from potash, mercury or any other mineral, and never fails to cure Eczema, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, Cancer, Tetter, Rheumatism, Open Sores, Ulcers, Bolls, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place.

Books on these diseases will be mailed free to any address by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.
