NORTHERN FARMER'S OPINION OF A GUILFORD COUNTY ROAD.

We received a call today from Mr. George W. Chamberlain, a northern gentleman, who has bought a farm and recently settled in this county at Vandalia, three miles south of the city. He informed us, in response to our inquiry of him for news, that he had "nothing of interest, except the roads." Mr. Chamberlain is from Middleborough, Mass., thirteen miles from Plymouth, the landing-place of the Pilgrims. He has only been in the county for little more than a month and is not yet inured to the bad road system of North Carolina. He informed us that the Asheboro road in the vicinity of Buffalo creek is the worst road he "had ever seen in civilization"; that it is a shame and a disgrace to Guilford county.

Guilford county has many natural and acquired advantages over the counties of this state; she has railroad facilities of the best, educational and religious opportunities rarely equalled, never surpassed; as fine a climate and as richly-productive a soil as exists anywhere in the world; industrial conditions, social status, and the other things which are required to constitute one of the most desirable locations that could be found for the northern farmer, but our public road system, until it shall have been reversed and public venues converted from their present un navigable condition into highways of easy transportation for the products of the farmer, the county must ever remain in its pristine backwoods state—a perpetual scarecrow to the foreign would-be investor in our fine soil.

The following is taken from the Asheboro Courier:

Richmond Pearson has said it and it must be true—the amendment is unconstitutional. This distinguished member of the kid glove gentry who never struck a lick of work in his life or did anything except spend the dollars he never earned, also says that the election law is unconstitutional. Richmond Pearson has some reputation as a checkers player, but we never heard him accused of having any knowledge of law. The republican party says that he knows more than all the eminent lawyers in the state. A simple layman who lives for fun and not for duty is heralded by the republican press as authority that even the most ignorant know that the opinion of eminent lawyers and judges is of more value than this son of a do-nothing. But with the republican party in its desperation, it is driven to setting up the opinion of a layman who never practiced law against the opinion of more than fifty of the ablest lawyers in the state, to whom the question of its constitutionality was submitted by the general assembly to the people for ratification.

Mr. Pearson has even lost his reputation at checkers—he used to be a fine player. John D. Humphreys, a young lawyer at Danbury, quit 117 games on him, if our memory serves us right.

It appears to us that when 13-inch steel projectiles weighing a thousand or two pounds are crunching through great plates of impenetrable armor and ploughing up decks of Harvey steel, that one's mind wouldn't contemplate danger from such insignificant things as wooden splinters. Yet the Spanish-American sea scraps demonstrated the fact that more injury is done by these split particles of furniture than by the steel thunderbolts. And for that reason the navy department has issued an order to place metal furniture on the cruiser Atlanta and the experiment will doubtless be followed on the other vessels belonging to Uncle Sam.

While the cotton crop in North Carolina is very short, there is a good deal of consolation in the recent rise in price of the staple.

The Charlotte News observes: Cotton is rising rapidly, and the wisdom of those farmers who held their cotton for higher prices is vindicated. There were people at the beginning of the season who accepted Neill's estimate of "over 12,000,000 bales" as the gospel truth, and who hooted at the idea of cotton getting over six and a half cents. Some of them predicted it would go below six and stay there for a year. Cotton is all ready over seven cents and "still a-rising." This is gratifying news for the farmers who have been selling their product for so much less in the past few years.

Ever and occasionally some artist of the gloves passes in his checks from the arena. Chas. Hoskins, of the "manly art," engaged in a bout with Jim Pindergast, at Grass Valley, Cal., Wednesday night. Jim put Charlie to sleep and Charlie didn't wake any more. The tempting purses offered by sporting clubs lure many a poor fellow to his doom.

And it seems that the law has totally forgotten all about prize-fighting. While the throngs are extending the welcoming hand to Dewey, there is another whom many Americans would be glad to see back on these shores—or anywhere away from the Philippines. That's Otis. He is as dismal a failure in the field of battle as Dewey was a howling success.

REV. MR. HODGINS'S DOCTRINE.

Easy to See Why So Many Are Opposed to It.

There appeared in the Charlotte Observer some time ago several articles in regard to Rev. T. C. Hodgins, and as we desired to know the truth we made an investigation, which we think in common justice, should be brought out. One accusation was that he had gotten into the Friends' Church, in Greensboro, unfairly.

The writer has seen a letter from Joseph Peel, pastor of the church, from which I quote some extracts: "I invited him to preach on Sunday morning and again Sunday night. On Monday night a vote was taken as to whether or not the meeting should continue. Several nights after he asked if there was a way to appear at any church in South Greensboro; when, if so, he wished to know, if he could get a church to preach in, if the way was no longer open in the Friends' church. Nearly, if not all, the members voted to continue the meeting. There was no official action taken by any committee. I feel sure a genuine work of grace was done. Class-leaders, church members and others were blessed as never before. Their friends note the difference.

"His doctrine of holiness and living a sinless life is so out of harmony with the natural heart that it is easy to see why so many are opposed to it. Those of us who have not had this blessed experience (sanctification) that he has, ought not to put ourselves in the way of doing all the good that he can. Let him who cannot honestly believe it hold to his doubts this unbelief, if he will; yet, if he speaks one word to shake the faith of others, then he assumes a terrible responsibility, for he is destroying that, in place of which he can have absolutely nothing to bestow. Abuse of a child of God, because he advocates a sinless life, is not the feeling which animates the sincere, high-minded Christian, and he who does should ponder well the meaning of the sacred words: "Who-so shall offend one of these little ones, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he cast into the sea."—"Justice," in Asheboro Courier.

Charitable female—"Here's a dime. How does the weather interfere with you?" "Why, yer see, I'm a pickpocket, lady, an' dese cool days everybody puts deir hands in deir own pockets."

Airship Galloped on Roofs.

Dr. R. G. Levery, of this city, has invented an airship. Wednesday he took the apparatus to the roof of his house and attempted to fly with it.

It did not work, and, believing that he was not high enough, he went to the roof of the house of Dr. Frank Thayer, No. 6 Highland avenue.

There the flying machine cavorted like a, bucking broncho over the house tops.

Levery says he is satisfied with the trial, and, with a few alterations, declares that he is sure of success.
