We publish this clipping from the Durham Sun in regard, to the schools of Durham and Buncombe counties It is our belief that Guilford county is in a better position to develop educational interest in its borders than any other county in North Carolina. With the Normal and Industrial College, Greensboro Female College, Guilford College, Oak Ridge, Whitsett Institute and graded schools in Greensboro and High Point, it does look like Guilford should have the best public school system in the state. We ba lieve that the opportunity of having the best county public school system in the state is here. Systematic and determined effort will bring it about.
