BRUTAL MURDER.

Preacher Who, After Having Shown Him Kindness, Struck Down with an Ax.

Columbia, S. C., June 27.—Rev. Patrick Chambers, a Baptist preacher, and a gentleman of the highest standing, a man of influence as a public-spirited citizen, was slain by his son-in-law last night in his home, at Hally Spring, Geesee county.

The weapon used was an axe and the killing was of the most brutal character.

For years Mr. Chambers has been supporting Daniel Roach and his family. The son-in-law would do no work. He has been in trouble several times, and the preacher paid him out.

Last night Mr. Chambers protested against Roach's continued idleness, telling him he should go to work. The young man became infuriated, went into the yard, got an ax, and crushed Mr. Chambers' head. He has been arrested, and the feeling against him is very high.

E. C. SMITH ELECTED.

A Raleigh Man Knight Commander of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Richmond, June 28.—The Kappa Alpha Fraternity convention in session here to day elected Edward C. Smith, of Raleigh, N. C., a Davidson College man, knight commander, over Judge J. L. Hardeman, of Macon, Ga., the present incumbent, by a majority of six votes on the second ballot, the first resulting in a tie. R. E. Pritchard, of Chatanooga, Tenn., from the University of Tennessee, was re-elected editor of The Journal by a good majority over G. H. Terriberry, of New Orleans, Tulane University, and Nathan Elliot, of Lexington, Ky., University.

Minister Sues Wife for Divorce.

By Wire to The Telegram. Detroit, Mich., June 28.—Rev. William Brandon, pastor of the Second Baptist church, this city, sues his wife for divorce and alleges that frequently he was locked out of the house and that he was hit with shoes, when he tried to get in at the window. Says he often had to cook dinner on Sunday after services.

YALE VICTOR OVER HARVARD.

THE SONS OF ELI WIN THE VARSITY RACE.

When The End of the Four Mile Struggle Was Reached the Shells Were Less Than a Length Apart.

New London, Conn., June 27.—Yale won the varsity race with Harvard this evening by less than a length in the last 100 yards of the four-mile struggle. It was one of the most beautiful contests between the crews of the two universities ever seen on the river.

From the sound of the referee's pistol until the finish it was anybody's race. Harvard got the best of the start and was slightly ahead in the first mile, then Yale pulled to the front. Harvard spurred and the boats were even. Then the Crimson shell was a bit ahead and at three-mile mark it seemed as if Harvard would be victorious, but the awful pace was telling on the Cambridge boat. Yale came up alongside again and along the line between rows of yachts that flanked the line it was absolutely an even thing.

The shells entered the finishing mile with beautiful water conditions between the long line of yachts, and it remained for this mile to afford the most spectacular contest seen on the Thames for many a year. With guns booming and sirens shrieking the two boats swept down the line. Harvard was still ahead, but Yale was clinging to her close. It was not until the three and a half mile point that Chittenden, the Yale coxswain, called on his men for a mighty effort. Up went the Yale stroke and up crept the Yale shell. Harvard tried to respond and her men answered the call heroically, but the sons of Eli tore along in a style that was maddening for Harvard's supporters. The three and a half mile point found Yale again in the lead. She was never headed. Indeed with Harvard never letting down for an instant, Yale took on strength and the Yale men began to steal away by feet. It was nothing but Yale after this and became the generous proportions of a length. Then it was one length and open water appeared for the first time. It was the old story of a Yale crew with skill and endurance to stay in the last stages of the long journey. Yale's victory was one of a scant two lengths. The time on account of the low stroke rowed, was slow. The official time was Yale, 23:37; Harvard, 23:45.

The end found Goodell, the bow oar in the Harvard shell in a state of collapse. It was necessary to lift him from his seat into the launch. In the Yale shell Stroke Cameron, too, was in distress, but he was able to help himself to the Yale launch. The other oarsmen were strong and in good condition.

The freshman race and the four-oar contest preceded the big contest of the day. In the freshman eights Yale took the lead at the start and was never headed. The time was: Yale, 16:27 4-5; Harvard, 16:48.

Harvard won the four oars easily, crossing the line in 11:49 1-5, six lengths ahead of Yale. The time of Yale was 12:09 1-5.

Country Homes Improving.

North Carolina Baptist.

One of the best signs in connection with the home life of our people is the improvement which is so marked in the surroundings and furnishings of the average home in the country. We have closely observed this for the past ten years and this improvement is gratifying. Bare floors are giving place to carpets and matting; silent walls are being made to speak eternal messages from appropriate pictures, and pianos and organs are on every hand to cheer and gladden and entertain. And whenever there is a gathering of young people in the country home the sweet songs of Zion are sung with a beauty and richness that is wonderful. There is very little of the light and frivolous in their music. And from these homes are coming men and women who are leaders in our churches and important factors in the social life of the country.

This betterment of the homes bears better interest on the investment than stocks and bonds or cattle and lands. It makes home more attractive—gives it stronger holding qualities—and a place that the boy and girl are not anxious to leave.

PRIZE CASES DECIDED.

Boats and Cargoes Captured at Manila are Prizes, but Property Taken on Shore is Not.

Washington, June 27.—Justice Bradley, in the Equity Court today, decided the Manila and Santiago Bay prizes. The decision is in favor of the claimants as to vessels captured and as to property taken from vessels so captured and not destroyed; that property captured ashore is not subject to prize; vessels sunk and not claimed as prize and for which bounty was given is prize; that the cargoes or cargo boats and all floating derricks that were captured at Manila are not prize.

The Santiago cases hinges on the Manila decision. According to counsel the claimants, in the Manila case receive a total of $288,000, divided among about 2,000 people, and the claimants in the Santiago case will get in the neighborhood of $50,000 distributed among about 3,000 persons. These figures, however, are not final. These amounts are in addition to the bounties already allowed by the Court of Claims. Admiral Dewey, his officers and men, are the claimants in the Manila case, and Admiral Sampson, his officers, and men are the claimants in the Santiago case.

The Leprosy Scare.

There is no little alarm over the presence and increase of leprosy in the United States.

Recently eight thousand letters of inquiry were sent out by the government health authorities of Washington to local health officers, city and country physicians and heads of all the hospitals in the country asking information regarding the existence of leprosy and the condition of its victims. Up to the first of last week two thousand replies had been received. They disclose the presence of 275 lepers in the United States and it is believed that the total number in this country is fully 1,000.

Of the cases already reported to the authorities at Washington 76 are in Louisiana, 23 in Minnesota, 15 in North Dakota, 5 in Chicago, and 6 in New York.

The Pacific coast, where there is probably more leprosy than in any other part of this country, has not been officially heard from.

Nearly all the lepers in the United States who have been reported are foreigners. Those in Louisiana are mostly Italians.

Leprosy has increased in this country to an extent which, in the opinion of the medical officials at Washington makes it necessary for the federal authorities to assume control of it as it has over other epidemics. As to the probabilities of the spread of this terrible disease in the United States opinions differ widely, but all agree that every possible precaution against it should be taken.

Our closer relations with Hawaii and the countries of the far east, where leprosy abounds, account for the large number of cases of leprosy in the United States, where it was until a recent date almost entirely unknown.

Flesh a Natural Food.

Everybody's Magazine.

There is no doubt of the fact that an excessive use of alcohol acts on the system as a direct poison and produces most disastrous effects, and to eat too much beef deranges digestion and interferes with thought but further than this there seems to be no grounds for special caution. I have often read it claimed that eating of flesh tends to turn man into a predatory animal of a carnivorous character—that is, to make a lion, a tiger, or a hyena—but it appears more reasonable to suppose that the lion feeds on fish, because it is his natural food, rather than the eating of flesh made a lion out of him instead of a gazelle. I don't know how many billions of years you would have to feed a gazelle on flesh before it would be turned into a lion; nor could I calculate how many years you would have to feed a lion on cereals before you could turn him into a gazelle.
