MISS RUTH ALLSBROOK ENTERTAINS HER FRIENDS

Miss Mary Ruth Allsbrook entertained fifty-six of her young friends last evening at her home on Eighth street from eight-thirty until eleven o'clock, the occasion being her fourteenth birthday. The home was beautifully decorated with potted plants, nasturtiums and pansies in honor of the occasion.

The principal event of the evening's entertainment was an advertising contest in which four of the guests tied for the prize. Mr. John Troy of Durham drew the prize, while Mr. Waldo Austin drew the booby. Each guest was presented his fortune tied up in a peanut shell. Refreshments consisting of delicious ice cream and cake was served late in the evening, after which the young people had the charming young hostess good night.

TRUCK DRIVER HAS RUN-IN WITH LOCAL FIRE CHIEF

Becoming enraged at Fire Chief D. D. Overton for a fancied insult, young Capehart, the driver of the city fire truck, had a run-in with several members of the fire company this afternoon and ultimately landed in the hands of the city police force. The trouble happened near the post office just as the truck was lining up to take part in the Chautauqua parade. It seems that Capehart took offense because some one else was driving the truck, and after resigning on the spot he attempted to assault the chief. Several members prevented an affray, but Capehart became so violent that it was necessary for the police to take him in charge.

CAUGHT FIGHTING

Richard McGowan, an elderly son of Ham, caught two 20-pound hard-shell turtles near the bridge at the river this morning. They were both fighting at the time they were caught and if the fighting was anything like the scare that the small barefoot lads had when they saw the turtle coming toward them on Evans street this afternoon, it must have been some tall fighting. The turtles attracted considerable attention on the street and one party in the crowd said it had been a long time since one of this size was seen in these parts.

SPICEY SQUIBS.

Eggs are coming down again—and, therefore, they are going down.
With Long Island cucumbers selling at $3.00 a thousand it is cheaper for the natives to get pickled than it is to eat pickles.

SUMMER TERM OF MODEL SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

The summer term of the Model school will open Monday morning for a term of six weeks. The work will be under the direction of four teachers, and will embrace all the school courses from the first to the seventh grades, inclusive. All those recommended for attendance should be on hand promptly for the opening.

All children attending the school who have Junior Chautauqua tickets will be excused in time for the afternoon program.

LOCAL EPISCOPAL CHURCH SECURES NEW MINISTER

The local Episcopal church is fortunate in having secured as pastor for the summer, Rev. George Boate of Sewanee Seminary, who reaches here today. Rev. Boate comes highly recommended to the local church to fill in the summer pastorate, and will deliver his first sermon tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church. There will be Sunday School also there at 10:30 A. M.

CHAUTAQUA GUARANTORS HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

The local guarantors of the Chautauqua met in the court house last night to perfect plans for a successful opening of the week's entertainment. A large and enthusiastic number were present to meet Mr. Hunt Cook, the director in charge here, who outlined to them the necessary steps for making the Chautauqua a success. The committee on the sale of season tickets reported that the sales had exceeded that of last year, and that they anticipated no difficulty in selling the required number. They were given until tonight to complete the sales.

After a parade this afternoon at three o'clock the opening entertainment will be given at the Chautauqua tent just back of the post office, beginning promptly at three-thirty o'clock. There will be a lecture by Supt. Cook, together with a musical program by the McKinnie Operatic Co. Both these are first class numbers on the week's bill, and will be well worth hearing.

For tonight Peter MacQueen, who spent three months in the trenches in Europe, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Great European War." Mr. MacQueen has a thorough knowledge of conditions in the stricken war zone, and his description of it, together with many illustrated slides, makes this lecture of absorbing interest to everyone. This alone is worth the price of an entire ticket.

If you haven't purchased yours yet, be sure to get it before tonight's performance. There are relatively few left, and if you get left on the season ticket proposition, you will have no one to kick except yourself.

Richard, the Hunchback.
Of all the kings of England, perhaps Richard, the hunchback, has the most sinister reputation, his only rival being the crafty John. He died on Bosworth field, fighting for the crown he had gained by murder. It is a matter of history as well as of Shakespeare—not always the same thing—that the tide of success turned against Richard when Lord Stanley took himself and his men from his side to that of Richmond. When hard pressed, Richard cried: "I am king of England! I will not budge an inch." Then, being overwhelmed, he died, crying, "Treason! Treason!"

Temperament.
Technically, temperament means "the special type of mental constitution due to natural characteristics of the bodily organism. Broadly speaking, temperament is character—the mental make-up of a person, the way he is inclined to think and feel about things in general.

Division to Two-Mile Trench.
A division, which is the largest body known in the organization of the American army, will fully man two miles of trenches. The regulation distance in the manning of a trench is a yard to a man. There are three lines, however, needed to fully man such defenses—the firing line, which is down in the trench, a yard behind each man; the support, which is back a short distance, and the reserve.

Knew His Age.
Allan, on his second birthday, was told by his mother that he was two years old. That same day his mother weighed him, and as she lifted him off the scale she said: "You weigh just thirty pounds." That evening, when the little boy's father came home he said: "Well, Allan, how old are you?" Allan hesitated a few seconds and then replied, "Two years and thirty pounds."

Road to Wickedness.
The many prove, the wisdom of Hesiod, who says that the road to wickedness is smooth and very short, and there is no need of perspiring. But before virtue the immortal gods have placed the sweat of labor, and long and steep is the way thither, and rugged at first; but when you have reached the top, then, however difficult, it becomes easy.—Hata.

Preserve the Vitamines.
The use of bicarbonate of sodium in the manufacture of bread is deleterious, because on baking it is converted into the carbonate which tends to destroy the vitamines. The effect of this is obviated by adding such acid substances as buttermilk or cream of tartar. Because the vitamines are so important the growing and importation of vegetables and acid fruits should be encouraged.

Carrier Pigeons Still Used.
Even to day, when airplanes and wireless play a conspicuous role, carrier pigeons play their part as well. Fliers can be shot down, and wireless messages might be taken up by enemy operators. The pigeon in many cases, is the safest carrier, for seldom the bird is shot down. As a rule four or five pigeons are sent off with the same message, to make sure that at least one will reach its destination.

Master of Circumstance.
We are forced to accept circumstances, many of them into account in our planning. No one is big enough to disregard them, but everyone should be big enough to refuse to be mastered by them. A creature of circumstance is always a poor creature. We have no right to allow the chance of today, the accident of tomorrow, to decide our future.—Exchange.

Prussic Acid.
Prussic acid is so deadly that even the smell of the acid produces pain in the throat, and in the region of the heart. There are few poisons for which there is such little opportunity for an antidote. If there is time—and there seldom is, for the poison is almost instantaneous—ammonia inhaled very freely may give relief and reduce the absolute certainty of death to a grave probability.

Flowers of Sanctity.
Long ago certain fragrant flowers bloomed. They were of eight kinds, and belonged to the species called "flowers of sanctity." Their names, as rendered from the Sanskrit were: Clemency, Self-Restraint, Affection, Patience, Resignation (repression of any mental perturbation), Devotion, Meditation, Veracity. It is thought that the correct modern botanical titles remain unassigned.—From a note-book.

Turns Eyes Inside Out.
The garden shall's eyes are on the very tips of a pair of very long tentacles and it has an additional pair of shorter tentacles with which it smells. When any danger approaches the eyes are drawn down within the tentacles and the tentacles themselves are pulled into the body in exactly the same way as you would pull a glove finger inside out.

Maxims of Agriculture.
"It is a maxim agreed upon in agriculture that nothing must be done too late; and, again, that everything must be done at its proper season; while there is a third precept which reminds us that opportunity lost can never be regained."—Pliny the Elder.

"Key" Not Spanish Word.
The word "Key" as used in Key West, the island and city of Florida, is not, as supposed, entirely a Spanish word. Key is a Spanish corruption of an American Indian word meaning an island, a sandbank or a rock in the sea.

Treaty of Ghent.
The treaty of Ghent was one between the United States and Great Britain which ended the war of 1812. It was concluded December 24, 1814, and ratified early in 1815. It provided for the restoration of captured territory, property and records; for the release of prisoners of war, for the establishment of a boundary line between the United States and Canada, and other matters.
