England in Gloom Over War at the End of Third Year of Strife

British are Despondent Over Outlook for Future

BY EDWARD L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON.—(Passed by the Censor)—Copyright United Press.—This is not a cheerful message, but is one which is believed to be necessary in order that America may know how Englishmen feel during the closing days of the third year of the great war.

It is a regrettable fact that never since the retreat from Mons has gloom been thicker than today on the London streets, in the Clubs, in homes, and even in some government offices. The immediate cause, of course, is Russia's sudden reversal of form after a totally unexpected, but spectacularly successful offensive.

But secondly, there is a suspicion prevalent that there has been no appreciable reduction of the submarine menace. Thirdly, there is disappointment of America's slowness in entering wholeheartedly into the war, as is exemplified by the Congressional obstruction of President Wilson's Food Program, the Shipping Board, etc.

Fourthly, the increased cost of the war and the prospects for higher taxes. Fifthly, general weariness of the war.

Haig holds the complete confidence of the English people, but few in England believe that their forces will be able to force back the Germans until millions of "Sammies" arrive on the battlefields.

The prospect of a German invasion of Russia means the opening up of vast resources of food materials to the Germans, giving them an economic advantage and rendering the North Sea blockade useless.

1—French troops occupy old German shelters which they captured on the Aisne front. 2—Percy Grainger, noted pianist and composer, in his new uniform as a saxophone player in the band of the United States Coast artillery; he had been receiving $1,000 a performance, and now his pay is $30 a month. 3—Members of an Officers' Reserve corps being drilled in the use of the bayonet. 4—Gen. Chang Hsun, who made a vain attempt to restore the Manchurian empire in China.

INTERNAL STRIFE IS RAGING IN RUSSIA BETWEEN THE PARTIES

BY WILLIAM SHEPPARD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PETROGRAD.—The struggle between Premier Kerensky and the Provisional Government against the discordant elements of Russia has become a fight to prevent Russia from returning to the old regime of absolutism and repression. That Kerensky senses the spirit of the counter-revolution which is coming after the military breakdown is indicated by two different speeches that he has delivered since Tuesday.

No requests from Local Boards will be considered unless first sent to the Governor.

Greenville is to Furnish Ambulance

Under the leadership of J. L. Little a meeting was held in the court house yesterday afternoon for the purpose of raising money to provide an ambulance for the use of North Carolina troops during the war. The call for fifty ambulances has gone out among the towns and cities of the state, and already towns have contributed one or more. Durham has contributed two, Wilson two, Raleigh one, and several other towns one.

Each ambulance costs $750, and it is believed that this sum will be raised in Greenville today without any trouble. This town has not shown much activity so far, due undoubtedly to the fact that there is no military organization here, but Greenville is not lacking in patriotism, and here is one opportunity to show a patriotic spirit in a concrete way.

With only about twenty people present at the meeting $149 was raised in a few minutes. Two committees, consisting of W. B. Bowen and G. B. W. Hadley, J. L. Simmons and B. W. Moseley were appointed to make a thorough canvass of the men of the town this morning, and the results were very gratifying.

This is a cause that has a personal appeal to everyone who has any one near to him who may have to go to the war. Greenville should not stop at an ambulance, but should be able to raise enough to furnish two of them without any difficulty.

This paper will be glad to receive donations for this most worthy cause. Each day there will be published a list of contributions, and Greenville should "come across" with generous heart and open pocketbook.
