WITHOUT FOOD FOR THREE DAYS

It came to the attention of this paper this morning that a colored family in the Cotton Mill district, consisting of five, are all down with influenza and it was further reported that they had been without food for the past three days as no one in that neighborhood would go to the home on account of the disease. The matter was reported to the Red Cross by a representative of this paper.

TASK OF RECONSTRUCTING EUROPE APPALLING TO PAPER

(By Associated Press.)

London.—The vastness of the task of reconstructing continental Europe seems appalling to the Saturday Review.

"We care about to witness," it says, "the spectacle of Central and Eastern Europe being handed over to some twenty-four international mixed bodies called commissions. As each commission has on an average seven members, with an attendant army of clerks and secretaries, the reign of the official is likely to be expensive and prolonged. Under the Treaty of Versailles the following 24 commissions must be appointed forthwith:

"To determine the new frontier between Germany and Belgium, trace the frontiers of the Saar Basin, govern the Saar Basin, apportion the stock in the Saar Basin, administer the province of the central Rhine, delimit the frontiers of Czecho-Slovakia, determine the boundaries between Germany and Poland, superintend the evacuation of Upper Silesia and take over East Prussia after evacuation, administer the plebiscite area of Stuhm, Rosenberg, and Marienburg, for the delimitation of the free city of Danzig, take the plebiscite of Sleswig, determine the boundaries of Sleswig, reduce the German army, the Naval Commission, the Air Force Commission, Repatriation Commission, Clearance of Debts Commission, Insurance Commission, Elbe Commission, for the navigation and management, Order Commission, Niemen Commission, Danube Commission and the Reparation Commission."

The latter the Saturday Review describes as "the greatest of all, with the task of skinning Germany alive for the next thirty years or in perpetuity.

"In addition to the above," the Review continued, "there is to be set up an International Labor Office, and a permanent Court of International Justice. How long will this vast cobweb of international officials endure? Until the next war, possibly."

Mayor Clark Replies To C. T. Munford In Re Carolina Street.

public identification, for the street is popularly known as "King Row". Just as another street is popularly known as Railroad Street and another as Speed Way etc. As an engineer I have surveyed nearly all of the streets of the Town and am fairly familiar with them both by name and location. Also I am a North Carolinian although not a native of Pitt County.

Personally our interest in this matter is based on the proven fact that it will be impossible for the Imperial Tobacco Company to increase its capacity unless this property can be acquired, and therefore realizing the resultant loss to every business interest of the Town as well as to the tobacco farmers, we have proceeded to close the said street, and we trust that Mr. Munford will reconsider and not injoin the future progress and development of Greenville.

Respectfully,
D. M. Clark, Mayor
