SIXTY FOUR STUDENTS OF THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL FORMALLY RECEIVED INTO HIGH SCHOOL

The graduating exercises of the Greenville High School will take place in the High School building tonight at which time the literary address will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. F. S. Love, president of the Lenoir County Female College and the diplomas presented to the class of 1920. The program for the occasion is as attractive as any. The public is cordially invited to attend. A very impressive ceremony took place in the High School this morning at eleven o'clock when Mr. E. G. Flanagan, representing the Board of Education formally received in the High School a class of sixty-four who have just finished the grammar school. This is the largest class ever admitted at any one time to the high school in the history of this institution. Mr. Flanagan made a most happy speech in receiving these sixty-four pupils he said: Young Ladies and Gentlemen: I am pleased to have the opportunity of making a few remarks to you this morning and I am also pleased to see that what is being accomplished in our schools in Greenville. You are here this morning to receive a certificate of graduation from the Grammar School. You have started a foundation of building character, honesty and integrity. Your foundation is built upon the rocks and not upon the sand. You have reached the floor level and today will receive from my hands a certificate of graduation for what you have accomplished. You have graduated from the Grammar School, and the next step for you to take is to continue the building of this building and on the opening of the next session of the High School, I trust that each and every one of you will be found occupying your place in the High School, which you have so deservedly won. Let me advise that some of you more than probably will have to make a sacrifice in order to continue your education through the High School, but whatever that sacrifice may be, make up your minds you are going to meet it like a man or a woman. When you have reached the second story of your building, which you have laid the foundation for, you will then receive a certificate of graduation from the High School, and in my opinion, a High School education is an absolute necessity to success in this day and time. You have completed your first task in the Educational line and when you begin in the High School, don't let anything influence you not to finish. The day you complete the High School work, you place yourself in a position to stand alone, and not have to lean on someone else. A boy or a girl without a High School education is handicapped all his life. Don't let some one tempt you away from school by offering you some little job that will pay you some small amount of money, but stick to your work until you have finished your task. The man or woman who is always starting something and never finishes his task never makes a success in life. Let this be your motto: "Whatever I begin, I will finish," and if you take this as your motto, your success in life is assured. Of course, after you complete the High School, there are many stories you can add to your building, but you cannot build the second story until you build the first story, and as I said before, the completion of the first story, the finishing of the High School work is absolutely necessary for your success. So start your task next September in this building, and remember your motto: "Whatever I begin, I will finish."

HOW VA. OYSTER MEN PROFITED BY DISCOVERY

Providence, R. I.—How Virginia oyster-men profited by the discovery that green-gilled oysters which they had discarded as worthless were identical with the famous Marrennes green oysters which are considered a great delicacy in France is one of the interesting facts disclosed by Professor Philip H. Mitchell, of Brown University, in an informal resume of his researches in oyster culture. In the joint effort of the federal Bureau of Fisheries and the Rhode Island State Shellfish Commission to determine the causes of a decline of the oyster industry and to devise remedies the aid of Brown University was sought. Professor Mitchell has been observing the oysters of Narragansett Bay for five years partly while he was serving as director of the federal fisheries biological station at Woods Hole, Mass. The explanation of "green-gill" in oysters was one of the things which he sought and found. "Practically no part of the animal," said Professor Mitchell, "except the gills shows any unusual color, and this is a pale greenish-gray. The condition seldom appears in American oysters. Occasionally, however, sporadic outbursts lasting one or two seasons appear among the Virginia oysters. They correspond exactly to the description of the famous green oysters of Marrennes on the coast of France. I was able to show that they are exactly the same thing and produced in the same way. "When it was shown during the recent outbreak of green-gill in Virginia that they were of the genuine Marrennes type, what previously had been a loss to oyster-men became an asset and green-gills from the Virginia beds were sold to leading hotels in New York and Washington," said Professor Mitchell. He explained that all oysters feed on microscopic plants called diatoms and that they when a certain species of diatom is abundant in the water the oysters he described as "extra fat and very luscious." Another problem attacked was the cause of a bluishgreen color sometimes seen in oysters. This was found to be due to the presence of copper which oysters absorb from seawater. Professor Mitchell said that amounts of copper small enough to escape detection were not dangerous to health and that discolored oysters never were marketed until after they had been transplanted to a region where the oysters slowly free themselves from the copper. "If any one should attempt to eat them," he remarked, "he would probably never manage to swallow the first one. The pronounced taste of the copper compounds is, to say the least, unpalatable."

GERMANS CANT PAY INDEMNITY PAPER CLAIMS

(By Associated Press.) Berlin.—Whatever may be the size of the indemnity to be demanded from Germany by the Entente, the newspaper Germania says Germany cannot pay it. Taxation, it adds, has already reached its utmost bearable limits and further burdens would be tantamount to confiscation. The paper asserted there was danger that German delegates to the conference at Spa would be forced to sign undertakings which they knew could not be carried out. Graham Flanagan came in last night from Richmond, Va. for a few days visit.

WOMAN MAYOR NOW RULES IN JACKSON, WYO.

(By Associated Press.) Cheyenne, Wyo.—A woman Mayor, Mrs. Grace Miller, now rules in Jackson, the population center of the Jackson's Hole country which long was famous in fact and fiction as the resort of outlaws, cattle rustlers, horse thieves and other bad men of the west that once was. For what is said to be the first time in history, there is not a man in the city hall of an American municipality; for a city administration composed entirely of women has been sworn into office as a result of the election in May. There is not a man in Jackson's city hall. Jackson is a diminutive city with a population of not quite 300. Perhaps no other section of the United States is so far isolated from the railroads and from all-year traffic. The nearest railway station is 75 miles away, and from November until May the highway to that station is virtually impassable. Surrounded by the high mountains in the range south of Yellowstone National Park, the residents of Jackson make little or no attempt to travel during the winter months. It was in Jackson's Hole that the bad men made their last stand against the advancing wave of civilization 30 or 40 years ago. There they flocked after stealing cattle or horses or other robberies or hold-ups and banded themselves together for mutual protection. Today Jackson, itself, has surrendered to the feminist movement and made a clean sweep of every male officeholder. The only explanation thus far given for the overturn comes from the editor of The Courier, the city's sole newspaper, who says in his paper: "It is thought the novelty of being the first city on record to be governed entirely by women helped them to secure such a complete victory. The editor who was, himself, a candidate, accepts the results without repining but says the women surprised even themselves by the result. There was no unusual campaigning, no special issue at stake, nor was there an unusually heavy vote. Mrs. Miller defeated Fred Lovejoy for mayor by a vote of 56 to 28. Four women were elected members of the city council over four men candidates by about the same relative vote."

GARDNER LEADING BY TWO TO ONE FOR GOVERNOR ACCORDING TO THE POLL TAKEN BY BOST

According to Mr. W. T. Bost of Raleigh, one of the best informed political writers in North Carolina who has just taken a three district statewide straw vote on the race for governor says Gardner is leading two to one. These polls were taken from every section of the state and show the unmistakable drift for Mr. Gardner and indicate his nomination in the first primary tomorrow. Mr. Bost did this for his own information and to give the people of the state a forecast of the outcome of the three cornered fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. First—40 Days Ago.

OVERTHROW OF PRES. CARRANZA FOLLOWS EXCITING EPISEOS

Mexico City.—The revolution which overthrew President Carranza and culminated in his death was attended by many interesting or exciting episodes which could not be reported to the outside while the coup was in progress. Some of the discoveries which have followed the installation of new authority in the capital city, too, have been entertaining. Notable was that revealed by an interim official of the Treasury Department who announced they had found evidence of a fraud which had netted somebody an amount estimated at about 1,000,000 pesos. The papers here say that, when the infallible stamps money with which the country was flooded) during the last previous revolution) were burned, about one-quarter of the amount officially reported to have been destroyed had been previously extracted and sold at the current rate of 10 centavos on the peso. The Carranza government had been taking the old paper money in as a sort of surptax on import duties and other taxes. Later it was supposed to be burned. n.

Food prices increased and change, which has been the bulbar of everybody since silver began its sensational rise months ago, sold at a 15 percent premium. The Indians who sell produce in the markets demanded metal currency and got it. Many foreigners, fearing a protracted struggle and a food shortage, laid in ample supplies. One American housewife bought 30 chickens which she put to roost in the bathroom of her apartment. She was too excited to heed the advice of the Indian woman who sold the fowls that she should buy ducks. The spectacle of a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants absolutely cut off from communication with the world for almost nine days was not the least interesting phase of the evacuation by Carranza. Both cable and telegraphic communication ceased about 9 p. m. on May 6. Until May 15 the cable lines were useless. An unreliable line were restored. Because of numerous relays and other wire troubles, those mending messages from the capital could not learn if their messages reached their destination. The same conditions obtained more or less throughout those parts of the republic distant from the border and the coasts. oForeign press correspondents filed stories on the national lines, trusting to luck that part of them might see print. As safeguards they left summaries with the military authorities for possible transmission by government wireless, filed other summaries with the cable company and still others with travelers leaving in attempts to reach the border.

BROOKS MAKES CLEVER APPEAL AT BURLINGTON

A crowd that filled the lower floor and partly filled the gallery of an auditorium said to have a capacity of 1200 people tonight heard A. L. Brooks make a marvelously clever appeal for their support in the primaries June 5. Mr. Brooks spoke for an hour; and in that time he worked his audience up from the decorous hand-clapping that welcomed him to the spiritation, topped off with a tribute to Woodrow Wilson and his 14 "new commandments."
