THE PEOPLE SHOULD DEFEAT PARKER, CAM MORRISON SAYS

Says in Interview that G. O. P. Candidate for Governor and Mrs. Sharpe, Candidate for State Treasurer Have Given Warning that if Republican Party is Entrusted with Power in State it Will Tear Down the Great School System Built Under the Leadership of North Carolina's Greatest Educators.

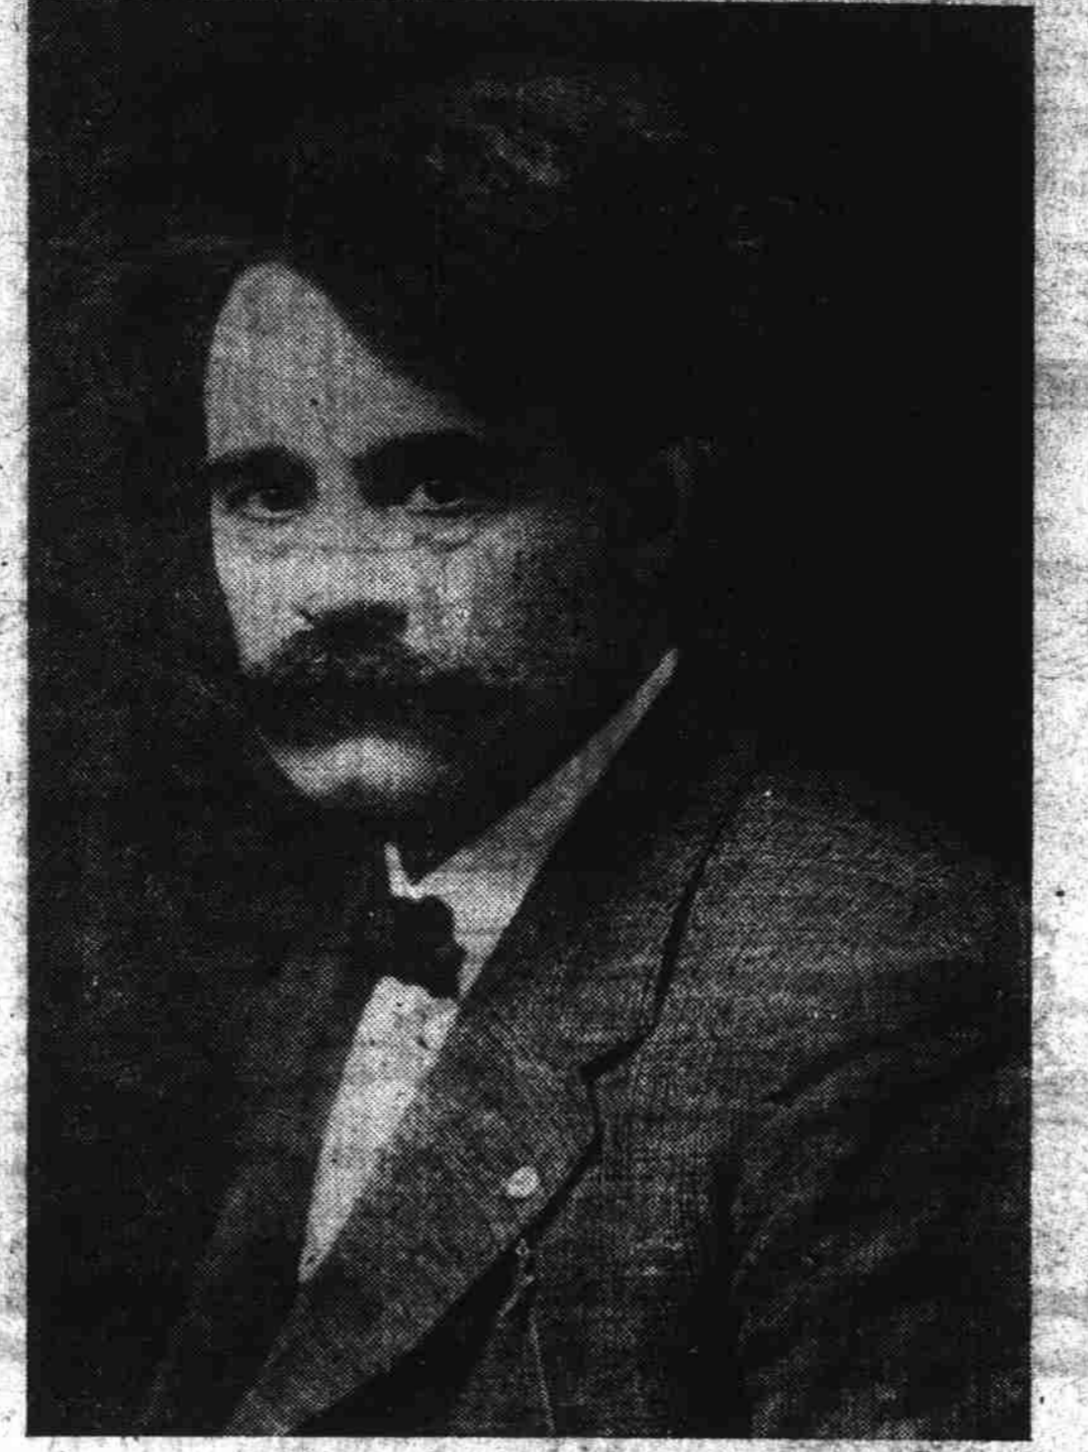

RALEIGH, Oct. 20.—"The people of North Carolina who have taken such a pride in the great progress we have made during the last 20 years in the education of our children ought to arouse themselves to defeat John J. Parker, the Republican candidate for governor, and Mrs. Mary Settle Sharpe, the Republican nominee for state superintendent of public instruction, as well as every Republican candidate for incoming General Assembly," declared Cameron Morrison, Democratic nominee for governor, in an interview here this morning.

Mr. Morrison reiterated what he said in his speech at Sanford last night in defense of the public school system of the state. "Mr. Parker and Mrs. Sharpe," he said "have given warning that if the Republican party is entrusted with power in the state it will tear down the great school system built under the leadership of North Carolina's great educators and erect upon the ruins a system of their own. These Republicans denounce our school system as inferior to that of the Fiji Islands and declare that the work of Aycock, Alderman, Melver, Noble, Joyner and Brooks is utterly worthless. They say that our school system must be destroyed and Mr. Parker declares, Mrs. Sharpe, agreeing that they are upon to scrap this system and erect upon the ruins a new system."

"What is the new Republican system to be?" Mr. Morrison asked. "Are the people of North Carolina ready and willing to risk John Parker, Marion Butler, John Mprehead and a lot of Republican politicians to overthrow our great system of schools built out of experience and the best efforts of the educational forces of the state and let them undertake to put up a system of their own? Do we want to disperse with Dr. Brooks and the real educational forces of the state to make way for Frank Linney and his horde of radical politicians to assume the leadership in North Carolina's educational life?"

The Republican attack on the state's school system, the Democratic standard bearer continued, "ought to excite the

CHIEF EXECUTIVE FRENCH REPUBLIC RESEMBLES TEDDY

PARIS, Oct. 20.—President Millerand greatly resembles physically the late Colonel Roosevelt. He has the same broad chest, short, thick-set stature, the twinkling blue eyes look searchingly at one through thick lenses the same large head, strong powerful neck the same capacity for hard work.

At Versailles after Millerand had been officially invested with the powers of President of the French Republic, the correspondent of the Associated Press was one of a large group of newspaper men with whom the President shook hands.

"How do you feel, Mr. President?" the correspondent asked.

"Splendid!" Millerand fairly shouted. Somehow, the word sounded very much like one heard years ago. "Bully."

SUBSCRIPTION IS BEING RAISED IN ITALY BURY DEAD

ROME, Oct. 20.—A great national subscription is now being made to collect together all the bodies of Italian soldiers who died fighting on the mountain front and are insufficiently buried, all the bones which are whitening on the rocky, mountain sides and to give them fitting sepulture on one of the highest peaks, probably San Michela. It is proposed that a simple, noble monument should be erected under which will rest together officers and soldiers, rich and poor.

One of the sad phases of Italy's war on the mountain front was the difficulty of burying those who fell fighting. The soil on the Carso range is such a thin crust over the massive rock of which the mountains are formed that dynamite had often to be used in order to make sufficiently deep graves on those historic peaks like Monte Carlo, Monte Nero, the Grappa and the Herminio, where Italian blood flowed like water. The Austrians originally held all the passages there and dominated the Italians at every point, but they were taken and re-taken over and over again until the final victory gave them to Italy forever.

Little Old New York

(By O. O. McINTYRE)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Flakes of snow! How do they coast down Academy Hill back home. Pop corn balls on the street corners. There's something fascinating about a window full of musical instruments. Secretly I believe every man has an ambition to play an accordion.

That policeman is howling me out for crossing the street before his signal. I'll appear unconcerned. O! for a lodge in some vast wilderness. All the women are craning their necks to see Eugene O'Brien. Wonder what he makes a week. He wears a wrist watch. The upkeep of that is some thing.

Avery Hopwood. Has four plays running on Broadway. Used to be a reporter in Cleveland. A British officer wearing a monocle of smoked glass. Newspaper from all cities. That would be a good place to meet some one from home. R. H. Sothern out for a walk.

There's a crafty old sailor. Has the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera whisks. He packs a mean marlin-spike! Crates of chickens going to the pier. Around the water-front is the only place they seem to sell plug tobacco. And one of the few places where cursing seems to be an art. Three tramp steamers drifting out to sea.

I'll go up through Wall Street and see the sights. Still putting in windows broken by the bomb explosion. All the reporters believe it was a careless driver's work. And not a Red outbreak. The J. P. Morgan building looks like it has been in a blizzard.

A street runs through the Municipal Building. And so do street cars. The most impressive thing to me about the City Hall are the hundreds of shoe shine stands and they never seem busy. A statue of Nathan Hale. What was it he said? I must brush up on my history. Old women gathering kindling for the winter. There goes Norman allgood into the Tribune office. I'll listen to this street orator and then go home.

Brock Pemberton's "Enter Madge" is rated as the hit of the New York theatrical season. Considering that it was the first adventure of the young newspaper reporter from Emporia, Kansas on the rough theatricals, it is a crowning record. It is set at the old Garriok out of the theatrical center of things. Pemberton, it is said will be able to retire on the proceeds of his first play if he so desires. By the way he is planning to produce Zora "Miss Lulu Bett" that admirably of the small town drudge. Writicals men are predicting a sell-out of the theatre within 30 days. They base their prediction on the small number of really worth while plays. But New York is still building more theatres.

In an office building on West Second street one morning this week an elevator dropped and stuck between floors. The only passengers were a young man and a girl. They were strangers. After 20 minutes the girl fainted in the young man's arms. Of course, you have guessed it. They are to be married soon.

NEED OF THOROUGH TRAINED MEN FOR FARM IMPERATIVE

It is with an Eye to This Need that The Department of Botany, State College is now Conducting its Activities.

It is with an eye to this need that the Department of Botany at the State College, is conducting its work. The successful agricultural leader must have a thorough training in the fundamentals of many sciences. Among the sciences none occupy a more important relation to agricultural training than Botany for it interprets the fundamental nature of the crop plant to the student, making possible an intellectual and masterful grasp of the extremely important field of practical plant production. Not only the maintenance of high production but the development of newer and still better methods of crop growing is dependent upon an intelligent comprehension of the life of the crop plants—how they are built and how their parts function in their environment of soil and air. It is presentation of these basic principles which makes the instructional work in Botany of such definite importance.

In the basic course given to the first year students, exact studies are made of the parts of the plants, roots, stem, leaves, flowers and fruit, the work making clear to the inquirer the marvelous internal structures as seen when magnified 600 times. The operation of all these delicate parts is also studied. In addition special attention is given to those lower forms of plant life which are injurious to crop plants. These are bacteria and fungi which cause such enormous losses to farmers every where. The proper measures of combatting them are also discussed.
