

BIG KILL EXPECTED AMONG THE SEALS SAYS SEA SKIPPER

Ships will be Guided by Airships Who will Act as Scouts The Scheme

TWO NON-RIGID AIRSHIPS USED

Some of the Old Captains Trifle Dubious of this New-Fang- led Method

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 29.—Captains of the Newfoundland sealing fleet look forward to a big "kill" among the seal herds this season under the arrangement by which the fleet will be guided by two airships whose duty it will be to act as scouts, search for the herds of young seals and send word of their location by wireless.

Some of the old captains profess to be a trifle dubious of this new-fangled method of hunting the seals, but they are all awaiting the experiment with anticipation and hope of greater profits than ever before.

Word has been received here that the two non-rigid airships, popularly known as "blimps," which are to be used in this work have been shipped from England to make this first attempt to hunt seals from the air and by use of the wireless. The expedition, which altogether includes six airships, is under the command of Frank J. Tippen, consulting airship engineer and constructor to the Newfoundland government, an expert in the design of large commercial airship.

There of the four airships are of the sea-scouting type, driven by a single engine, the kind which did valuable reconnaissance work over the North and Irish Seas during the war. The fourth is larger and driven by two motors. All these have been presented to the Newfoundland government by the British Air Ministry as the nucleus of a regular government air patrol service in Newfoundland. After the experiment in seal hunting they will be used as a matter of routine in the forest patrol and survey work.

The party includes two airship pilots, of whom the chief is Captain Williams, who distinguished himself in the war as a pilot in airships over the Irish Sea. The airship station in Newfoundland will be established at Botwood on the Exploits River where the wireless station will be built to keep in touch with the airships.

When the vast herds of young seals come drifting down from the North on the ice early in the spring, the "blimps" will be out over the North Atlantic, will hunt them out and send word of their location to the sealing fleet waiting to kill them for their oil-bearing fat and skins.

BLAME TRADE UNION FOR THE SHORTAGE

Says Union is Responsible for Scarcity of Houses Now in England

London, Nov. 29.—Dr. Christopher Addison, Minister of Health, blames the trades unions in part for the shortage of houses in England. In an article in the Times he points out that there has been a great shrinkage of bricklayers, carpenters, masons and other branches of the building trades and says there are now not enough men in these trades to do the work. Yet, he adds, there are thousands outside of the trades who are unemployed but if an attempt were to be made to use them in building houses "we are faced with the trade union bar." The unions contend that if their numbers are unduly inflated now, the unemployment among them will be even greater than ever when the present demand for homes has been satisfied. Admitting this, Dr. Addison asks: "In the face of the national demand for houses, in the face of the widespread unemployment among ex-service men and others, can any trade union maintain its restrictions? Can one class, one trade, permanently stand in the path of the community and in its own class interest bar the way to progress, prosperity, and resettlement? The state which will submit to such action is saddling itself with a sectional tyranny."
