THOUSANDS OF VISITORS HERE TAKING IN PITT COUNTY FAIR

Folk from All Sections of Eastern Carolina Viewing with Interest the Second Annual Exhibit—Midway, Horse-Racing, Fire Works Display and Other Attractions High Complimented—Tomorrow Promises to Be the Banner Day—Grand Success Consensus of Opinions.

Although yesterday was the first day of the Pitt County Fair and notwithstanding that John Robinson's circus was in town the day before, the crowds in attendance were gratifying to the management. Last night however, thousands swarmed through the gates and until a late hour took in the sights on the midway and watched with keen interest the fireworks display which will be a nightly feature during the week. The midway was especially attractive to the sightseers. It is said to be the largest midway yet seen at any fair held in North Carolina. From the old plantation up to the Ferris wheel visitors last night revelled in fun and glee until until the closing hour-midnight. The exhibits are being highly complimented from competent critics. There is not a single exhibit that is not creditable to the county, in fact, they are exceeding and going beyond the expectation of the most optimistic. The township's display is a feature that should not be overlooked by the visitor. Each township in the county is vying with each other to secure the $50 prize offered by the fair management for the most creditable exhibit. Keen rivalry is now going on for the mastery in this spirited contest.

When it comes to raising everything from the soil Pitt county stands without a peer. So the visitors are amazed at this feature of the fair. Another feature that is attracting attention, is the different booths in the main building. All the churches, Chamber of Commerce, American Red Cross and quite a number of the business houses are on hand with a cordial greeting to one and all. In other words, the Pitt County Fair is indeed worth while and is a grand success.

The attendance today is considerably larger than yesterday and tonight promises a record-breaking crowd. Of course the folk are taking in the high flying in airplane and the horse racing, the latter said to be the very best yet seen on any North Carolina track. Crowds yesterday watched with interest the racing and the same thing holds good today. Tomorrow promises to be the banner day for racing as some of the biggest events are scheduled. 6 JUDGES DENOUNCE THE KU KLUX KLAN

District Jurists of Texas Go on Record as Having Condemned Order in that State.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 5.—Six district judges in Texas today were on record having denounced the Ku Klux Klan. Most of the judges included all other kindred orders in Texas in their denunciation.

The judges called upon grand juries to investigate activities of masked bands. Officials of two cities—San Antonio and Camargo—also gave warning that parades of masked men would not be permitted.

The most scathing criticism from the bench probably was by District Judge James R. Hamilton, at Austin. Charges of the Ku Klux Klan have been established throughout Texas, he said, and "bodies of masked men, dressed in white robes, wearing the American flag, with the sign of the cross, and flying banners giving warning and threats of violence to citizens who break the law, have marched in the night time up and down the streets of the cities, towns and villages of Texas."

Declaring that more than fifty persons have been whipped or tarred and feathered in the state in the last six months and that numerous persons had received warning, Judge Hamilton read to the grand jury an article of the Texas penal code which he said applied to these activities.

TRAINING SCHOOL WAS OPENED JUST TWELVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Anniversary Was Fittingly Celebrated this Morning—Y. I. Ormond, Chairman of the Executive Committee and Member of Board of Trustees Since the School Was Founded, and Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, School's Physician, Were the Speakers—Over 7,000 Have Enrolled Since Opening.

The anniversary of the opening of the Training School was celebrated this morning just twelve years after its first opening, October 5, 1909. Mr. Y. I. Ormond, chairman of the executive committee, who has been a member of the Board of Trustees since the school was founded, and Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, school's physician, were the speakers of the occasion.

Both of the speakers recalled the beginnings, gave reminiscences of the early years and the struggle for the school, and told incidents connected with its establishment.

Attention was called to the portraits of two of the founders. These are in the front of the auditorium. President Wright expressed the hope that at some time in the future the third portrait, that of Mr. James Fleming, would be on the walls also. Dr. Laughinghouse, saying that the day to make a hope become a deed was to start something offered to give each of the literary societies a piece to start a fund for Mr. Fleming's portrait. President Wright immediately offered another $5 to be added to this, making $20 for starting the fund.

Mr. Ormond reviewed educational conditions in the state at the time his school was established and the seeds that brought forth a school of his type. He also referred to the great progress that has taken place in many other ways since the school opened. He paid great tributes to both Mr. Ragsdale and Gov. Jarvis.

It said that of all the services Gov. Jarvis rendered to the State, no service was greater than that he rendered in his work for and with this school. He expressed the hope that the portraits of these two men would ever be an inspiration students in the school, and that the students should always have great appreciation of the services they rendered.

Mr. Ormond said that in his opinion the board of trustees of the school showed more wisdom in the selection of its president than of anything else, unless it was in the selection of the director of the summer school, Mr. C. W. Wilson, and one proof of their wisdom was the wisdom with which the president has selected his co-laborers in the faculty.

The motto of the school, "To serve," has been the spirit of the school he said and he expressed the hope that this motto would go with the students always.

He spoke of the opportunity for service in the rural communities where each teacher has far more influence than she has in the larger towns, and asked them to consider this when they choose their place of work. He chooses with the wish that the products of this school might continue to be scattered throughout the length and breadth of this land, carrying higher ideals that make for better citizenship and improved social and religious conditions.

Dr. Laughinghouse told in a most interesting manner of the work in Pitt county to get this school started. He gave much of the credit to the young men of the county, telling of the way they went throughout the county getting groups together at the school houses and speaking to them until they were ready for the bond issue.

He referred to the health record of the school and gave the girls advice as to how to keep up the excellent record. His talk was sprinkled with pleasantries and with criticisms that delighted the girls.

President Wright gave the figures that show the number of students. This year's enrollment carries the number beyond 7000. The enrollment the first regular year as 174.

The school sang "Carolina" and "America." They greatly enjoyed the opportunity for knowing more about the school and its history.
