

New Crossing Law Not Observed Here

North Carolina's new law requiring all vehicles to stop at railroad crossings after July 1, is not being generally observed in this section. If reports being received here are accurate, no arrests have been made for violations of the statute, so far as has been learned, certainly there have been no trials in local courts for that offense.

Officers are not as familiar with the provisions of the statute as they wish to be before they set in to enforce it, they say, and until they are sure of their ground they hesitate to act.

One view of the new law that is being taken here is that it absolves the railroads of blame if they meet with an accident to some motorist or the driver of any vehicle other than a motor driven one. Those who express their opinion after this fashion point out that there is very little likelihood of any serious accident so long as the stop law is observed, and that it would be a point at law they could and probably would argue if a case ever arose in which they were to be made defendants in an action of the kind.

The large red signs are not without their good effect, however, as there are many careful drivers who are reminded of their approach to a railroad crossing by this glaring warning to halt. The new State highways being constructed in this section leave little responsibility on either the driver or the railroad, for every grade crossing between Henderson and the Warren county line has been eliminated, and it is understood a similar plan is to be followed with respect to the route south when construction is begun in that direction.

BASEBALL FACTS

To the people of Henderson that would like to have baseball here:

With the ending of Saturday's game with the Trinity team (State Champions) at Roanoke Rapids, Henderson had very successful baseball week, winning 3 out of 4 games played under its new management. Which proves that Henderson has the best baseball club that she has ever had.

The Henderson Club will play 6 games next week, namely: Littleton here, on Monday; Weldon, here on Tuesday; Weldon at Weldon Wednesday; Roanoke Rapids at Roanoke Rapids Thursday; Roanoke Rapids here Friday; and Littleton at Littleton Saturday. Now these games will be played, weather permitting. But right there is where the club is at the end of its rope.

The club has done all and more than the public has asked of it. Now it is up to you whether Henderson has any more baseball of the class she is getting now after next Saturday. There has been less than $500 paid into the treasury in donations, not counting about $60 that has been raised for the uniforms that are here now in the express office C. O. D. $122.50. More was promised but not received. Roanoke Rapids paid $40 for their team. Weldon raised nearly as much and Henderson has the best club of the two to be proud of and Henderson has raised only $50.

Large sums of money are raised annually to support things that are for the betterment of the community such as Chautauque, Y. M. C. A. clubs of different kinds, swimming pools, parks, etc., and if any one can show where baseball is not just as essential as any of the above we would like to know it.

Now we, the Henderson Baseball Club, are going to put it up to you, (the public), fair and square. If you want any more baseball after next Saturday we want you to put not less than $500 in to treasury by next Saturday night. This money to be used to defray the expenses of the club after gate receipts have been applied to same. The club has scheduled games for nearly every day up to the month of September on its present bases of operation it costs about $350 to play six games per week. Last week's gate receipts were $305 less war tax. Consequently we will have to have this money in the treasury to play our schedule. The Henderson baseball club is a non-profit making organization, operated solely for the betterment, entertainment and recreation of Henderson and community.

Several of the men in the club are not receiving any money at all for their services, the others are receiving just about enough for expenses, and they are all in there to play clean, fair and square winning ball for Henderson. The books of the club are open to the public at all times. This is a Henderson proposition and we want you all to get in and push. We would like to hear from the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club and the other civic organizations that are for the betterment of Henderson.

A GREAT FUTURE IS SEEN FOR NOVARRO

Who Appears At The Riggan Opera House Tonight—But It Wasn't All Easy Sledding For This Handsome Young Spanish Actor.

Ramon Novarro, Rex Ingram's screen find who has won the theatergoers' plaudits for his exceptionally fine performances in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women" and who is playing the leading male role in Rex Ingram's production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends", at the Riggan Opera House, was born in Durango, one of the prosperous states of Mexico.

There he lived the life of a wealthy Mexican boy and at an early age gave evidence of unusual talents. With his own hands he constructed a miniature theatre in which he and his sisters enacted plays of his own creation. He even designed and fashioned the settings some of which were remarkably clever. His sisters, who did not share Ramon's enthusiasm for acting, were reluctantly wheedled into assuming the male roles at a salary of two cents a performance.

Realizing that opportunities in the theatre were far more numerous in the United States, he came to this country at an early age and immediately as a dancer won him a place in Mae Murray's dance troupe, with which he toured he Orphan circuit.

Arriving in Los Angeles he became stage manager of the Majestic Stock Company, an experience which has been invaluable to him in his screen work. But again dancing proved to be the keystone to his present success, for he joined the Marion Morgan dancers and while with them put on the Royal Fandango, a dance fantasy, for the Hollywood Community Players. At this performance he was seen by Rex Ingram who was looking for the ideal player to impersonate the dashing Rupert of Hentzau in the "Prisoner of Zenda."

Rex Ingram believes that Novarro will become one of our greatest actors. He says: "Novarro is a born actor, inexperienced yet, but able for all that to go out on the set and express things which would puzzle an old timer to accomplish."

So impressed was Ingram by the ability of this young Spaniard that he cast him for the leading male role in "Trifling Women," and Novarro's brilliant work in that picture earned him his prominent place in "Where the Pavement Ends."

Such is the story of this young actor whose personality and ability are bound to make him conspicuous among motion picture idols. To say that he is good looking is to use a colorless term for a physical charm that is rare even on the screen. He has deep brown eyes, perfect features and a well shaped head. Slightly over average height, he is lithe and slender and graceful.

"Where the Pavement Ends" a stirring tale of the South Seas, was written by John Russell and adapted for the screen by Rex Ingram. Alice Terry plays the feminine lead. The photography was done by John F. Seitz, whose brilliant work is a byword wherever films are made and shown. The powerful cast includes also Harry T. Morey and Edward Connelly. — advt.

Tate Willing To Put It In Black and White

"Hardly a man comes to the shop I don't tell about Tanlac," said J. S. Tate, 503 E. Main st., Charlottesville, Va., Battery Repairer for Irwin-Way-Hill Co.

"All my life I suffered from constipation, and for three years past my stomach was in such terrible shape I could eat hardly enough to keep body and soul together. My nerves were too shattered to rest, neuralgia almost blinded me at times, and many days I couldn't even get down to the shop. I was losing ground so fast it was a question with me how much longer I could last. I was tempted to quit taking Tanlac after my second bottle, but fortunate for me I stuck to the treatment, and it increased my weight and made me a well man. I took my last dose of Tanlac last spring, but haven't felt a touch of constipation or any other ailment since. Just put me down in black and white as being strong for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.
