New Orleans, La., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana's combination governor and United States senator, Huey Long today on the face of incomplete returns from the Democratic primary appeared to have won another political victory by nominating O. K. Allen, to succeed him as governor.

Allen, chairman of Long's state highway commission, rolled up a 40,000 majority in the city of New Orleans and the hope of anti-Long leaders that ballots from county parishes would offset this lead waned as unofficial returns even from many of the rural districts gave Allen an advantage. As the count progressed, charges of election frauds were hurled at the Long camp by Francis Williams, manager for Dudley J. LeBlanc, runner up to Allen. In the mixed charges Elmo Cognovich was brought to a New Orleans hospital suffering from gunshot wounds received in a fracas at Boothville, in Piquemines parish where the ballot box was torn open and the ballots thrown to the four winds.

Non-Essentials Trimmed From Budgets By State

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—Consternation is gradually giving way to resignation on the part of most State employes as the work of cutting out dead timber and the trimming of salaries by the Budget Bureau and Personnel Division goes merrily on. Some department heads as well as employes are at last discovering the difference between essential and unessential jobs and activities. There is, of course, plenty of dissatisfaction and grumbling on the part of many State employes at the action being taken by the Budget Bureau and Personnel Division in carrying out the slashing of expenses ordered by Governor O. Max Gardner as Director of the Budget in order to comply with the law and prevent the State from incurring a deficit. For while the Governor is not to blame for the shrinking of revenue that makes this budget slashing necessary, many State employes still seem to think the Governor is personally to blame and that the State still has plenty of money or could get it if it wanted it. They seem to fail to realize that the money which they are paid comes from the pockets of the taxpayers and that the pockets of many of those who have paid these taxes in the past are now empty. But the majority of the State employes who really know and understand the situation are facing the salary cuts and budget slashes with the realization that nothing else can be done and that the only thing to do is to make the best of it. When times were good and State revenue plentiful, it was very nice for the State to spread out and add divisions and departments that did nice things for the State, but which were not exactly essential to the operation of the State government. It is pointed out that it is very nice for State College, for instance, to have one of the finest greenhouses in the State, and to teach boys to grow beautiful roses, carnations, orchids, lilacs and other flowers. But in these times when few people have money to buy these flowers, the teaching of floriculture at State College is not now regarded as exactly essential. The same thing is true of the model ice cream plant, where the college boys are taught to make ice cream. It goes to show it was very nice to
