Davidson Sends Net Team North For Heavy Play

Davidson, April 25.—Davidson College's tennis team left here today on its longest and most strenuous trip of the season, which will carry them as far north as Richmond, Va., and will keep them away for an entire week. They will open against the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill on Monday and then play four strong Virginia teams before returning to Davidson.

The match with the Carolina team Monday will be the only one in North Carolina for the Davidson racquet wielders, and Tuesday they will play Williams and Mary College at Williamsburg, Va. Wednesday will be an open date for the Davidson racquet wielders, and Thursday they will play a return match with the University of Richmond team at Richmond. Friday the Wildcats will play Hampden-Sydney College at Hampden-Sydney, and close their tour on Saturday against the University of Virginia, at University, Va.

VON CONFERENCE GAMES ARRANGED

Bulldogs Take on Norlina Here Tomorrow As First Of New Series

With their conference games behind them, the Henderson High Bulldogs will meet teams from the surrounding towns in a number of games that will carry their schedule up to day 10.

The Bulldogs meet Norlina tomorrow at League Park. This game was originally scheduled to be played at the Warren county school, but has been changed at the request of the Norlina club to Henderson.

A number of good ball players in school have been absent from the roster of the local nine, since they were ineligible for conference play, and now that that is over, the high line should be considerably strengthened by these men returning to the club.

It looks like Harris will get the call on the mound for the locals since he worked out against Cary Friday and lost his game, 15-9, and the field has been bolstered up considerably to make a smooth combination.

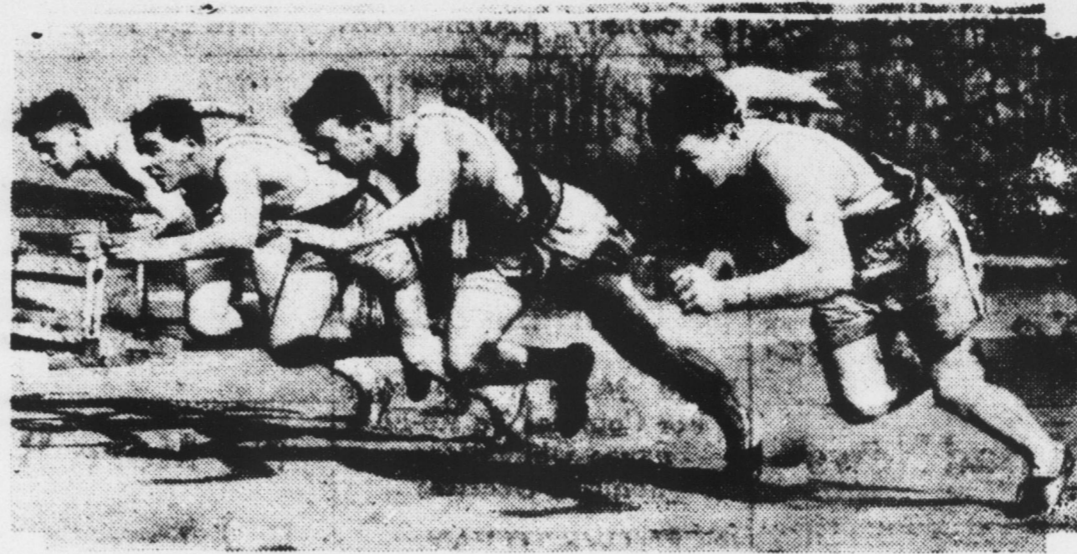

The Warren county lads have a strong aggregation, it was said, and a good game is in prospect for Tuesday.

DUKE AND CAROLINA SPRINTERS LISTED

Brilliant Races Expected Wednesday; Other Duke Matches For Week

Durham, April 25.—John Brownlee, of Duke, and Rip Slusser, of Carolina, will continue the running duel they started last year when the Tar Heels and the Blue Devils stage their annual track meet at Duke stadium here Wednesday.

A pair of brilliant races are also expected in the 100 and 220-yard dashes when Brownlee opposes Carolina's spring ace, Charlie Farmer. It will be the first time they have met as Farmer was injured last season and not out for track. While the cinder path stars are meeting Carolina, the Blue Devil club will be at Wake Forest continuing its Big Five schedule by meeting the Deacons. Saturday the Devils play a return game with State, this time on the Duke diamond.

Carolina and Duke teams also meet in golf and tennis this week. The links battle is scheduled to be played here Wednesday and the netters' clash at Chapel Hill Thursday.

Duke's freshman baseballers meet Wake Forest there Tuesday and State at Raleigh Saturday in their part of the week's card.
