

Henderson Beats Rocky Mount In Second League Game

TWO RUNS MADE IN 7TH DO THE WORK

Watkins Gives Good Account of Himself on Mound for Henderson

The Henderson Athletics scored two runs in the seventh inning of the battle yesterday with Rocky Mount to come from behind and win 6-4 after adding one more tally in the ninth. The game was played in Rocky Mount.

Watkins turned in a nice performance on the mound for the locals. He allowed 11 hits, which he kept well scattered, while Page was pounded for six hits in the lucky seventh by the A's.

Somewhat of a celebration was had at Emile's field in Rocky Mount for the opening of the Bright Belt League in that city. Mayor W. D. Mann pitched the first ball wild, but received a big ovation.

The locals are at the top of the League with two wins and no defeats. Rocky Mount Again Today. The locals returned to Rocky Mount this afternoon for the second game of the two game series. Manager Puhman will probably use Davis this afternoon in an effort to annex his third victory.

Score by innings:
Henderson 200 010 210-6
Rocky Mount 200 200 000-4
Watkins and Parrish; Page and Harrison.

Kentucky Derby Being Run Along Louisville Track

Louisville, Ky., May 7 (AP)—Tick On, black beauty of the east, gained further support today as the standard favorite for the Kentucky Derby as an even score of three-year-olds formally were entered for the 58th running of America's most famous horse race this afternoon.

The swing in expert sentiment toward the star of the Loma Stable, owned by Mrs. Louis G. Kaufmann, of New York, was accelerated by a smothering workout this morning.

The flashy son of On Watch ran three furlongs, according to Trainer Max Hirsch's time-piece, in 33 3/5 seconds. Other watches showed a fraction slower but the performance was close to the American record of 33 1/2 seconds and satisfied the rail birds that Tick On is in the peak of condition.

The Piedmont — Parade —

Cape Swamp Pats.

Gathering 21 hits, the Raleigh Caps swamped the Greensboro Patriots at the Capital City yesterday 17-4. Greensboro pulled a triple play in the sixth inning with three Caps on the path.

Bulls Top Tars.

Farrell's two base lick in the ninth scoring O'Rourke to enable the Bull City nine to top the Wilmington Tars in Durham yesterday 13-12. Wilmington counted five times in the ninth to tie the count. Thirteen doubles and one home run were clouted in the slugfest.

Pointers Nose Out Tourist.

Tying the score in the ninth 3-3, the Pointers carried its game into thirteen innings before they were able to nose out the Asheville Tourist 4-3. Kola Sharpe went the route for Asheville. Takach relieved Appletton in the ninth for the Pointers.

Bees Lose Again.

Winston-Salem's league leading Twins were in Charlotte yesterday kicking the bees again this time 13-7 by rapping the fence with 23 base hits. The Hornets got an even dozen hits including two homers by Culbreth and one each by Pond and Smith.

Standings

PIEDMONT LEAGUE
Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Winston Salem	8	2	.800
Greensboro	6	4	.600
Raleigh	5	5	.500
Asheville	4	4	.500
Wilmington	5	5	.500
Durham	5	5	.500
High Point	3	5	.375
Charlotte	2	8	.200

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Washington	14	5	.737
New York	11	6	.647
Detroit	12	7	.632
Cleveland	14	9	.609
St. Louis	10	12	.455
Philadelphia	8	10	.444
Chicago	6	14	.300
Boston	3	15	.167

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	14	6	.700
Boston	12	6	.667
Philadelphia	10	9	.526
Cincinnati	11	11	.500
St. Louis	9	12	.429
Brooklyn	7	10	.412
New York	7	10	.412
Pittsburgh	7	13	.350

Today's Games

PIEDMONT LEAGUE

Greensboro at Raleigh.
Winston-Salem at Charlotte.
Durham 13; Wilmington 12.
Asheville at High Point.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Louis at Boston.
Chicago at Washington.
Detroit at New York.
Cleveland at Philadelphia.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn at Chicago.
New York at St. Louis.
Philadelphia at Pittsburgh.
Boston at Cincinnati.

Results

PIEDMONT LEAGUE

Raleigh 17; Greensboro 4.
Winston-Salem 13; Charlotte 7.
Durham 13; Wilmington 12.
High Point 4; Asheville 3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago 5; Washington 3.
St. Louis 6; Boston 5.
Philadelphia 5; Cleveland 2.
New York 1; Detroit 0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Cincinnati 14; Boston 1.
Philadelphia 4; Pittsburgh 2.
Chicago 3; Brooklyn 1.
New York 4; St. Louis 3.

Rowing for Old Wellesley

This fine action photo shows one of the crews at Wellesley College bending the ash to force the shell against the current at Wellesley, Mass., during a practice workout on the river. The college boasts five crews, but so far none of the five has been designated as the varsity color-bearer. Consequently the girls are battling tooth and nail for the coveted honor.

JEFFRESS WARNS AGAINST RAIDING STATE ROAD FUND

(Continued from Page One.)

policy of the State so far and of all past general assemblies, to hold the highway fund inviolate for the exclusive purpose of paying the bonds and interest for highway construction, for maintaining the roads and the highway organization, and then to build new roads with any balance left over.

"But this year already we have had to stop all construction and have not even been able to match Federal aid road funds for new construction—and even then, with decreased salaries, sliced appropriations and other economies. We will probably have a small deficit at the end of the year," Jeffress said.

"There are 32,000 fewer automobiles registered in the State this year than last year, and collections from the sale of automobile licenses are approximately $700,000 behind the estimated revenue from this source, so that this difference must be made up from the gasoline tax. In fact, there are fully 100,000 fewer automobiles licensed in the State now than in 1929. The only thing that has kept the gasoline tax revenue up has been the increase in the number of trucks operating in the State in the past two or three years and the much larger volume of gasoline consumed by these trucks.

"Indications are that the number of automobiles is going to decrease rather than increase, so that a steadily diminishing revenue can be expected from licenses and from gasoline consumed by passenger cars. And if the General Assembly ever decides to adopt some of the legislation to curtail the trucks, such as has been proposed in the last one or two sessions, this source of revenue will be cut off and the State will then be in a tight place to get sufficient revenue for its highway bonds, interest and maintenance expense to say nothing of any new construction.

MISSING CADET

(Continued from Page One.)

"In my opinion, it would be a very dangerous thing to divert $2,000,000 a year from the highway funds for the maintenance and operation of the school buses in the State. In the first place, there is no more reason for school buses to be operated from highway funds than for school funds to be used to purchase road machinery for the highways. If some of the highway money is diverted for school transportation, some one else would want to use it for some other state purpose, and the raid would be on."

The amount originally appropriated for all Highway purposes this year by the 1931 General Assembly was $23,539,824. Jeffress pointed out, while the estimated revenue is only $21,926,256. In order to hold expenditures within revenue, it has already been decided to eliminate all construction, including Federal aid construction, which will just about hold expenditures within the revenue.

part of the whites in general against the original Kanaka residents of the archipelago is evident from his references to the chief opposition he has sensed, from the first to the territory's acceptance on a statehood basis.

The strongest single strain among the islanders is native-born Japanese, and, as the delegate says, rather impatiently, "The navy always sends the Japanese label, although these people are as fully Americanized as any element of alien ancestry ever were."

Parentetically, the delegate himself should speak without bias—the son of an American admiral and himself an Annapolis graduate with a naval career of nearly 30 years behind him.

Of the sort of order which existed in Honolulu just before the war some conclusion may be drawn from the circumstances of a jailbreak which occurred there when I changed to be a visitor in the city in early 1914.

There was but one prisoner in it at the time—a petty distributor of the peace while intoxicated—and he dug his way out through the wall with a teaspoon. To my suggestion that it could not be much of a jail, local officialdom replied apologetically that it was so seldom occupied as to have been permitted to fall into disrepair. It is difficult for me to believe that so naturally well-behaved a community would have degenerated into what it is represented to be at the present day if the newer comers were not responsible for it. Of course a good Hawaiian past record by no means excuses such acts of violence as the one perpetrated against Mrs. Massie.

Nevertheless, it does hint at a possibility that the Hawaiians perhaps regard the naval contingent as too unfriendly, on general principles, to make it safe to allow them to deal with Hawaiian suspects according to their own ideas—which may account for the verdict of guilty in what would seem to be a justifiable unwritten law case, if ever there was one.

Whatever the explanation, indications are that the Massie affair has indefinitely ended Hawaii's hopes of statehood.

HAWAII'S HOPE FOR STATEHOOD DASHED

(Continued from Page One.)

part of the whites in general against the original Kanaka residents of the archipelago is evident from his references to the chief opposition he has sensed, from the first to the territory's acceptance on a statehood basis.

The strongest single strain among the islanders is native-born Japanese, and, as the delegate says, rather impatiently, "The navy always sends the Japanese label, although these people are as fully Americanized as any element of alien ancestry ever were."

Parentetically, the delegate himself should speak without bias—the son of an American admiral and himself an Annapolis graduate with a naval career of nearly 30 years behind him.

Of the sort of order which existed in Honolulu just before the war some conclusion may be drawn from the circumstances of a jailbreak which occurred there when I changed to be a visitor in the city in early 1914.

There was but one prisoner in it at the time—a petty distributor of the peace while intoxicated—and he dug his way out through the wall with a teaspoon. To my suggestion that it could not be much of a jail, local officialdom replied apologetically that it was so seldom occupied as to have been permitted to fall into disrepair. It is difficult for me to believe that so naturally well-behaved a community would have degenerated into what it is represented to be at the present day if the newer comers were not responsible for it. Of course a good Hawaiian past record by no means excuses such acts of violence as the one perpetrated against Mrs. Massie.

Nevertheless, it does hint at a possibility that the Hawaiians perhaps regard the naval contingent as too unfriendly, on general principles, to make it safe to allow them to deal with Hawaiian suspects according to their own ideas—which may account for the verdict of guilty in what would seem to be a justifiable unwritten law case, if ever there was one.

Whatever the explanation, indications are that the Massie affair has indefinitely ended Hawaii's hopes of statehood.

part of the whites in general against the original Kanaka residents of the archipelago is evident from his references to the chief opposition he has sensed, from the first to the territory's acceptance on a statehood basis.

The strongest single strain among the islanders is native-born Japanese, and, as the delegate says, rather impatiently, "The navy always sends the Japanese label, although these people are as fully Americanized as any element of alien ancestry ever were."

Parentetically, the delegate himself should speak without bias—the son of an American admiral and himself an Annapolis graduate with a naval career of nearly 30 years behind him.

Of the sort of order which existed in Honolulu just before the war some conclusion may be drawn from the circumstances of a jailbreak which occurred there when I changed to be a visitor in the city in early 1914.

There was but one prisoner in it at the time—a petty distributor of the peace while intoxicated—and he dug his way out through the wall with a teaspoon. To my suggestion that it could not be much of a jail, local officialdom replied apologetically that it was so seldom occupied as to have been permitted to fall into disrepair. It is difficult for me to believe that so naturally well-behaved a community would have degenerated into what it is represented to be at the present day if the newer comers were not responsible for it. Of course a good Hawaiian past record by no means excuses such acts of violence as the one perpetrated against Mrs. Massie.

Nevertheless, it does hint at a possibility that the Hawaiians perhaps regard the naval contingent as too unfriendly, on general principles, to make it safe to allow them to deal with Hawaiian suspects according to their own ideas—which may account for the verdict of guilty in what would seem to be a justifiable unwritten law case, if ever there was one.

Whatever the explanation, indications are that the Massie affair has indefinitely ended Hawaii's hopes of statehood.

part of the whites in general against the original Kanaka residents of the archipelago is evident from his references to the chief opposition he has sensed, from the first to the territory's acceptance on a statehood basis.

The strongest single strain among the islanders is native-born Japanese, and, as the delegate says, rather impatiently, "The navy always sends the Japanese label, although these people are as fully Americanized as any element of alien ancestry ever were."

Parentetically, the delegate himself should speak without bias—the son of an American admiral and himself an Annapolis graduate with a naval career of nearly 30 years behind him.

Of the sort of order which existed in Honolulu just before the war some conclusion may be drawn from the circumstances of a jailbreak which occurred there when I changed to be a visitor in the city in early 1914.

There was but one prisoner in it at the time—a petty distributor of the peace while intoxicated—and he dug his way out through the wall with a teaspoon. To my suggestion that it could not be much of a jail, local officialdom replied apologetically that it was so seldom occupied as to have been permitted to fall into disrepair. It is difficult for me to believe that so naturally well-behaved a community would have degenerated into what it is represented to be at the present day if the newer comers were not responsible for it. Of course a good Hawaiian past record by no means excuses such acts of violence as the one perpetrated against Mrs. Massie.

Nevertheless, it does hint at a possibility that the Hawaiians perhaps regard the naval contingent as too unfriendly, on general principles, to make it safe to allow them to deal with Hawaiian suspects according to their own ideas—which may account for the verdict of guilty in what would seem to be a justifiable unwritten law case, if ever there was one.

Whatever the explanation, indications are that the Massie affair has indefinitely ended Hawaii's hopes of statehood.

Dispatch WANT ADS Get Results

POTATO PLANTS—NANCY HALL—Cheap. Marvin E. Falkner, Route 1, Henderson, N. C. 17-11.

FOR RENT—MODERN FIVE ROOM house on Oxford Road. Phone 52; or see F. M. Dorsey. 30-25.

MONEY TO LOAN OF FIRST mortgage on real estate. Apply to Perry and Klutznick. H. E. Crew. 54.

WANTED: A SECOND HAND large child's bed. Must be in good condition and reasonable. Call 884 or see O. C. Jones at Dispatch office. 74.

TRY FULLER'S SERVICE STATION for expert automobile service of every kind including repairs. We sell tires, tubes and batteries. Also battery repairing. 247.

FOR RENT—MODERN APARTMENTS in the Stonehall, 215 Yount Avenue. Prices attractive. First second floor. Steam heated. E. G. Flanagan. Phone 535 or 215-7. Sa-41.

USED CAR BARGAINS
1930 Chevrolet Sport Coupe $250.00
1928 Pontiac Coupe, $150.00
1928 Ford Coach $135.00
1928 Oakland Sedan $150.00
1927 Chevrolet Sedan $60.00
1927 Pontiac Sedan $95.00
MOTOR SALES CO
Phone 832 5-41

QUALITY DRY CLEANING AT LOW prices for next week. Two suits for 75c, one suit for 50c, one suit and one hat for 75c, one piece plain dress for 50c. Phone 464. Valet Cleaning Co. 7-31.

FOR SALE AT REAL BARGAIN prices twelve used doors, two mirror doors, five merchandise display tables and one iron safe. Henderson Auction House. 4-61.

FOR RENT—SIX ROOM HOUSE ON Rowland Street with water lights and garden. Rent reasonable. Apply to S. O. Spruill or phone 417-W. 3-57.

GROCERY STORES, FISH DEALING paper. Use old newspapers—etc. and markets save on your wrap. Get a big bundle at the Daily Dispatch office for 10c. 21-11.

THE DAILY DISPATCH IS NOW ON sale at The Smoke Shop, Jefferson Cafe, Henderson Candy Kitchen and Wiggins Drug Store. You may secure a copy from any of these places at the regular price of 5c. 28-11.

SEABOARD AIR LINE RAILWAY

TRAINS LEAVE HENDERSON AS FOLLOWS

No. NORTHBOUND

106—8:48 A. M. for Richmond, Washington, New York, connecting at Norfolk with No. 18 arriving Portsmouth-Norfolk 12:00 P. M. with parlor-dining car service.

4—2:52 P. M. for Richmond and Portsmouth, Washington, New York.

192—9:48 P. M. for Richmond, Washington and New York.

6—3:28 A. M. for Portsmouth, Norfolk, Washington, New York.

No. SOUTHBOUND

191—5:48 A. M. for Savannah, Jacksonville, Miami, Tampa, St. Petersburg.

3—3:12 P. M. for Raleigh, Sanford, Hamlet, Columbia, Savannah, Miami, Tampa, St. Petersburg.

107—7:55 P. M. for Raleigh, Hamlet, Savannah, Jacksonville, Miami, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Atlanta, Birmingham.

5—1:25 A. M. for Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis.

For information call on H. E. Plemmons, D.P.A., Raleigh, N. C., or M. O. Capps, T.A., Henderson, N. C.

BIG SISTER

It's a Secret

SALES FORGRAVE

YOU BET!

THE GUMPS—THE LETTER THAT NEVER CAME

