

Grid Teams Of State Are Ready For Tests Saturday

CAROLINA LIKELY TO TRIP TENNESSEE

Score May Be Much Closer Than Some Dopesters Expect Saturday

Durham, Oct. 6.—The incomparable Bobby Dodd has predicted another undefeated season for Tennessee, to the prophecy even of Georgia Tech's coach and Tennessee's former American might never have been uttered so far as it affects the Carolina football squad, which is vamping its backfield to run with a line that has already won its spurs while laying complete plans to give the Vols the battle of the year out at Knoxville Saturday.

The Tar Heel backers know Tennessee has another great club since its 33-0 triumph over Mississippi, but they also think Saturday is going to be another day for the Tar Heels, who are certainly due to hit the touchdown trail after all the yardage and first downs they have been rolling up against stubborn Wake Forest and mighty Vandy.

Indications are that a goodly number will make the Knoxville pilgrimage to see the Tar Heels fight for their comeback, and meanwhile Coach Collins and the Tar Heels are exerting every human effort to prepare for a game against the odds they will show supporters that their faith was justified.

MANAGER CHOSEN ON BULLDOG TEAM

Tom Nelson First Post Man, With John McMillan as His Assistant

Tom Nelson, a senior, and John McMillan have been named manager and assistant manager respectively of the Henderson high school Bulldog football squad for the 1932 season. These two men will look after the business end of the team, provide transportation and look after the general welfare of the squad.

Three Washington Players Discussed For Johnson's Job

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Three members of the Washington team were mentioned yesterday in fan-drum's pep over the successor to Walter Johnson as manager.

A number of those trying to read the mind of Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, seemed to feel that Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, was the choice for the position. Others named another veteran, Sam Rice, as manager.

DUKE FROSH MEET STATE YEARLINGS

Two Teams Clash In Duke Stadium Friday at 2 O'Clock; Both Outfits Are Secret

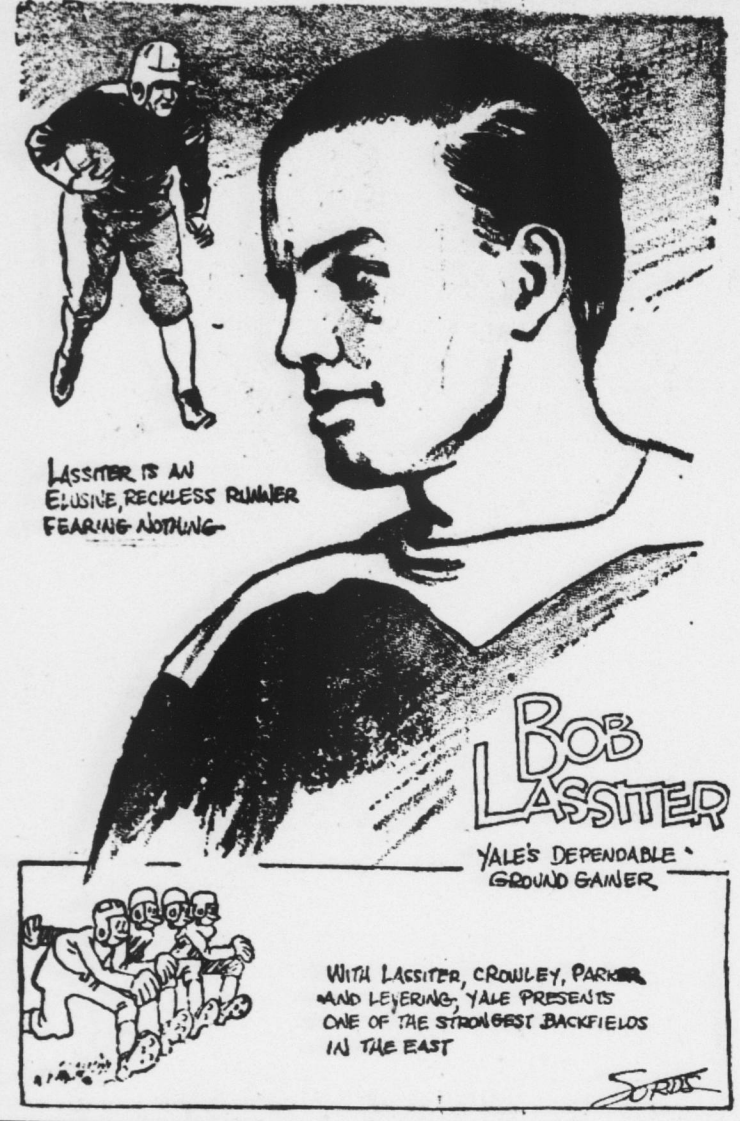

Durham, Oct. 6. Duke university's freshman football team will pry the lid off its 1932 schedule by meeting the N. C. State yearlings at Duke stadium Friday afternoon. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

A great number of candidates reported at both institutions and both outfits have gone through the cutting process. There were 125 out at Duke the opening day but the number was dwindled since that time.

Bulldogs Hold Scrimmage Before Bethel Hill Game

The Bulldogs held their last scrimmage session yesterday before they meet Bethel Hill her tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at League Park.

Despite a light rain, the team went through its drill with much pep. Several new plays were shown the locals yesterday to add to their bag of tricks that they expect to use against the visitors tomorrow.

In the night scrimmage session, that followed the signal drill, Bill Scoggins and Frank Mills skirted the ends for several nice gains on the reserves with Peyton Rogers supplying the power on the line thrusts. Edwin Watkins stepped around in the second string backfield and looked plenty good on the defense. A new recruit was put in the first string line yesterday, John Coward, former Oxford youth who starred at the high school of that place, was at a guard position and showed some good football at his post.

RULE OF SPORTSMEN URGED ON HUNTERS

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—(AP)—With the first of the hunting seasons already open and a few weeks, sette conservation officials today urged all that go afield assume the "rule of sportsmen" if they would perpetuate their sport.

One of the most important steps in the state's game program, Col. J. W. Harrison, director, said, is the development and maintenance of a "feeling of good will between hunters and farmers. The future of hunting depends to a large extent upon the farmer-sportsmen relationship."

SUGGESTS PAY FOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 6 (AP)—Declaring "amateurism" among college football players "is a farce" the Orange and White, University of Tennessee publication suggested in an editorial yesterday that "a certain percentage of the gate receipts should be divided among the players' a percentage to their value on the team."

The editorial referred to the recent conference ruling which declared Nollie Felts of Tulane ineligible because he had played professional basketball.

BLUE DEVILS OFF TO MEET AUBURN

Duke Completes Workout and Entrainments Tonight For Birmingham

Durham, Oct. 6.—Completing their preparations this afternoon with a hard workout, the Blue Devils of Duke will leave here tonight for Birmingham, where on Saturday they meet Auburn's powerful Plainsmen in what will probably be the feature game in the Southern Conference this week.

It has been a week of defensive work for the Blue Devils, with particular attention on tackling. Greatly impressed by the running of the Tiger backs in their two games this season, the Duke mentors have endeavored to strengthen the Duke defense for the hard test it faces Saturday.

MARYLAND TO SHOW DECEPTIVE BACKS

Durham, Oct. 6.—The Blue Devils of Duke will face a deceptive set of backs when Maryland's Old Liners come to Duke stadium, October 15, for the alumni home-coming day game.

Eddie Cameron, Duke's backfield coach who scouted the Maryland-Virginia game, said there were more double passes, simple passes, fakes and reverses in the Old Liner backfield than he had ever seen used. They pass the ball around like it was a basketball, he said.

TWENTY GRAND IS DEFEATED IN RUN

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Twenty Grand, making the second start of his comeback campaign, was defeated by the lightly regarded C. V. Whitney's Mad Pump in the one and one-sixteenth mile Annapolis handicap at Laurel, Md., yesterday.

State Behind Huge Sums In Gas Tax Collections From Numerous Concerns

Durham, Oct. 6.—The State has so far never lost a single dollar from uncollected gasoline taxes since the first gasoline tax was imposed in 1923. Mr. Sears is confident that almost every cent of the amount owed by Pope and the others now in arrears will be collected.

"We could, of course, foreclose on every filling station operator that is in arrears in his tax payments at the end of the 80 days period," Sears said. "And when we have exhausted every other recourse and are convinced there is nothing else to do, we do it. But in many cases we have found it wise to be a little more lenient and that we usually collect more in the end than if we had foreclosed immediately. If we close up a filling station or a business, there is no chance of getting anything more from that business other than what it will bring at a forced sale. But if we can arrange to give an operator a little more time and keep his station or business open, he can frequently pay out. That is why we are not worried now."

Twin Hammers on Grid,

When the Kansas University eleven hammers the opposition line this season they'll be doing it with a vengeance, for here are the Hammer brothers, Burt ("Trip") and James ("Sledge") who are candidates for Columbus, Kan. Not only are they a formidable line-bucking combination, but they also star as the place-kicking duo of the team, "Sledge" holding the pigskin and brother "Trip" doing the booting.

POOR SHOWING BY INSURANCE FIRMS IN STATE HEARING

last year collected $4,532,209 in premiums and adjusted losses of $2,949,152, giving a loss basis of 65.1 per cent of the total premium collections. On the basis of these figures, Southard maintained, the companies should be allowed to increase their rates an average of 10.7 per cent.

But the figures cited by Southard crumbled rapidly when the cross-examination was begun by Major Matt A. Allen, chairman of the Industrial Commission. Within a short while after Major Allen started his cross-examination, Southard admitted errors in his figures amounting to $295,000, which he had omitted from the figures in his brief. There was one error of $50,000 in the addition of figures which was admitted, with another error of $57,000 in another place.

A total of 54 instances in which companies had paid their premiums but for which they had received no credit in Southard's brief were brought to light by Major Allen, who exhibited proof that these premiums had been paid, although not being credited as paid by the rating bureau. Among these were the American Enke Corporation of Asheville, one of the largest insurers in the State, and

WOLFPACK FACING TEST ON SATURDAY

Game With Clemson In Raleigh To Furnish Tough Opposition

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—The powerful running attack of State College, which has swept the Wolfpack to two victories this fall, will receive its biggest and hardest test Saturday in the Southern Conference clash with Clemson College on Riddick Field here at 2:30 p. m.

Coach Jess Neely will start a big and fast charging line against the Pack—one which will average 166 pounds per man—the heaviest line State has faced this year. State's scoring drives against Appalachian and Richmond University were led chiefly by Ray Rex, 210 pound fullback; Roscoe Roy, 145 pounds, and Robert McAdams, 165 pounds, all sophomores. Roy and McAdams are halfbacks. Working together with Don Wilson as quarterback, this combination will enter Saturday's game as a unit.

No explanation was forthcoming as to why the premium payments of these companies had not been credited against them. Southard, in his brief, maintained also that there had been an increase in medical costs in North Carolina, and added about $57,000 to his figures to take care of these. Major Allen, however, cited figures showing that the medical costs had been reduced an average of $2.06 in 1930 as compared with 1929, based on a study of 24,694 cases, and that the insurers should hence have been credited, with at least $50,000 as the result of this decrease in medical costs, instead of being charged with an additional $57,000 that was not justified by the facts.

It is a well known fact here that certain officers of the North Carolina Society are already going about the State holding meetings with the doctors in protest against the small fees allowed by the Industrial Commission in an effort either to get the fees enlarged by the next General Assembly or have the workmen's compensation law repealed entirely.

J. Dewey Dorsett, a member of the Industrial Commission, said after yesterday's hearing that the commission expected to introduce evidence from the insurance carriers to show that they have paid in much more in premiums than they have been credited with. He believes these figures will show that the insurance carriers in this State are entitled to a reduction in rates instead of an increase.
