GOVERNOR GARDNER CHIDES HOOVER FOR RESENTING CRITICS

"Hurt" Attitude Adopted by President Wholly Unwarranted on Executive's Part

EXECUTIVES MUST EXPECT CRITICISM

That Is the Lot of Men in Public Life Today; Hoover Can't Understand Plight of People; 11 New Automobiles for White House This Year

Raleigh, Oct. 8.—The hurt attitude being adopted by President Herbert Hoover and his complaint of a lack of public sympathy and understanding is really unwarranted and is revealing only that Mr. Hoover is thin-skinned and not able to stand up under public criticism, according to Governor O. Max Gardner. Any man in public life today holding an executive position must expect adverse criticism and plenty of it and must stand up under it without whimpering, Governor Gardner declares.

Much of the criticism of Mr. Hoover is amply justified, however, since he has demonstrated in many ways that he cannot sympathize with nor understand the position of the average citizen in the United States during the difficult times of the past two or three years, Governor Gardner said.

"I am inclined to agree with Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has said that President Hoover seems to think that money grows on trees without understanding how difficult it is for the rank and file of the people to pay this money in the form of taxes to be spent by the Government," Governor Gardner said. "For instance, it is generally reported without being denied, that eleven new automobiles have been purchased this year for the White House and the use of Mr. Hoover and his staff. No other President has ever bought so many automobiles within a single year even in times of prosperity. But Mr. Hoover bought these eleven automobiles for the White House when millions of American citizens were having to give up their old automobiles and walk or convert what was left of them into Hoover Carts.

In contrast with Mr. Hoover's ideas are those of the Democratic Speaker of the House and vice-presidential candidate, John N. Garner, who when he was elected speaker refused to use the Government-owned and maintained automobile provided for the speaker. Mr. Garner realized that this automobile was not necessary and created only additional expense.

As the result of this and many other similar instances that could be cited, I am inclined to think it is only natural that the rank and file of the American people are wondering whether Mr. Hoover really does understand them and their problems, their suffering and self-denial during these past few years.

I am inclined to think the real reason Mr. Hoover is complaining about a lack of understanding is that at last he is beginning to wake up and become disillusioned and that he is wincing at the criticism being heaped upon him. But he should not complain of a lack of understanding. The fact is that the people are just beginning to understand him.

"Any man who has held an executive position in public life during the last three or four years would be more than blind if he did not expect to be

Seeking Presidential Hancock

Beset on all sides by autograph hunters, President Hoover is shown as he autographed all kinds of articles that were thrust at him when his train stopped for a few minutes at Rock Island, Ill., enroute back to Washington from Des Moines, Iowa, where he made his first campaign address. Encouraged by the reception he received along the route, the President may make a more extended campaign tour later.

Trouble Over Farm Belt Certain If Hoover Wins

Picketing Taught Farmers Strong Arm Methods and Military Training; Will Come Even Under Roosevelt Unless Conditions Improve Rather Quickly

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 8.—The mid-western farm area is mighty close to outright revolt, not only according to agriculture's radical spokesmen, but according to some who are not so radical.

yeomanry will do if the November election does not result to their liking, and he amended my question thus:

"In plain terms, what will the farmers do if Hoover is re-elected?"

To this query he answered:

"Assuming that President Hoover is given another term in office, through the influence of the reactionary interests which he represents, the farmers almost certainly will speedily be driven to a policy of simply ignoring

Paris, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, former-public utilities magnate, who is under indictment in Chicago for embezzlement and larceny, was liberated in $50,000 bail today pending a hearing on extradition proceedings.

The bond was posted by an American surety company.

Mr. Insull was represented by J. C. McRuer, Toronto attorney, whose motion was opposed by Edward Bayly, assistant attorney general of Ontario, acting as special counsel for the State of Illinois.

Mr. McRuer presented medical affidavits to the effect that further incarceration would be detrimental to his client's health. Mr. Insull had been in jail here since Thursday.

Paris, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The American Embassy handed to the foreign office today the request for the arrest and detention of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, pending proceedings to take him to Chicago on a writ of extradition to face an indictment there.

At the same time a plan to attach European properties of Insull, under indictment in connection with the collapse of his vast interests, was reported today. The Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune said George Naeche, organizer of a committee of Insull stockholders in Europe notified officials his committee intends to seek authority from the European stockholders, and when it had been obtained an attempt will be made to attach his estate in England and two in France.

Charlotte Budget Standard as Fixed By State's Board

Raleigh, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The State Board of Equalization today tentatively adopted a rule not to allow any special charter school district a generally larger extended term supplement than was allowed Charlotte by the board yesterday.

On this basis the board tentatively adopted budgets for Asheville and Winston-Salem, allowing them the extra 15 percent above the State standard. Definite figures on allotments for the various items had not been prepared this afternoon.

Gang King Dies Death Of Torture

Frankie McErlane Introduced Machine Gun Into Chicago's Liquor Wars

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Frankie McErlane, inventor of the "one way ride" in Chicago liquor wars, died in bed at a hospital today of pneumonia.

He had escaped hundreds of bullets from gangland enemies and was credited with slaying several persons after he introduced machine guns to gangdom. He was once charged with slaying his wife and her two daughters, found dead in an automobile.

Deliriously recalling his experiences in a Chicago hospital a few years ago, when a few men gained entrance and tried to slay him as he lay on a bed recovering from gangster bullets, McErlane, doomed to die with his boots off, raved last night that his enemies were about to slay him, another item in his mad ramblings.

It required four internes to hold him in bed. So his death was violent, although only shadows of his enemies tortured him in the images of a fevered brain.

NO REDUCTION YET IN RATE SCHEDULE

Corporation Commission Is Still Studying Electric Charges

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Sir Walter Hotel.
BY J. C. BASKERVILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 8.—The State Corporation Commission is still busy digging into the rates structures of the various power companies that have submitted tentative schedules for lower rates with the result that no definite announcement of any rate reductions is expected for a week or ten days yet, Commissioner Stanley Winborne said today.

Every proposal so far made by the three companies that have submitted revised rates schedules is being carefully analyzed and dissected by Dr. C. E. Waddell, the engineer and rate analyst employed by the commission to assist it in its present estimation of what rates the three companies that have submitted revised schedules are the Southern Public Utilities of Charlotte (the Duke Power Company); the Durham Public Utilities Company and the Tidewater Power Company of Wilmington. The commission has already signified that the revised schedules submitted by these three companies are not satisfactory since they do not represent a sufficient decrease in rates.

Not only is the commission dissecting the rates already proposed, but it is also having Dr. Waddell apply a number of different rate schedules to the various classes of service on the basis of the power consumption fig-

Shortly after the order was issued, Mrs. McCallum telegraphed all county clerks to place Mrs. Ferguson's name on the ballots.
