

Tar Heels, Blue Devils And Deacons Drill For Week-End

CAROLINA PREPARES FOR TORNADO CLASH

Homecoming Day Classic Saturday One of Big Games of Season

Chapel Hill, Oct. 18—After a light practice yesterday as a reward for a good game against Georgia, the Carolina squad was in good shape today and is set to begin intensive practice for Saturday's Homecoming Day classic here with Georgia Tech, which is coming as one of the toughest teams on the Tar Heel schedule.

Tech lost to Auburn's mighty Plainsmen on a wet field 6-0 Saturday, but Carolina scouts saw enough of Tech to report back that the 1932 Tar Heels looked more like Tech's national championship team of 1928 than any other recent model. A statement is that is enough to set a team to fighting and especially when it comes from scouts like Coaches Bob Eitzer and Bill Cerney, who are not given to exaggeration.

CAROLINA POINTING FOR GEORGIA TECH

Made Fine Showing Tying Georgia Team That Scored on Tulane

Chapel Hill, Oct. 18—Home from its Georgia invasion and ready to settle down to a week's hard drilling for the big Homecoming Day game with Georgia Tech here Saturday, the Carolina football army is receiving the unending praise and plaudits of a homecoming college town.

Unusually as the games generally are to victory-hungry supporters, University students, faculty and town backers thought Carolina played a fine game to play a 6-6 tie with the Georgia brigade that had scored 27 points on Tulane the week-end before. And they didn't fail to express themselves. More than a thousand packed Memorial Hall for the gridiron Saturday. They went wild when Barnes and Burnett recovered fumbles in Georgia territory and when Kahn blocked and recovered a Georgia punt and they almost lifted the top off the house when Lassiter came in and made the long run with Phipps pass for the tying touch down.

Rumor Of Trades Of Big League Players Is Denied

Boston, Oct. 18 (AP)—Published reports of an impending baseball deal involving four National League clubs and seven players valued at approximately $500,000 today brought denials from Charles F. Adams, vice-president of the Boston Braves, and William L. Vecek, president of the Chicago Cubs.

The Evening American said a trade, understood to have been started by Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, would send Freddy Lindstrom and Frank Hogan to the National League pennant winners in exchange for Kiki Cuyler, Gabby Hartnett and Pat Malone.

NOTRE DAME PLAYS WILL BE IN FORM

Gator Coach And State's Mentors Are Graduates of Old School

Raleigh, Oct. 18.—A clash of Notre Dame football systems will be made in Tampa, Florida this Saturday when N. C. State's Wolfpack and the Florida Gators meet in a Southern Conference football game.

Coach Charlie Bachman of Florida and Clipper Smith and Frank Reese of State are graduates of Notre Dame. Bachman is considered one of the best students of the Rockne system ever to be graduated from South Bend. He has been coaching for about fifteen years; Smith, who according to The Ole Timer of the Atlanta Journal, will become one of the silent figures in American football, started coaching in 1928. Reese began tutoring in 1924. Last fall Bachman's more experienced and smoothly working Gator machine smothered Smith's first Wolf pack 34-0 on Riddick Field. This fall's Pack is considered a great improvement over the 1931 edition, and the Gators are thought to be of about the same strength.

CHISLER PRAISES STAGG; FOOTBALL

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—Herbert Orrin (Fritz) Crisler sat down to lunch yesterday with a lot of his sports writing friends to muse him over his few weeks as Princeton's head coach, praise his former teacher at Chicago, Amos Alonzo Stagg, and chew over the football situation in general. Annually in the Tiger field house, one of the oldest legend-laden football strongholds in the East, Princeton football coaches do that. And this marked the first occasion it has fallen to a lot of a man not Princeton born and bred, to talk from the head of the table as the guiding director of a Tiger eleven.

FIERCE BATTLE AT DUKE IS FORECAST

Wake's Great Defensive Record of Season May Be Continued

Durham, Oct. 18—Will Wake Forest's giant-killing Deacons continue against the Blue Devils of Duke the great defensive record they have made this season? That is the question being asked among North Carolina grid fans this week as Coaches Wallace Wade and Pat Miller prepare the two teams for their expected fierce encounter in Duke stadium Friday.

In most quarters the Blue Devils are favored to win. However, that has been the case with every team the Deacons have met this fall and no team has beat them yet. The staunch defense that Wake Forest has put up against its foes this season is probably the most talked about feature of North Carolina football.

public affairs. "Mechanical devices, too, have relieved femininity of a great share of their former household duties.

"Thus, already equipped with a basis of experience in political technique and the persistent efforts at training the new half of the electorate which have been in progress ever since the nineteenth amendment's adoption, there is every prospect that the women's vote November 8 will be decidedly larger than ever before."

Is there also a prospect that, with increasing interest, women also will presently begin to manifest an increasing thirst for office?—a development which men politicians may regard considerably askance, one would imagine.

"I doubt," said Mrs. Yost, "whether the increased demand will be in proportion to the number of women in the total voting population. After all, women, generally speaking, are primarily concerned in maintenance of the nation's homes, and politics certainly is a distraction from home life. Woman can be spared to vote, but if she is to be spared for public office, it cannot but interfere with domesticity.

"It is a reasonable conclusion that women, who have shown special qualifications for particular offices, will be more urgently sought to fill them. Presumably the consequence will be some increase in the number of them in political service.

"But it is not my prediction that anything like a demand for a 50-50 division in offices, between women and men, will follow."

Relief Fund Checks Go Into Mails For Counties

winners," Miller said. "Of course, if there is a family consisting of a widow and several children, all too young to work, provision will be made to take care of these families with direct relief, consisting of the necessary food, clothing and fuel. But in families where there are adults capable of working, they will be required to exchange their labor for whatever relief they need."

This labor may be done in improving and beautifying school grounds, in repairing streets, putting down water or sewer lines, with the local community furnishing the materials and the relief agencies the wages in the form of food and clothing. Miller pointed out.

HIGHWAYS DAMAGED BY FLOOD WATERS

Chief Engineer Leslie Ames. Many rivers and creeks are out of their banks and making it necessary to close a number of highways, messages received by Ames indicate.

The heaviest rains are reported from Transylvania, Polk and Macon counties, and from Marion, in McDowell county, by Division Highway Engineer J. C. Walker, of Asheville. He advised the commission here that Route 28 had been closed by high water, also Route 284, in Transylvania county, from Brevard to Woodrow, in Haywood county. Several steel county bridges were reported washed out in McDowell county, where a heavy rain fell Sunday and where the Catawba river was out of its banks Monday. Traffic between Marion and Asheville over Route 10 is being permitted only at the risk of the drivers who are willing to take the chances.

Until the present high water recedes it will not be possible to determine what the damage is, but it is expected to be quite heavy in some localities, Ames said.

In Division B, with headquarters at Statesville, a number of highways have been closed due to high water. Among these are Route 275 from Wadesboro to Mount Gilead, where the ferry has been forced to close because of high water in the Pee Dee river; Route 275 is closed between Dallas and Stanly, while Route 268, from Elkin to North Wilkesboro was closed Monday by the heavy rains and high water.

WOLFPACK TO MEET FLORIDA AT TAMPA

State Eleven In Good Shape For Far South Game This Week End

Raleigh, Oct. 18—The State College Wolfpack went through a peppy workout yesterday on Riddick Field as it started preparing for its second southern Conference game Saturday in Tampa, Fla., with the University of Florida.

Although disappointed in its failure to score on Wake Forest last Friday, the Pack opened its training grind for the Gators in good spirits. Work yesterday was devoted chiefly to fundamentals with some attention paid to passing. A dummy signal drill completed the day's activities for the regulars.

VANDERBILT HOLDS BALANCE OF POWER

Commodores Slated To Play Vols In Nashville, November 12

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18 (AP)—Vanderbilt's Commodores, although at least temporarily out of the race, apparently hold the key to the southern conference football championship puzzle.

Auburn, Kentucky, Louisiana State and others must be heard from before final standings are tabulated but from this distance it appears that championship will be decided when Vanderbilt plays Tennessee in Nashville November 12.

GEHRIG IS NOT TO SPEAK FOR HOOVER

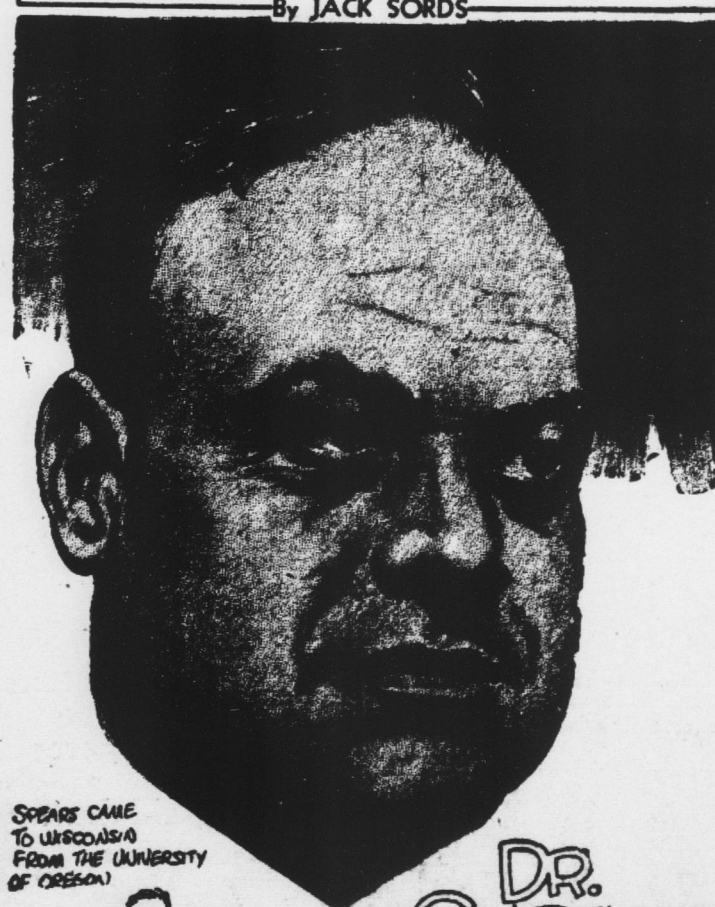

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Sun says Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman of the New York Yankees, has no intention of making political speeches for President Hoover.

"I have all I can do to play first base and hit the ball without plunging into a game of which I know nothing," said the baseball star.

The Republican national committee had announced Gehrig would make a radio address this week in the President's behalf.
