Tobacco Market Re-Opens Here On Monday Morning

Market To Run Several Weeks Yet Before Season Ends, And Several Million Pounds More Are Expected To Be Sold; Closing Date Not Fixed

After a three weeks rest for the Christmas and New Year holidays, the Henderson tobacco market will re-open next Monday for the sale of the remainder of the 1932 crop of leaf tobacco.

At the close of the pre-Christmas period on December 16, Henderson had sold a trifle less than 12,000,000 pounds of tobacco, which is considerably more than the market had expected to sell for the entire season.

Most growers have sold most of their crop, but there is considerable tobacco still in the hands of the farmers.

CAREER OF M'COIN RELATED BY PAPER

Early Life of Missing Henderson Man Told by His Half-Brother

Interesting sidelights on the early life of R. S. McCoin, prominent Henderson attorney, missing 16 days from his home here, are given in a local news story in the Winston-Salem Journal, morning newspaper at Winston-Salem, which quotes a half-brother of the local business man.

R. S. McCoin, the missing Henderson attorney, lived his early life in and around Winston-Salem and money he made while clerking for H. D. Poindexter of this city helped to carry him through college and to a position as one of the leading attorneys and citizens of the state.

"I have read that letter written by that boy to the chief of the Supreme Court several times and I am convinced that he was telling the truth," said Mr. McCoin. "I have been going off the street each morning as I get off my work at 6:30 to buy a morning copy of The Journal to learn the latest details and I have also listened in on the radio in an effort to learn all I could about my half-brother I think things are developing just as the boy told in his letter. They found the car, they also found belonging just as the boy said they would. But I do not believe they will ever find the body for I think he was robbed of all he had, murdered and then perhaps thrown into a river or something."

The Winston-Salem man, who lives at the corner of West Second and North Trade streets, said there were three of the boys but they scattered when mere lads and saw very little of each other. The Henderson man was born near Mount Tabor Church, several miles north of Winston-Salem, and was raised by Polly Shamel, an aunt. She raised him for several years on her farm and gave him tobacco and other farm products to sell that he might have some money. He saved the money he got and finally went to Pineola, where he went to school. He remained in school there a short time and then taught for one or two years.

Following his schooling at Pineola, Mr. McCoin came to Winston-Salem and secured a job with H. D. Poindexter and remained in that employ for two or three years, during which time he studied law at night and got his start. In a short time he left Mr. Poindexter and went to Henderson to get a job, and with the money he saved in these jobs went off to a law school and completed that part of his education.

He was always a studious fellow, even when he was little. Pinkney McCoin said, "and we all thought then he was going to be a big man some day. He had a way of holding on to every penny he made and in the end made them all count to get his education."

Mr. McCoin said he noticed in the papers many references to his relatives in Henderson, but there are no relatives there except his wife and her people. The only boys in the family were Pinkney, the eldest, who is now 66 years of age; R. S., who is six years younger, and Romulus, who lives now in Pittsburgh. Romulus worked for many years in steel mills of Pittsburgh but of recent years he has been buying and selling ice. There were no sisters.

TO MAKE ARRESTS AFTER JANUARY 10

Patrolman Bailey Says Yellow License Tags Now Being Run In

W. F. Bailey, State highway patrolman located in this city, said today his instructions from State authorities were to begin at once in running in cars still displaying 1932 license plates and that arrests should start after next Tuesday, January 10.

The patrolman works under the instructions of the State Highway Patrol and is required to act accordingly. So far no pronouncement has come from city or county authorities here as to what they propose to do. Most automobiles venturing on the streets or highways now have the new 1933 license tags, but still there are quite a number that are yet displaying the old yellow and black tins that did duty in 1932.

COURT OPENS HERE MONDAY MORNING

One Week of Criminal Session Will Be Held For Vance County

PARKER WILL PRESIDE

New "Permanent" Grand Jury Will Be Chosen for First Six Months of 1933; Docket Rather Light One

A one-week term of Vance Superior Court for trial of criminal cases will open here next Monday morning, with Judge R. Hunt Parker, of Roanoke Rapids, presiding. Judge Parker, who was solicitor of the district for many years prior to his elevation to the bench last fall on the death of Judge Garland E. Midyette, comes here at this time by exchange with Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro. It will be his first term in this city, where he lived for several years after being appointed solicitor.

Solicitor W. H. S. Burgwyn, of Northampton county, who succeeded Judge Parker as solicitor, will be here to prosecute the docket for the State. He has held one term here since his appointment, having prosecuted at the October sitting, which was his first week of court in his new office.

Both the judge and the solicitor are well known in Henderson, and will be welcomed here. The docket is fairly small. A case in which the defendant is charged with a murder here nearly 20 years ago is among those on the docket to be tried, and two defendants are held in connection with a fatality in an automobile wreck near this city last year and are to be tried. Other than these the docket contains mostly cases of a minor nature, both as to their character and the degree of public interest.

There will be no civil court at this session, the term being only one week and devoted entirely to prosecuting the criminal docket.

$10,000 More For Relief Allotted To Vance County

Appointments to Counties Announced for January and February Requirements; Sent by State From Funds Received From Federal Government

Vance county is allotted a total of $10,000 of Federal relief funds for aid of the destitute during January and February in the newest apportionment by the Governor's Relief Commission, headed by Dr. Fred Morrison, and announced today. Four thousand dollars of this amount is for January and $6,000 for February since it is thought that the month of February may be the most severe of the winter.

The total makes between $15,000 and $18,000 that has been allotted to the county for relief work since Federal funds began to be passed out in this State.

Vance got the least of her four in the quadrangle usually grouped together in this section. Other allotments, showing January and February, include Granville, $8,000 and $8,000; Franklin, $6,000 and $7,000; Warren, $5,500 and $8,000.

A loan of $1,650,000 was announced yesterday by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for North Carolina to cover January and February. The apportionment is $740,000 for January and $895,000 for February. Previously $815,000 had been secured for October and November and $571,000 for December.

Larger amounts for the two winter months were necessary because of the increasing number of families in need of assistance. County relief agencies estimate the total number of families who will have to be helped in January at 143,325 and in February at 151,272, as against 122,281 in December, and that there will be available from local funds $605,281 and $357,273 for the two months respectively. This means a relief of load in the State of nearly one and a half million dollars monthly.

The Federal emergency relief fund just made available will be paid in four installments. It is announced from Raleigh. The payment for the first allotment for January is being made available immediately. Mecklenburg and Guilford counties got the most of any counties in the State, each getting $50,000 for each month.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN M'COIN MYSTERY

Automobile Expected to Be Returned Here Today From Columbus

The 1928 model Chrysler green sedan, in which R. S. McCoin, Henderson attorney and business man, left here December 22 and then dropped from sight, was expected to be brought back to Henderson today. One of the Linthicums, nephews of Mrs. McCoin, went to Columbus, Ohio, after it earlier in the week. The car was found there a few days after McCoin disappeared. It was driven back through Hagerstown, Md., where a search is being made for McCoin's body, and where it was hoped it might serve today some identification or some clues as to the whereabouts of the prominent Henderson citizen.

The search today was absolutely at a standstill, so far as developments were concerned, it was stated by those close to the situation.
