Bodman Mrs. Purvines Purvines "Out from under" for the first time in many years, Elijah Purvines, a farmer of Pleasant Plains, Ill., is facing the future with optimism as a result of being granted the first loan in the country under President Roosevelt's $200,000,000 emergency farm mortgage act. Purvines is shown, right, receiving the loan in the form of a $3,500 check from E. J. Bodman, St. Louis agent for the farm loan commissioner, as Mrs. Purvines looks on.

Will Grade Mills On Observance of State Labor Laws

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Six Walter Hotel, BY J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, May 22.—Textile mills and other manufacturing plants coming under the State labor laws, will be graded according to the degree with which they conform to these laws, it was announced today by Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher. In a letter to all the manufacturers in the State, Commissioner Fletcher announces that the new system of grading manufacturing plants in accordance with their observance of the labor laws will begin June 1. He also calls to their attention the law requiring the posting of the labor laws where all employees may read them, and the requirements of the law with regard to inspection.

In announcing the new plan for grading manufacturing plants, the letter just sent out by Commissioner Fletcher says: "Beginning June 1, 1933, our inspectors will grade every mill which they inspect. They will take into consideration compliance with the Labor Laws, cleanliness of premises, ventilation, lighting, heating, safety appliances, safety education and first-aid training, drinking water and general working conditions. The inspector will leave with the Superintendent a certificate of grade, showing how it was arrived at. It is believed that this service will prove helpful to all manufacturers who are interested in maintaining a high standard along these lines. May yours be a 'Grade A Mill.'"

The letter also calls the attention of the manufacturers to the fact that all Department of Labor inspectors must be admitted to their plants "without delay, day or night" and that employees should be instructed to this effect. "It is not always wise for an inspector to report at the office and have the management furnish a guide of some official to accompany him," the letter continues. "Frequent complaints come to me that the inspector saw only what the management wanted him to see. So far your own protection, therefore, place no restrictions on the inspectors."

School Personnel Named In Keeping With Expectation

Second district, George C. Green, of Weldon, attorney and business man long interested in school matters. New appointee. Former member of the board of equalization from this district was J. C. Eagles, of Wilson. Third district, A. McL. Graham, of Clinton, attorney and business man, carried over from the board of equalization. Fourth district, F. P. Spruill, of Rocky Mount, banker and business man, carried over from the board of equalization. Fifth district, John Folger, of Mount Airy, attorney and business man and one of the charter members of the board of equalization. Sixth district, Henry R. Dwire, of Duke University, Durham, editor and publicist, for several years a member of the board of equalization. Seventh district, J. C. Carr, of Wilmington, attorney and business man, and keen student of education. New member, succeeds W. H. Powell of Southport. Eighth district, Edwin Palt, of Laurinburg, merchant, long interested in schools. New member, succeeds H. L. Price, of Union county. Ninth district, Dr. B. B. Dougherty, of Boone, president of Appalachian State Teachers' College, and charter member of the board of equalization, recognized expert on school management and administration. Tenth district, W. G. Gaston, of Gastonia, formerly in school work, business man and president of Chamber of Commerce. Former member of board of equalization from this district was A. E. Waltz, also from Gastonia. Eleventh district, O. J. Holler of Union Mills Rutherford county, master farmer long interested in schools and education. Former member of the board of equalization from this district J. C. Coburn, of Bryson City. In addition to these eleven members of the school commission, there are four ex-officio members, namely the governor, lieutenant governor, State superintendent of public instruction, making 15 members in all. The eleven members appointed by Governor Ehringhaus were selected because of their long interest in and familiarity with the operation of the public schools in the State, he indicated in making the announcement of their selection. He believes they will bring a genuine interest to their new duties and that they will be fair and impartial in all their decisions affecting the schools.

League at Geneva Told Of American Readiness to Act

Mr. Davis also announced that the United States advocates a system of control and supervision of armaments and said that American readiness to participate in measures for this control would be effective, automatic and permanent. Inferentially opposing a brisk revision of treaties, the American ambassador-at-large urged the maintenance of the territorial status quo. He revealed that his country defines an aggressor as one whose armed forces are found upon foreign territory in violation of treaties. He also announced that the United States is opposed to the re-arming of any nation, and declared in favor of the abolition of offensive arms. He reiterated American acceptance of Premier MacDonald's recent disarmament proposals.

Turning to the Versailles treaty, and its consequences, Mr. Davis expressed the conviction that there is a contractual obligation for armed nations to reduce their armaments to a definite level which would be comparable to the levels to which the vanquished powers were obligated to reduce their armaments by the peace treaties.

He referred to President Roosevelt's proposal for an international agreement to prevent the sending of armed forces outside the national territory and then gave his definition of an aggressor nation as in line with that proposal.

Others being mentioned in connection with the directorship of the conservation department are Representative G. A. Barden, of New Bern, Craven county; Senator Carl Bailey, of Plymouth, Washington county, and Robert A. Wellons, attorney of Charlotte. Both Barden and Bailey were among the leaders of the administration forces in the House and Senate, while Barden was regarded as one of the "three musketeers" of the administration in the House. There is little doubt that Barden is in line for a good State appointment, if he wants one. But the general opinion here is that he is not particularly anxious for it. Nor is it believed that Senator Bailey, of Plymouth, is at all interested in any State job right now.

The name of Wellons has only recently been heard here, when a delegation appeared before Governor Ehringhaus in his behalf last week. No one here has been able to learn of any particular reason why Wellons should be given the job and the prevailing view is that he does not have a chance at it.

There are also five vacancies on the board of conservation to be filled, the terms of four members having expired, while one member has resigned. Those whose terms have expired are James G. K. McClure, of Asheville; Lee B. Weathers of Shelby; J. Wade Marr, of Raleigh, and D. L. Ward, of New Bern. The fifth vacancy was caused by the resignation of Ed. D. Cranford, of Asheboro. Most of these were appointed either by former Governor Gardner. As a result, it is expected that they will all be replaced by new appointees, although it is understood that some of these are making a strong effort to secure reappointment. It would not be surprising if both Barden and Bailey should be named as members of this board. Senator W. D. Burgin, of Thomasville, and Representative H. E. Olive, of Lexington, are also being mentioned as possible appointees to the conservation board.

BURWELL ELECTED MAYOR OF STOVALL

Oxford, May 22.—D. A. Burwell has recently been elected Mayor of Stovall, succeeding F. H. Gregory, it was learned in Oxford today.

The election news in the form of a mass meeting of the vote was 41 to 25. Mr. Burwell and the town board with three new members will be given the oath of office the first of the month.

The board is composed of R. H. Butler and J. G. Harris, re-elected, and Giles Critcher, Harvey Stovall and Carroll Bryant, new members.

Cuban Commander

Command of the Cuban federal forces in Santa Clara province, scene of the most serious revolutionary outbreak since the inauguration of the Machado regime, is held by Col. Arsenio Ortiz. Immediately following the landing of an insurgent force of more than 1,000 men on the south coast, from Trinidad, Colonel Ortiz telegraphed to Havana for reinforcements.

Harriman Trial Off Full Week

New York, May 22.—(AP)—Trial of Joseph W. Harriman, former chairman of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, who is charged with falsifying the accounts of the bank, was postponed for a week today as Harriman himself lay in Nassau county hospital recovering from a self-inflicted wound.

Counsel for Harriman offered to produce him at once for trial if the prosecution desired, but United States Attorney George C. Medalle characterized this suggestion as "ridiculous". Although postponing the trial only one week, Judge Henry Goodard said the case was subject to further postponement, as it is intended to have it follow the income tax fraud trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City Bank, which is now in progress.

Harriman stabbed himself Saturday after being found by police in a Long Island hotel after having been missing for a day.

New Conservation Board To Be Named

who think Colonel Harrelson has no particular desire to stay on as the head of this department, and that he is ready to go back to his professorship at State College which he relinquished four years ago when former Governor O. Max Gardner appointed him as the head of the conservation department. Most of those close to Harrelson, however, believe he will accept the appointment to continue as head of the department if it is offered to him, however.

One of the several names being mentioned as a possible choice for the Director of the department, however, is that of Representative R. Bruce Etheridge, of Dare county, for many years a member of the board of conservation and a close personal friend of Governor Ehringhaus. It is generally conceded here that Etheridge can have almost any State post he may want and that if he wants the conservation post, he is very likely to get it. However, Etheridge is being mentioned in connection with several posts regarded as far more important and far more lucrative than the conservation job, with the result that he is not regarded as an active contender for the directorship. Many believe Etheridge is more likely to be appointed commissioner of banks or to some office having to do with the finances of the State, since he is a banker.

Others being mentioned in connection with the directorship of the conservation department are Representative G. A. Barden, of New Bern, Craven county; Senator Carl Bailey, of Plymouth, Washington county, and Robert A. Wellons, attorney of Charlotte. Both Barden and Bailey were among the leaders of the administration forces in the House and Senate, while Barden was regarded as one of the "three musketeers" of the administration in the House. Huge Acreage Retirement Fund Proposed By Smith and other basic commodities listed in the farm bill. Smith said he found Wallace eager "to get started" on an acreage protection program, applying to cotton planted this year, but "apparently unable to do anything quickly unless more than the $100,000,000 set aside in the farm act is made available to finance acreage retirement will not be used while the international tariff trustee is in effect, because of its provision for compensatory import taxes." Smith said that, while the trustee is slated to continue throughout the London economic conference, "money is needed to retire cotton acreage long before the conference will be over, and there should be no delay on acreage reduction, because of the vast surplus of cotton."

The program should make use of the option plan, he said and the voluntary domestic allotment plan and land leasing in combination with benefit payments for growers who retire acreage to be made at the time of retirement.

ringhaus said. It was then explained to the governor that the old State-owned Lincoln, which has been driven several hundred thousand miles during the last four years is being overhauled and that this new twelve cylinder sedan had merely been loaned to the State by the garage doing the overhauling, to be used by the governor while the old car is in the shop. It was not until this explanation had been made that the governor consented to enter the car. He agreed that the new sedan was a "great job" and the last word in motor car construction. But he still believes that the old Lincoln is good enough for him and that the State should not spend any money at this time for anything that is not needed. Several days ago, when he was flooded with literature about new automobiles and before he had learned that one of the last-minute measures passed by the General Assembly was a bill authorizing the purchase of a new automobile for the governor's use, Ehringhaus told his secretary, Mr. Powell to dump it all into the waste basket. "I can't need a new automobile and I am not going to buy one, even if the General Assembly did authorize it," Governor Ehringhaus said. "I of course appreciate the spirit back of the bill. But the present car is good enough for me."
