CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS By E. V. SHEPARD FAMOUS BRIDGE TEACHER

THE BEST OPENING LEAD

AT LAST players are commencing to realize the truth of something which I have been preaching for years. That half the time, the fate of a contract is determined by the opening lead and how the declarer handles it. The most attractive position in a duplicate game is playing against the declarer. It affords better chances for top scores than are open to the declarer. The fate of the game contract on the following deal depended upon the opening lead and subsequent defense.

♠ 3 Q 10 8 3 ♠ 5 4 3 2 ♠ J 6 3 2 ♠ Q J 6 ♠ K J 4 ♠ K J 9 7 ♠ K 8 5 ♠ A K 10 ♠ 7 4 2 ♠ A 7 6 2 ♠ None ♠ Q 9 4 ♠ 9 8 5 ♠ A Q 10 8 6 ♠ A 10 7

Building went as follows: South, 1-Diamond; West, 1-No Trump; East, 3-Spades, to show his great trump strength; West, 4-Spades.

Of course an opening lead of a diamond will give the declarer his contract, but that lead would be too insane to expect. An opening lead of the Ace of clubs also splits game leading game are, to "view dummy," is one of the most naive methods of assisting the declarer. The opening lead had to be either South's top heart or a trump. He chose the former, although a trump lead could not have done any harm in this case, as South had too many spades to expect his partner to hold a missing honor which would not fall without regard to which player first led a trump.

The 9 of hearts was covered by dummy's J, North's Q, and the declarer's Ace. Of course East hoped to find trumps divided 2-2, or what would as well answer his purpose, that North would hold 3 trumps and 4 hearts, so that dummy might ruff a fourth round of hearts. West took 2 trump leads, only to find that South still held a trump. West dared not lead hearts until all trumps were down, so he led another spade, dropping the last opposing trump. Dummy's K of hearts was led. North played the 3 and West the 2. If South dropped the 8 the declarer would be enabled to win another heart trick and go game, as he then would hold the 7-8, while North had only the 10-5. To the declarer's annoyance, South dropped the 5. It was possible that hearts would break, and the declarer led that suit again, but North held both the missing 10 and 8, and he won 2 tricks. North led a low diamond, the declarer ruffed. He led a low club, hoping that South might be simple enough to put up his Ace, giving the declaring side game, but South played low. Dummy's K won the trick, but a return lead of clubs gave South 2 tricks, defeating the contract by a trick.

O'NEILS ARE SAFE HARKER'S ISLAND

Cottage Not Damaged, Sea Five Feet Deep In Yard, Trees Blown Down

Word was received this morning shortly before 11 o'clock from M. J. O'Neil, who with Mrs. O'Neil was spending some time at his cottage on Harker's Island and was there at the time of the recent hurricane that struck the North Carolina Coast. Mr. O'Neil was able to get from the island to Beaufort and from there called his son, James N. O'Neil, in this city, saying that his cottage was not damaged in the blow but trees on his property there was snapped off as if they had been twigs and the sea stood five feet deep in his front yard. Little other information could be learned since the telephone conversation was limited to only three minutes, it was the only line of communication in repair at that time. Mr. O'Neil stated that it would be more than a week before they could get off Harker's Island, the ferry being out for that long.

her wrecked home in the Bachelor section.

State Highway workers, aided by prisoners from road camps near here, were busy salvaging timber from the Neuse river bridge. Roy J. Hart, in charge of highway work here, said practically all sections of flooring from the bridge had been located on banks below here, some being found as far away as Minnesot Beach, 18 miles away. The flooring and upper structure of 165 bands washed away during the high tide, but the piling was left intact.

Harland W. H. Wesley, supervisor, surveyed Pamlico and Carteret roads yesterday and were making thorough inspections today. Hart said Pamlico suffered much less damage than had been expected. The State Highway toward Atlantic was flooded three feet deep late last night and the bridge over Bachelor creek was out.

We discard 86% OF THE TOBACCO PLANT

Advertisement for Lucky Strike cigarettes. It features a large illustration of a man in a suit and hat standing next to a large tobacco plant. The text reads: 'We actually discard 86% of the tobacco plant. Because we use only the fine center leaves—no stem—no stalk. And each Lucky comes to you fully packed with ripe, mellow, choice tobaccos—round and firm—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are always so mild—so smooth?' Below the illustration is a pack of Lucky Strike cigarettes. At the bottom, it says 'The Cream of the Crop' and 'ALWAYS the finest tobaccos ALWAYS the finest workmanship ALWAYS Luckies please!' and 'it's toasted' FOR BETTER TASTE—FOR THROAT PROTECTION.

RESTING TIME. How good the brief dusk is, and the long night. How good the late late slow dawn and the mellow moon. There seems a gentle hushing in the air. A softness that is almost like a voice. Take the brown leaves and hear the rustle sound. They make in turning. It is like a song. Not like a sigh. There is no grieving in them. To find their bedtime near. The summer's heat. The greenness and the passionate alchemy that changed the green to gold—these things are over. And there is come a respite and a calm. After the vivid haste of harvesting. Says Cardui Seemed To Do Her Most Good

"A few years ago, my health wasn't so good," writes Mrs. L. E. Erwin, of Lamar, Mo. "I was nervous and tired, and felt the need of a tonic. My mother advised me to take Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I found I was getting results. I took about five bottles, and certainly was much better than I had been in some time, as my headaches had stopped. Cardui had done me more good than any medicine I had taken."
