Vance-Warren Merchants Set Perfect Tax Record

The first of these field to come around and help them make deputies to complete checking his list out their returns or who had failed was Deputy Brooks Parham of Henderson, who has the district composed of Vance and Warren counties. "I have talked to several other of the field deputies, however, and they all report that they ar efinding very few merchants who are actually delinquent in sending in their sales tax collections," McMullan said. "They have found a few here and there who had been waiting for the field men to send in their returns through osme misunderstanding. But there have been very few who could be classed as being deliberately delinquent." The results of this check-up on merchants who have not yet made returns of them was delinquent, and that the is proving more convincing than ever only reason they had not made re- that the merchants are cooperating turns was that their collections were with the State in the collection of the not large enough to require them to sales tax almost 100 per cent, Mc-send them in.
