

DR. MORGAN BEGINS HIS REVIVAL HERE

Large Congregations Hear Englishman at First Methodist Church

TWO SERVICES DAILY

Afternoon and Evening Meetings Provided for in Schedule; Outside Ministers To Give of Their Services

Dr. Frank Crossley Morgan, of Augusta, Ga., son of the world-famous preacher, Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, of London, began a two-weeks revival meeting in this city yesterday at the First Methodist church, preaching both morning and evening to large congregations, especially in the evening.

The two weeks program will be known as a Bible conference and evangelistic series of services, in view of the fact that the afternoon services will be given over to the study of Bible selections. Dr. Morgan announced Sunday he would study the Book of Haggai at the afternoon services for the first week, with certain Psalms selected for the afternoon services the second week. The evening sermons will be evangelistic in nature.

The Methodist choir was augmented by a number of visitors Sunday evening, while the congregation was made larger by reason of the fact that Presbyterian and Methodist Protestant services are being held during the winter at 5 p. m., and the First Christian congregation called off their night services. There were also a number of persons from out of the city who attended.

At the service Sunday morning, the text was from the 21st chapter of John's Gospel, in the command of Jesus to Peter, "Feed my lambs, shepherd my sheep, feed my sheep."

Dr. Morgan said "Jesus did not tell Simon to shepherd the lambs, He did instruct him to feed the lambs and the sheep, and to shepherd the sheep. The fact is that he do not have to round up and control the lambs if you properly shepherd the sheep. The boy problem is a daddy problem, and the girl problem is the mother problem. Where the father and mother live right the boys and girls are easy to handle—at least in the greater percentage of the cases," said the preacher.

"Jesus said feed the lambs and the sheep, which amounts to building them up in character and Christian faith," said the preacher. "Then strength comes from proper nourishment more than from any other source. It is very necessary for ministers and Sunday school teachers, therefore, to know where the green pastures are. In order to know, they have to feed there themselves. Pastors can become such mixers as to forfeit their opportunity to feed the people. They can also be so practical in their everyday dealing with the masses as to weaken their hold as a prophet of God. A man who makes a clown of himself six days is not ready on the seventh to impart spiritual food."

"The Master emphasized, furthermore, that they were his sheep that they entered into such relation through saving grace as to give him an everlasting claim upon them. When ministers and teachers go about feeding those sheep and lambs they are becoming co-laborers with the Master in a sublime business. He furnished the food and also supplies the workmen for the noble task."

"The ringing challenge of the Lord Christ is for us to dedicate our lives to this high purpose, which was given in the heart of God. In responding to this great call we may forego some of the flowers of our own choosing, but we will obtain the crown fashioned by the hand divine."

Work Expected To Be Started Shortly In Paving Garnett Street

A representative of the Atlantic Bitulithic Company, of Winston-Salem, low bidder for the re-paving of Garnett street here, has been in the city making preliminary arrangements for start of the work, it was learned today. It is understood work is to begin very shortly.

The money is furnished by the Federal government and the work done under supervision and by the State Highway Commission, since the street is the route through the city of the national highway, known as Federal Route 1 and as State route 50.

ED LANCASTER IS KILLED BY A CAR

Hit-and-Run Driver Strikes Man Near Gillburg Sat. urday Evening

Ed Lancaster, middle aged white man, was fatally injured when struck by a hit-and-run automobile Saturday evening on the Henderson-Epsom road about four miles out from Henderson. He died about the time he was brought to the hospital here.

Lancaster according to women who were eye-witnesses to the tragedy was walking along the highway. He was staggering, they said, and they had to give him plenty of room to keep from striking him. Another car approaching them from the rear struck Lancaster just after they had passed him, and he was tossed over into the highway just in front of the car driven by the ladies, Mrs. R. H. Edwards and Mrs. C. L. Fidler, well known residents of near Gillburg.

Coroner F. B. Hight said the ladies told him they knew Lancaster and saw him approaching them walking. He was waddling from one side of the road to the other and they took particular pains to avoid him. The coroner did not summon a jury, but merely made a private investigation.

Lancaster, who is understood to be about 50 years of age, is survived by his widow and three children.
