Raleigh, April 9.—(AP)—George Ross Pou, of Raleigh, today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the fourth district to succeed his father, the late Edward W. Pou, who represented the district 33 years.

Saturday Mr. Pou resigned as executive director of the State Highway and Public Works Commission after 12 years of service in connection with the supervision of State Prison.

Raleigh, April 9.—George Ross Pou son of the late Congressman Edward W. Pou, who died a week ago yesterday in Washington, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination to succeed his father in Congress from the fourth district, he announced here this afternoon. He is expected to post the $100 fee and formally file with the State Board of Elections within the next few days. Pou has been in Washington for the last several days attending to business matters in connection with his father's estate and did not return here until this afternoon.

It has been expected from the first in political circles that Pou would become a candidate for Congress in the fourth district, composed of Chatham, Franklin, Johnston, Nash, Randolph, Vance and Wake counties. For it has been generally known in political circles for years that the elder Pou wanted his son to succeed him in Congress and that his son wanted to do this. But it was hardly expected that the formal announcement of his candidacy would be issued by Pou before the middle of this week at the earliest.

There is no doubt that the contest for the nomination in the fourth district is going to be a battle royal, according to local political circles. Before Congressman Pou died, Palmer Bailey, of Raleigh, a young lawyer who was formerly secretary to Senator Josiah W. Bailey before he became senator, announced as a candidate. But he has not been regarded at any time as a major contender for the nomination. J. P. Zollicoffer, an attorney of Henderson, Vance county, announced as a candidate last Wednesday.

Petition To Pay Deposits Given House

Enough Signatures
To Assure Quick
Consideration Expected by Night

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—A petition was filed in the House today asking that the banking committee immediately report the McLeod bill calling for a governmental pay-off to depositors in closed Federal Reserve banks.

Opposition of the R. F. C. to the bill was expressed, meanwhile, by Chairman Jesse H. Jones.

It was said 145 signatures—the necessary number to bring the bill to the floor for immediate consideration—would be obtained today.

McLeod said this procedure was being followed because action by this session of Congress probably would not be possible under the ordinary course of events. He called attention to the length of time required to complete a measure in the House, and that Senate action still would remain.

As another development, Representative Brown, Democrat, Michigan said he is preparing a bill to substitute for the McLeod measure.

In his talk, Jones said he found it "hard to justify" the bill, and that there would be "a tremendous loss to the government" if the bill were passed.

HUGE INCREASE FOR N. C. BANK DEPOSITS

Hood Gives Figures Showing $18,000,000 Rise In Six Months Period

Raleigh, April 9.—(AP)—General demand deposits in State banks in North Carolina increased by $18,648,800 between June 30 and December 30 last year, Gurney P. Hood, State bank commissioner, reported today.

Mr. Hood released the composite statement of the condition of all State banks on last December 30 and compared the status with that on June 30, 1933, and December 31, 1932.

General demand deposits December 30 were slightly more than $1,000,000 greater than on December 31, 1932. "Those figures are evidence that the public is using the banks," Mr. Hood said.

Total deposits in banks last December of every kind aggregated approximately $173,475,000, compared with approximately $164,500,000 on account December 31, 1932. All deposits on last June 30 aggregated only $143,900,000.

Bills payable on the call day last December aggregated slightly more than $1,000,000, including discounts while on December 31, 1932, they amounted to slightly more than $11,500,000.

Aggregate resources of State banks and trust companies on December 30, 1933, was $203,295,400.56, a decrease of $3,890,620.10 under the total of $212,156,020.75 shown for December, 31, 1932, but an increase of nearly $27,650,000 over the total resources of $175,655,727.35 shown on June 30, 1933.

Not Guilty Plea Made By Cannon

Washington, April 9.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon and his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, today pleaded not guilty in criminal court to a charge that they conspired to violate the corrupt practices act by failure to report all the anti-Smith presidential campaign contributions they received in 1928.

Miss Burroughs answered first in a quiet voice. Cannon, speaking loud enough to be heard throughout the court room, then said, "Not guilty."

Indications that issues that played a large part in the Hoover-Smith campaign more than five years ago would enter into the trial proceedings came when court and counsel framed a question to test the jurors on their religious, prohibition and political views.

Twelve persons were called to the jury box immediately after the arraignment.

Official apprehensions were heightened by a communist statement which warned the nationalists that plans were being made to avenge the death of their comrade.

Nationalist headquarters were raided and sacked at Eckeren during a clash between blue shirts and socialists in which one socialist was wounded seriously.

SCHOOL SPENDING INCREASE DUE TO MORE LIBERALITY

State School Commission
Interpreted Generously
Certificates Held
By Teachers

CUTS UNDER 30 PCT. FOR MANY TEACHERS

1933 Law Provided for
Adoption of New Salary
Schedule for Teachers and Principals Based on Type of Certificate Held; Martin
Explains Plan

Daily Dispatch Bureau
in the Sir Walter Hotel,
BY J. C. BASKERVILLE.

Raleigh, April 9.—The $300,000 to $400,000 by which the actual payroll for the public school teachers in the State will probably exceed the original estimates has not come about through carelessness on the part of the State School Commission in estimating salaries, but almost entirely as the result of its liberality, LeRoy Martin, executive secretary of the commission pointed out today in a statement prepared exclusively for the afternoon newspapers. He also again asserted that every teacher will be paid in full, even if the salary requirements are $400,000 in excess of the original estimates, and regardless of whether Federal aid is obtained from the Emergency Relief Administration or not. As a result, the amount of the salary cut for school teachers will in many cases be less than the 30 per cent decreed by the 1933 General Assembly.

The reason the salary payroll will probably be between $300,000 and $400,000 more than was originally estimated is principally due to the fact that the School Commission decided to give all teachers credit for the entire number of years they had taught, regardless of any intervening change in classification. Until this year a teacher obtained her experience increment only on the basis of the length of time he or she had been teaching under the certificate then in effect. Under this former system a teacher might have taught ten years under a B-grade certificate and then have obtained an A-grade certificate in which case she would not have received any credit for the ten years teaching experience she had under the B-grade certificate.

But this year the school commission decided that if experience was worth anything to a teacher it should be computed on a continuous basis without any regard to the type of certificate held. As a result this year if a teacher has taught four years under a B-grade certificate and four years under an A-grade certificate, she is getting a salary based on eight years of teaching experience instead of only four, as would have been the case under the former system. As a result this A-grade teacher is this year getting a salary of $90 a month as compared with a salary of $100 a month a year ago which is a reduction of only 10 per cent instead of 30 per cent.

More A-Grade Teachers.
Another factor that was not foreseen by the school commission, has been that more teachers with A-grade certificates were employed this year than ever before which with the additional allowance for teaching experience.

The Negro, who started a career of crime by shooting a white boy when he was only 13 years of age, had been involved in a number of other criminal ventures before he was sentenced to die.

Johnson's office sent word that he was "out of town."
A personal investigation of labor conditions in various industrial sections appeared possible as some committee members expressed approval of the idea.

Opponents of the bill have consistently asked that such an inquiry be made before any legislation was passed.

The committee probably will begin executive sessions on the measure in about a week.
