CHURCH SOCIETIES ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOG There's fog upon the water, And a stillness you can feel, While in and out the silent gray The sea gulls veer and wheel.

There's peace upon the water, And silent, circling flight, And dories looming dimly Through a wall of soft gray light.

I love the foggy weather, When the ocean peaceful lies, With gulls the only motion In earth, or sea, or skies.

Highway Surplus Will Be Drained To Pay Road Debt

on the April 1 figures. This doees not take into consideration the regular operating expenses of the State Highway and Public Works Commission nor the reveneue collections expected by June 30. But even with the additional revenue expected, indications are that the net surplus as of June 30 will not amount to more than $7,500,000. But this will be only a book surplus, since at the present time the State has borrowed $2,515,694 from the highway fund for general purposes, so that the actual cash Salance likely on July 1 will not exceed $5,000,000. Yet a good many people and even some of the newspapers in the State, have interpreted the book balance as of April 1 of $10,913,576 as meaning that much cash is now on nand in the highway fund and will still be there July 1. Miss Harriett M. Berry, sec retary of the North Carolina Good spective churches next Sunday after- Roads Association and ardent fighter for the preservation of highway funds against diversion to other pur poses, took notice of the mrsunderstanding with regard to the highway fund surplus today and said:

"I have noticed from editorials in some of the newspapers, notably The Charlotte Observer and The Winston-Salem Journal, that statementts are being made about an $11,000,000 surplus in the highway fund and advocating its use for schools and other impression. The facts are that large bond and interest payments have to be made July 1, leaving a surplus of only about $6,900,000 or $7,000,000. This is not a cash surplus, however, but only a book surplus. And it would not have been in existence had not highways not been bled white by the the maintenance fund for the State 1933 legislature, which appropriated only $6,000,000 for the maintenance of all the State and county roads combined. As a result, we have already lost much of the original value of our

"Any money that is diverted from the highway fund reduces the ability of the highway commission to render good service in maintaining the roads. This makes it impossigne ror the people who have nott shared in the general road service to share the genefits to which they are entitled. Thus any sudplus that may exist in the highway fund July 1 should be used in bringing the hard surfaced roads back up to a standard grade of maintenance or for the rebuilding of roads thatt are worn out.

Here are some addition facts with regard to the State's highways that are regarded as geing worth consid-

This yeaer and next year, undere the appropriations act of the 1933 General Assembly, the Highway Commission can spend only $1,680,000 on maintaining the nearly 7,000 miles of State highways and only $4,320,000 for maintaining over 50,000 miles of county highways. In former years the State has spent about $6,000,000 a year maintaining the toate highways while the counties formerly spent $9,-000,000 a year maintaining the county

If present highway funds are diverted to the extent that the State can no longer maintain both the State and county roads, the cost of maintaining the county roads will have to be returned to the counties, which in turn will have to levy additional property taxes for their maintenance, as was the case prior to the enactment of the present highway law in 1931. If the present highway fund surplus is allowed to accrue to be expended for maintenance and reconstruction, all State and county highways can be adequately maintained without any property tax for county road maintenance and without any increase in the license or gasoline tax.

Unless the highway surplus is preserved for highway purposes only, the State will be unable to match Federal appropriations for highway construction, and thus lose millions of dollars in Federal aid funds it otherwise could get.

Claims Daughter Victim of Killer And Not Suicide

Sacramento, Cal., May 30. (AP)—With the aid of E. O. Heinrich, Berkley criminologist, who arrived here today, State Treasurer Charles C. Johnson, began an effort to prove that his 22-year-old daughter, Virginia, whose burned body was found in a local garage Monday night, 'was murdered by a friend" and not a sui cide victim as claimed by authoritiese. Heinrich arrived at the ohnson home durng the morning and was immediately closeted with the state treasurer. Johnson previously had outlined his theory that Virginia could not have wandered three blocks away from her home carrying a gallon of kerosene and a handful of matches, as the police and district attorney claimed, selected a strange vacant garage, poured the kerosene over herself, ignited it and then lay quietly upon the floor while the fierce flams took her
