

E. G. SHAW HEADS S. S. ASSOCIATION

Elected at County Convention at Rehoboth Church On Tuesday

M. E. GROUP AWARDED

Gets Banner for Largest Attendance Traveling Greatest Distance; Convention Is Very Well Attended

E. G. Shaw, prominent in Sunday school affairs of the First Baptist church, was elected president of the Vance County Sunday School association at the annual county convention held Tuesday at Rehoboth Methodist Protestant church in Watkins township. His name and those for other officers, which were not learned today, were presented by a nominating committee, of which Rev. C. L. Spencer, Methodist Protestant rural preacher, and Rev. S. E. Madren, of the First Christian church of Henderson and of Liberty Christian church at Epsom, were members.

The place for holding the 1935 convention was not selected at the meeting but was left to the officers and the executive committee to determine later.

The First Methodist Sunday school of Henderson won the banner given annually at the convention to the Sunday school having the largest number of delegates who travelled the greatest distance to get to the convention.

The convention was largely attended, and was presided over by Eric G. Flanagan, president of the association for the past year. In addition to the Sunday school workers, a number of pastors of the various churches were in attendance. A dinner was served on the grounds at the noon hour.

Rev. Shumard Peeler, general superintendent of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, and two lady group leaders of the State organization, were present and spoke at the convention, together with other workers.

The association is interdenominational, and open to schools of all the churches.

NEGOTIATING FOR PAVING PROJECTS

Mayor and Mr. Burton Confer With Highway Officials at Raleigh

Mayor Irvine B. Watkins and K. L. Burton, city supervisor of finance, were in Raleigh today for the purpose, among other things, of appearing before officials of the State Highway Commission in the interest of having an appropriation made to extend the re-paving of Garnett street northward from the present terminus of the re-paving project at Andrews avenue to the city limits. The present job will shortly be completed, and it is desired that they work on without interruption if possible.

There have been intimations that the extension might be possible if and when the money were available, and the State is now receiving an additional sum of nearly five million dollars from the Federal government's new allotment for road work. It is hoped that sufficient funds for the job can be given from that source.

NATIVE OF COUNTY DIES IN TENNESSEE

Colonel Charles Claiborne Passes At Dyersburg at Age of 87; Had Lived There Years

News has been received here of the death on June 10 of Captain Charles Claiborne, 87, veteran of the Civil War and native of this county, at his home near Dyersburg, Tenn. He was a civic and political leader and one of the most prominent and useful citizens of Dyer county, it was stated in newspaper articles from Dyersburg. Captain Claiborne was an uncle of W. T. Claiborne, of this county, and related to others here also.

He was chairman of the Tennessee State Pensions Board, and it was while attending a meeting of that board a year ago that he suffered a stroke from which he never recovered. On October 18, 1864, Colonel Claiborne enlisted in Company B, a North Carolina regiment in the Civil War, and served with that outfit until the close of the war. He went to Dyer county, Tennessee, shortly after the war and had lived there since.

Colonel Claiborne was a prosperous farmer, but found the time to give much service to county affairs. He served in the Tennessee General Assembly and was a member of the Baptist church. He was personally acquainted with Governor Hill McAllister of Tennessee.

He was married 61 years ago, and his widow survives, together with three sons and two daughters.

Funeral services were held on June 11 at Dyersburg, conducted by Dr. W. Q. Maer, pastor of the First Baptist church there, and burial was in the city cemetery.

$10,000 IS SOUGHT FROM CIVIL ACTION

Case in Court Is Longer Drawn Out Than Had Been Anticipated

The civil suit involving $10,000 damages sought by W. R. Beckham from J. F. A. Lamond, in progress in Vance Superior Court, was expected to be completed this afternoon in time for the June term of the court to adjourn for the term before night. The case was started yesterday morning and taking of testimony occupied the entire afternoon and much of the morning session today.

Just before noon attorneys were arguing to the jury, and the charge of Judge M. V. Barnhill was to follow before the 12 men sitting in the case began their deliberations. This was to be the last case to be tried.

DISORDERLY CASES BEFORE THE MAYOR

Two white men were tried, one of them on two counts, before Mayor Irvine B. Watkins in police court today.

Peter Insoe was charged with being disorderly and cursing and abusing Mrs. W. R. Lanier and with being drunk. He was fined $2.50 and costs.

In one case, Jesse Briggs was charged with disorderly conduct in cursing Blance Stainback and Mary Briggs, and prayer for judgment was continued for two years on payment of the costs. The same judgment on a like charge was imposed in the other case.

Further Shake-Up In Revenue Office Is Due For July 1

reorganization of the entire department into the three main divisions of assessments, collections and accounts. Terry is from Raleigh.

John Dorsett, in the license tax or "Schedule B" division. Dorsett is from Siler City.

R. A. Hoyle, field deputy, from Shelby.

Staniel Woolard, in the motor vehicle division, from Rocky Mount.

There were rumors that several other employees are also slated to be dropped July 1, but none of these could be confirmed. It is understood, however, that the five listed above have already been notified that they will not be needed after the end of this week.

While it is not being officially admitted by Department of Revenue officials that any changes are scheduled to take effect July 1, it is expected that announcement of these changes will be made in a few days and that the reasons given for letting these five men go will be because they are no longer needed and to promote more economy and efficiency in the department. Already about 20 employees have been dropped from the payroll of the revenue department during the past six months on the ground that the reorganization and better coordination of the department's activities made their services no longer necessary.

While the reorganization of the department being carried on by Commissioner Maxwell and Assistant Commissioner Noble has not proved popular here in Raleigh, especially among State employees, there are indications that the reorganization with its attendant reduction in the number of employees and hence the cost of maintaining the department is proving popular among the taxpayers of the State. Figures for the past two months indicate that the department is collecting the State's revenue now at considerably less cost than a year ago, or at a collection cost of 1.9 per cent now as compared with a collection cost of 2.9 per cent a year ago. This represents a saving of approximately $10,000 a month in the cost of collecting revenue, based on the total amount collected. Much of this saving is directly traceable to the modern and air-tight collecting and accounting methods introduced into the department by George Scott, former well known Charlotte accountant, now director of the division of accounts.

The various changes made in the department have been resented here in Raleigh because they have decreased the number of State jobs and hence the amount of money spent here with Raleigh merchants, realtors and boarding houses. For the State government is Raleigh's leading business and State employees, its biggest crop. It is also true that a peculiar psychology has developed here to the effect that if a person once gets a State job, he or she should be permitted to hold it from then on. But Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus has been insisting that efficiency rather than political connections should determine the fate of State employees, at least in the Department of Revenue.

Mexico To Elect President Sunday

date for the National Revolutionary Party—the party which controls politics from the presidency through governors to the mayors of this country—and is sure of election.

The opposition party, headed by Antonio Villarreal, is candidate, with Prof. Aurelio Manrique as manager of the campaign, is weak and is not regarded with seriousness. Both these individuals turned against the constitutional government in siding with the Escobar revolution, which was put down by General Plutarco Elias Calles.

General Cardenas is about forty years old. He worked at his home town as a printer. Later he became governor of his home state, Michoacan; then head of the National Revolutionary Party, and finally Secretary of War. Cardenas is known as a strictly revolutionary candidate in so far as he is determined to carry out the country's Six Year Plan—a constructive program of action set down by the National Revolutionary Party.

The National Revolutionary Party was founded as a result of General Plutarco Calles' proposal to the two houses that such an organization should be formed to direct the destinies of Mexico as a constitutional country. That was in 1928.

The National Revolutionary Party, with members and offices all over the country, has come to be the mainstay of law and order in Mexico through control of politics and a discreet direction of the country into constructive channels.

General Lazaro Cardenas holds the highest military rank—that of Divisionary General. He has always espoused the cause of Mexico's constitution, and has contributed greatly toward the country's rehabilitation. He will take office Dec. 1, 1934.

No Fire.—An accumulation of smoke in the Junior Order hall over City Barber shop from burning trash in a stove this afternoon called out firemen. There was no fire, consequently no damage.

Georgia

The Spanish were first to explore it, but it was founded as one of the original Thirteen Colonies in 1733 by James Oglethorpe and a British company of 114. The first settlement was at the mouth of the Savannah River.

The colony got its name from George II of England—a German. Its nickname: "Cracker." Its motto: Wisdom, Justice, Moderation. The state flower: Cherokee Rose.

Agriculture is its chief interest. It is 20th in area; 14th in population. Capital and largest city: Atlanta.

Pecora Consents To Head Control Of Stock Market

It was considered likely he would be a member of the new commission and become chairman later.

Pecora, who as counsel for the Senate committee, played a big part in drafting the stock market legislation, has been reluctant to accept a place on the commission created by the law, fearing he should return to private practice.

The White House was informed, however, that he had been persuaded to serve for a year as chairman if that post were tendered him.

Four Counties To Start Forest Fire Protection July 1

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Sir Walter Hotel, by J. C. BARKERVILL.

Raleigh, June 27.—Lenoir county has signed an agreement providing $800 for cooperation with the Department of Conservation and Development in a forest fire control program beginning with the new fiscal year, July 1. W. C. McCormick, assistant State forester, announced yesterday. Addition of Lenoir county brings the total of new counties to begin organized forest fire protection on July 1 to four, making so far 37 counties within the state system. Other counties making appropriations recently include Bladen, Beaufort, and Johnston. Indications are, according to McCormick, that at least four more Eastern North Carolina counties, including probably Martin, Anson, Columbus, and Brunswick, will also provide funds for forest fire protection for next fiscal year.

In case the counties of Columbus and Brunswick provide fire protection McCormick indicated that the conservation department is considering establishing a new district forest headquarters near the center of the area, possibly at Whiteville. In such an event, Robeson county will probably be attached to the new district since District No. 3, Fayetteville headquarters, is growing too large to be handled effectively by one district office. The new district, as proposed, would contain the following cooperating counties, in case all make provisions for the work: Robeson, Columbus, Bladen, and Brunswick, and possibly Sampson where considerable sentiment is developing for forest fire protection.

— what it means —to blend and cross-blend mild ripe tobaccos to "weld" them together

THERE are a great many different kinds of tobacco grown in this country and abroad. No two kinds are quite alike.

Every variety has a different taste and other different qualities all its own.

Some have more natural sweetness than others—some add a rare spice and a rich aroma—some burn more freely than others.

To get Chesterfield's milder better taste we take the right amounts of the right kinds of home-grown tobaccos, then add aromatic Turkish.

When these tobaccos are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way—balanced—each kind of tobacco helps to bring out the best smoking qualities of the others.

That's what blending and cross-blending means to Chesterfield—milder better taste. And that's why They Satisfy.
